esidents Gather at GOP Convention

BY RICHARD CRABB

rian Walton, young son of Mr. and Mrs. wight Walton of Arlington Heights, was one the first children to get a head pat and big allo, how are you" from Nelson Rockefeller ter the candidate arrived in Miami Beach iday for the National Republican convention.

This is how the convention looks to the litical leaders who are not candidates, legates or alternate delegates, but who go to serve and enjoy the American process of cking the candidate to run for Presidency of United States. They are free to go to the adquarters of all the candidates, to attend r rallies and to talk to others like themselves.

There are available some 385 tickets for izens of Illinois who are in Miami Beach shing to attend the convention. Each morning at 9 this week, they will go to the headquarters of the Illinois delegation at the Marco Polo Hotel and get tickets for that day's sessions. Tickets are issued daily in order to make sure they all be used. At least 15 of these tickets are being used today and the rest of the week by GOP leaders from Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine and Des Plaines.

ATTENDING the convention from the northwest suburbs in an official capacity are Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect, who is one of the 58 Illinois delegates, and Mrs. Arthur W. Jicha of Palatine, who is an alternate delegate. Delegates and alternates were elected in the June primary. James W. Good Jr. of Niles is the other 13th congressional district delegate and John J. Nimrod is the second alternate from the district.

Six GOP leaders from Wheeling Township are attending the convention as observers. They are Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Trautner, Thomas Houser, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Walton and Richard Cowen of Arlington Heights and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mihalek of Wheeling. Most of them left the middle of last week and were in Miami Beach for the weekend before the convention opened today.

Reports from these Wheeling Township observers at the convention over the weekend revealed these highlights:

– An Arlington Heights dinner took place at the Luan Restaurant in Miami Beach Saturday evening. Present were Thomas Houser, Sen. Charles Percy's aide; Bruce Ladd, Rep. Donald Rumsfeld's aide; Mr. and Mrs. Walton, Mr. and Mrs. Trautner and Cowen. At the next table was a dinner party hosted by William

3 Killed in Mid-Air Crash

BY LARRY WILLS

Elk Grove Village and Mount Prospect teen- were killed yesterday ing in a freak mid-air lision between two nes south of Milwaukee. ginia Johnson, 18, her r Richard, 13, of 510 S. , Mount Prospect and pilot, 19-year-old Ricky n Stenberg, 839 lwood, Elk Grove Village, were killed when their single-engined Cessna collided with a North Central Air Lines Convair 580.

According to Milwaukee police, the wings of the Cessna broke off when the private plane struck the fuselage of the airliner about 11 miles south of Milwaukee's Mitchell Field. The small plane's fuselage remained embedded in the Convair while the airliner landed safely at that airport. Only one injury on the airliner was reported. First Officer John A. Mazur received a broken leg when the Cessna struck the airliner above his window. He is reported to be in satisfactory condition at a Milwaukee hospital.

Milwaukee police said yesterday that the group had rented the plane at Mitchell Field in Lombard early Sunday morning. The plane reportedly left Lombard at 9 a.m. and the collision occurred at 9:48 a.m.

All eight passengers, the pilot, Capt. Ted Baum, of Skokie, and the stewardess on the airliner reportedly were not injured in the collision.

THE AIRLINER was North Central's Flight 263 flying from O'Hare Airport to Milwaukee. It was under radar control at the time of the collision about 1,300 feet above the ground. The Convair 580 is a prop-jet aircraft.

A witness to the crash, Marvin Lang, a Wisconsin Racine County farmer, said that pieces of a wing and bits of twisted metal fell into his beet field after the collision. "I heard an explosion and I saw things coming down," he said.

A passenger on the airliner, Pam Pavlowich, 19, of Manitowoc, Wis., who was returning from a vacation in Arizona, described the passengers' reactions to the crash.

"I just felt a heavy thud and heard a bang. Then someone yelled 'My God, take it easy,' then everyone got quiet.'

Milwaukee police said that funeral arrangements are incomplete, pending the decision of the parents of those killed.

Virginia and Richard Johnson were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Johnson of 510 S. Louis.

Ricky Stenberg was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Stenberg, 839 Brentwood, Elk Grove Village.

Pilot Loved To Fly: Friend

BY EMMETT J. SMITH

Ricky Rynn Stenberg, the 19-year-old pilot who was killed yesterday morning in a two-plane crash south of Milwaukee, loved to fly.

He even planned at one time to make a career out of it, according to Greg Gallow, a friend of Stenberg.

"He always used to say: 'When I die, I want to die in a plane,' " Gallow said. "He was a real nice guy. I used to go up with him a lot. He loved flying so much he once thought of making it a career."

Stenberg and Gallo were graduated from Forest View High School in 1967. Stenberg went to work several months later for A. C. Davenport in Palatine as a draftsman trainee.

He was also going to Harper College at night and was the only student in a special program the college had set up for draftsmen students.

Stenberg also played tackle on the football squad for his last three years at Forest View.

He started learning to fly when he was a junior at Forest View.

Virginia Johnson, who also was in the plane with her brother, Richard, had been going steady with Stenberg for about three years, according to Gallo.

She had finished her first year of nursing training at St. Francis Hospital in Evanston. She was a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary Academy.

Richard, 13, was in the eighth grade at St. Raymond's.

He was a newsboy for The Prospect Day.

THE PARENTS of Virginia and Richard were in Salt Lake City celebrating their 20th anniversary.

Two other children survive Virginia and Richard: Leonard, a senior at St. Viator and Nancy, a freshman at Sacred Heart.

Stenberg is survived by two brothers, Randy and Jeffrey.

Stenberg was flying with his companions to meet his parents in Milwaukee when the mid-air crash occurred.

Two Taken Atop Tower

Two boys were apprehended atop the Mount Prospect water tower shortly after midnight Sunday morning, police said.

James Patrick Carmichael, 17, of 3201 Pheasant, Rolling Meadows, was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct, according to police.

His 16-year-old companion from Chicago was charged with violating the curfew.

Carmichael is to appear in Mount Prospect court on Sept. 18, at 9:30 a.m. He posted $25 bond.

Average Resident's Age: 24

A report on the special census taken in Arlington Heights in September shows that the average age of residents is 24 years.

The census reported the population of the village as 52,787 with women outnumbering men by 527. The village recorded 26,180 men and 26,607 women.

The women also were a bit older than the men, with the average of women 24.7, while the men averaged 23.2. Less than 4 per cent of the population is more than 65 years old or older, or 2,070 out of 52,787.

4-H-ers Enjoy Fair Weekend

It was fair-weather fun last weekend when 4-H-ers from North Cook County got together to put on their annual fair at Sundance Ranch in Schaumburg. The fair lasted three days and included, among other things, a fashion show, food and animal judging contests, amusement rides, altogether some 2,000 exhibits and displays by youngsters. Also at the fair to tune up visitors was Palatine's "Sing Out" group. And to make sure they didn't miss a trick, 4-H-ers put on a rooster scramble and dog show.

Tired of it all, Kevin Senne of Roselle, fell asleep at the fair instead of watching his brother Eddie's goat. Apparently goat-watching just isn't as interesting as it used to be. (Photos by George Steiner and Steve Schmidt)

Familiar Faces Show at GOP Conventio

Rentschler. At that table an Illinois state senator who is an official Illinois delegate and who apparently is not entirely firm in his Nixon position was getting a great deal of "special attention."

– THERE IS unhappiness in the press corps because Richard Nixon chose to stay in New York to "work on his acceptance speech" rather than to make himself available to the press at Miami Beach. Nixon has scheduled a press meeting for tomorrow morning, but even this seems to be a little tentative. Nixon tentatively has agreed to meet the press at 10 a.m. each day as long as the convention lasts. Wheeling Township people visited the Nixon headquarters at the Miami Hilton.

– Visitors from the northwest suburbs were impressed with the attention which Sen. Percy was getting in Miami newspapers and television. He is the only vice presidential aspirant getting attention. There has been no attention for Sen. Mark Hatfield, Oregon, New York Mayor John Lindsay or others. Sen. Percy has been pictured swimming in the ocean, visiting the youth center and the Negro areas of Miami and meeting with other leaders of the party.

– Mrs. Sally Trautner and Mrs. Lou Walton and Brian Walton of Arlington Heights were at the 72nd street beach party for Gov. Rockefeller when he arrived in the convention city Friday afternoon. The Wheeling Township women were impressed by the youthfulness of those on hand for the welcoming party. They estimated the average age of those gathered was not more than 20. They noted the same youthfulness when they visited the Rockefeller headquarters at the Americana Hotel.

By chance, the Arlington Heights visitors were on the path Rockefeller took to the rostrum to address his welcoming party. He stopped to shake hands with Mrs. Trautner and greeted Brian Walton who was with her. Before the crowd could find shelter, a rain storm swept in from the ocean and gave everyone, including Gov. Rockefeller, a good soaking.

– DWIGHT WALTON and Chuck Trautner managed to visit convention hall Friday evening though they aren't saying how. As far as anyone could tell, they were the only "civilians" in the army of Bell phone technicians. The communications technicians were working around the clock to wire the hall for the opening today. Walton and Trautner said they were greatly impressed with the convention hall, though they thought the delegates seated at the back might have some difficulty both seeing and hearing. The observers are seated up high and will have choice seats.

– "No one can be here as we have been since Thursday," said Dwight Walton yesterday, "without being impressed with the difference between the way the Nixon and Rockefeller campaigns are being run. The on people are pros, many of them holding same jobs they held at the 1960 conve when Nixon was named on the first ballot.

"The spirits of Rockefeller people are be ning to sag. Rocky's organization her Miami Beach just can't match the fi performance of the Nixon staff. There reports that Maryland's favorite son dele will be released before the balloting begi is said that Nixon is only about 25 votes of getting a first-ballot nomination Maryland would give him 20 of those Within five votes of victory, everyone fi Nixon would find the additional votes."

Crosby Predicts Dawn Of Night Horse Racing

BY RICHARD CRABB

"Racing is a big fun venture, a fascinating sport, a great big crap game and a profitable business.

"Horse racing in Illinois draws more fans than all other commercial sports – baseball, football and basketball – combined.

"I think there will be widespread night thoroughbred racing in less than 10 years and we may see the beginning of the trend in 1969."

These are a few of the observations made by Francis F. Crosby of 4 S. Evanston St. in Arlington Heights who on Saturday closed out his term as president of the Illinois Racing Board. He also is head of the Illinois Bureau of Race Track Police. Crosby has resigned this position as well, but his resignation from the race track security job does not become effective until the end of October. Crosby has been appointed director of security for the Loew theaters and hotels.

No successor has been named to Crosby either as president of the state's racing board or the race track police. It is expected that an interim or acting president, undoubtedly a member of the board, will be named within a few days. The permanent successor as president will be appointed by the governor of Illinois and the appointment must be approved by the state senate, which will not be in session again until January.

Crosby's comments on horse racing in Illinois follow:

RACING HISTORY -- "Horse racing became important in Illinois in the summer of 1864 while the Civil War was still in progress. The top of the Midwest circuit in racing is Chicago and has been since 1884. The day the American Derby was run at old Washington Park was practically a public holiday in Chicago. In 1893, the year of the world's fair in Chicago, the American Derby was the richest race in the nation. The modern period of racing began in 1927 when the present act on racing of the state legislature was passed and when Arlington Park was opened with ceremonies that attracted the best known people of the Chicago area."

TODAY'S RACING – "In 1967, the racing industry in Illinois engaged the efforts of 11,744 people as owners, trainers, veterinarians, jockeys, grooms, etc. Many Illinois farms breed thoroughbred and standardbred horses. Nine race tracks and 16 racing associations, plus a number of charity associations, provide the pieces and sponsorship of horse racing in Illinois.

"In 1967, the attendance at these race tracks totaled 6,663,592 persons. They wagered a staggering $522,191,681 of which $444 million was returned to the bettors in the form of winnings. The remaining $78 million was taken out as state taxes, for the owners and for the horsemen.

BIG TAX PAYER -- "Illinois' nine race tracks as a group are the ninth largest tax payer in the state. As recently as 1941, or 27 years ago, the state received $1,791,000 in taxes. In 1967, the amount of state tax had jumped to $38 million. In the 27 years race track taxes totalled $422 million. The picture nationally is the same.

"In 1938, all race tracks in the U.S. paid taxes amounting to $9,500,000 – about one-fourth Illinois' present income from racing. In 1967, all states received $394 million and the total amount wagered at U.S. tracks in 1967 totalled $4,921,518,485.

PROBLEMS AND OPPORTUNITIES -- Crosby said that harness racing in Illinois is in excellent condition both as to attendance and the "handle," meaning the level of betting. Thoroughbred racing is not in such good health in attendance. Attendance has remained almost static since the end of World War II. Yet it is thoroughbred racing that deals in the top glamour, has the big name horses like Forward Pass, Citation and Man 'O War.

The reason, thinks Crosby, for the situation in thoroughbred racing is that the big tracks, such as Arlington Park, do not use prime time, racing neither at night nor on Sunday in most states.

"This was all right years ago before the great competitors, baseball, football, and basketball, were offering big night attractions

"I think there will be widespread night thoroughbred racing in less than 10 years and we may see the beginning of the trend here in Illinois in 1969.

"The big problem holding back night racing is the competition between harness and thoroughbred tracks. The harness people have the prime time now and are reluctant to give it up. I am sure this can be solved by some statesmanship on both sides and I expect to see Illinois take a lead in bringing about a resolvement."

Francis F. Crosby of Arlington Heights, who leaves tion as president of the Illinois Racing Board this that thoroughbred racing is not in good health cannot be until it moves into prime time—either eve Sunday racing, or both. Crosby predicted widespread ing within 10 years. Photo by Phil Schmidt.

Harper Officials to Meet Parents

Harper College administrators and faculty will meet new students and their parents at four orientation sessions at Elk Grove High School auditorium, Arlington Heights Rd. and Elk Grove Blvd.

The sessions will begin at 8 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 5; Wednesday, Aug. 7; Tuesday, Aug. 13; and Thursday, Aug. 15.

Seven members of the college staff will be available to discuss courses, procedures, and facilities. They are: Dr. Thomas C. Seward, director of counseling and chairman of the orientation series; Donn B. Stansbury, admissions and registrar; Harold C. Cunningham, assistant dean of career programs; Fred Vaisvil, placement and student aids; Frank L. Borelli, student activities; John Gelch, athletic director, and Donald W. Collins, architectural planning specialist.

Resident Asks Review Of Swim Pool Ban

Arlington Heights trustees will be asked tonight to review the village ordinance which prohibits above-ground swimming pools more than 2 feet high.

Mrs. Robert Reiter, of 1510 N. Kennicott, said that she will ask trustees to review the ordinance "in favor of the people."

Mrs. Reiter said she objects to the way the ordinance is enforced because only when village officials receive a complaint is the owner asked to remove the pool.

She said she knows of many pools in the village which are violating the ordinance, but which still stand.

Mrs. Reiter adds that she doesn't believe safety is achieved by banning above ground pools.

"If they allow 2-foot pools, they should allow larger pools," she says. "Kids can drown in wading pools."

Mrs. Reiter says she knows many residents who have pools which violate the ordinance, but who will not join her in her protest because the village will then ask that the pools be removed.

"If we have so many offenders, then there must be some reason for it. People enjoy back yard swimming," she said.

VILLAGE PRESIDENT John Woods said he is sure the board will give Mrs. Reiter a careful hearing and added that he hopes Village Attorney Jack Seigel could provide guidance on the legal procedures that may be followed in enforcing the ordinance.

"There is no doubt that there are impediments to effective law enforcement in this area, but the degree will be explored with Mr. Seigel during the meeting," he said.

Another citizen will appear before the board to review his plans for a swimming pool.

R. A. Burkett of 1221 N. Harvard will ask for trustees' recommendations on obtaining a building permit.

The board also will consider several planned developments during its regular meeting in the Municipal Bldg. at 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd. tonight at 8 p.m.

Study Ordered on Woodview Subdivision Sewer Backups

A Prospect Heights private utility company has been ordered to study ways of eliminating the sewer backup problem in the Woodview subdivision.

The Illinois State Commerce Commission last week told Citizens Utilities Company to conduct a study of the Woodview lift station, at Hickory and Park Dr., and the Tex-Vit lift station near Foundry and the Soo Line Ry. tracks to determine if the sewage flow can be improved.

The ruling came after a complaint was made by attorney Patrick Link, 1722 Woodview, who has been fighting the sewage problem in his area before the commission for 1½ years.

The study was ordered after commission and utility company engineers claimed that there is no alternate source of power or emergency equipment for either lift station. In the event that electrical power failed, there is no way for the stations to continue operating, they said.

The investigation by the commission revealed that only one station, Woodview, had a bypass line to handle sewage flow in the event the pumps failed. The Tex-Vit station does not have a bypass.

ONE OF the changes that may be made to the Woodview station would be lowering the bypass line to insure that basements are not flooded when the line becomes surcharged. An engineering report to the commission revealed that the line could be lowered as much as two feet and that the present elevation of the line has been one of the causes of sewage backing up in the Woodview subdivision.

Link has claimed that some aspects of the utility service in his neighborhood have not been adequate for some time. About a year ago, Link, the Village of Mount Prospect and the Village of Bollingbrook took the company to task before the commission after company officials attempted to exonerate themselves of responsibility for flooding in houses that did not have overhead sewer lines. The commission threw out the company's request last

Police Chiefs Cool T Walkout Proposa

The suggestion that police stage a national two-day walkout was not received favorably by Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect police chiefs.

The proposal came at a meeting of police officers from several large cities, according to John Harrington, president of the Fraternal Order of Police.

On the heels of a funeral for three Cleveland policemen gunned down by snipers, the walkout would protest what some police leaders co lack of support in ha racial violence.

"We won't walk out," Newell Esmond said Mount Prospect P Department.

"I don't think any d ment is going to walk ou

"We might be in sym with the reasons, but don't walk out," he said.

Arlington Heights Chief L. W. Calderwoo that he, too, disappro the walkout proposal.

Family Combines Careers and Hobbies

Music is another art that occupies the free time of the Wesley Galitz family of Arlington Heights. Tracy (left) and Wendy Galitz sometimes think it's even more fascinating than painting. (Photos by Joe Edwards)

BY FRANCES ALTMAN

Splashes of color, form and design are the ingredients the Wesley Galitz family have combined in both their careers and hobbies. Two years ago when Wes and Sandy Galitz moved into the white frame house at 1529 N. Petton, Arlington Heights, they decided to save money by putting their own creative and artistic talents to work.

Wes' work is probably already familiar to the many readers of Chicago's American, where he is an editorial artist. One of his most recent creations was the cover for their July 21 Sunday Magazine.

This one project required many hours of tedious clipping and then intricately fitting the more than 50 characters and shapes into a picture portreying "summertime."

ANY KIND OF scrap lumber, fabric or glass finds its way into an object d'art at the Galitz's. Even an old pair of hockey sticks were made into a picture frame by Wes for one of Sandy's burlap paintings.

Working with woods has become one of Wes' current pastimes. At odd moments he has successfully combined moldings with wooden squares to frame one of his own seascapes and has designed and built shadow boxes to display Sandy's ever changing collection of miniature flower arrangements.

In past months, he reproduced an old wall telephone from roughened lumber and is presently constructing a section of exhibiting shelves which will cover one dining room wall.

Sandy's second love is creating miniature flower arrangements. Each piece must be less than five inches in height and of live flowers. Since displaying her first miniature several years ago at the Downers Grove Fall Festival, she has continued to capture ribbons and recently took second place at the Arlington Heights Garden Club Show.

BOTH WES and Sandy Galitz took most of their formal art training at the American Academy of Art, although Wes also attended the Chicago Academy of Art. Sandy began her art training much earlier in children's classes conducted by Mrs. Ben Beson, a Downers Grove artist.

From age 10 until her graduation from high school, Sandy studied with Mrs. Benson, working in a variety of mediums and frequently exhibiting. In 1956 her entry in the Hinsdele Sanitorium Poster Contest for greater Chicago was awarded an Honorable Mention and spurred her to continue entering art contests and exhibits whenever they do not conflict with her role as a mother and homemaker.

Individuality is easily recognized in the Galitz's paintings. Wes leans strongly to the outdoor and sport themes that he personally enjoys. Hockey is one of his favorite sports and he was particularly happy at having the opportunity to play in a practice game with the Chicago Black Hawks.

Auto racing is another of his interests and he has captured several antique racers on canvas for his friends' den walls.

SANDY'S interest in flowers is reflected in most of her still-lifes though she is now experiencing a phase of painting Austrian village scenes.

One door in the Galitz home is reserved for the art work of their four-year-old daughter, Tracy. But their younger daughter, Wendy, is taking a two-year-old's usual interest in coloring on the walls.

One custom which the Galitz's have maintained is the annual printing of their own linoleum block Christmas cards. Fifteen years ago Sandy made her first cards and they were so well received she would not think of stopping, even though designing and cutting the block requires more than twenty hours of carving.

Wes then takes over and does the printing by jumping up and down on the block to assure the necessary pressure for a clear print. A collection of the used blocks has come in handy wherever the Galitz's have needed a small wall grouping for they have simply attached brass hangers.

Another of Sandy's flairs which is developing into an unusual gift item is the painting of doorstops. This project first began when friends admired her own doorstop, a rock she had spray painted and then decorated with contemporary flowers.

Sandy Galitz puts some final touches on her latest oil painting.

Household Hints

Summertime Stains

Stains and summertime go hand-in-hand. Grass and food stains are the worst offenders. Soaking an article in warm soapy water will generally do the trick for chocolate, butter, ice cream, lipstick, grass and flower stains.

Many people feel that soaking an item first in cold water and then washing in warm suds is more effective. But in every case the quicker a spot can be rinsed out the less likely it is to be permanently damaged.

For tar, oils and grease stains, rub lard into the spot thoroughly. Launder then in hot, soapy water. Chewing gum can be softened with egg whites before laundering.

Ordinary mud can cause serious stains too. Some muds contain red or brown clay or mineral ingredients which could cause permanent brown stains. First brush off all dry, loose mud; then rinse spot thoroughly in cold water before washing in warm soapsuds.

Stubborn stains may need special treatment. One of the handiest items to have is a bottle of hydrogen peroxide. Often fruit and berry stains, blood, tea and coffee will leave a faint brown smudge which hydrogen peroxide will remove.

But before blundering ahead too hastily, always remember to test any spot-removal treatment on an inconspicuous part of the garment. Today so many synthetics Are on the market that fabrics are not always what they appear.

Perspiration stains and odors in clothing can be removed by rinsing in vinegar. Wash the garment and rinse it. Then add vineagr to a second rinse and squeeze dry. The vinegar smell will soon disappear taking odors with it.

In the search for stain removers and bleaches, do not overlook the value of the sun. The sun can work magic especially on white items and generally regardless of the fabric.

Schouweiler To Attend Conference

James Schouweiler, regional engineering manager at Western Electric's Rolling Meadows headquarters, recently was selected to attend a two-month management development program at Carleton College, Minnesota.

Schouweiler, who will return to the regional center Aug. 12, directs the engineering of Bell System equipment in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Shades in Bath

Co-ordinate your bathroom with shades of aqua, navy and white, with perhaps a touch of green for a cool, airy look in the summer. Then simply change to bright yellows and oranges for more warmth in winter.

Vacations: Then and Now

BY GERRY WALSH

I have just returned from a vacation; my husband, my six-year-old son and I drove to Minnesota. It was a motel vacation-a happening totally unlike any vacation that I had ever had as a child; or that my older children had ever experienced when they were young.

When I was a kid, we went to the lake. That involved getting up at the crack of dawn, driving all day-200 miles-packing a picnic lunch, and arriving at nightfall at a wonderful cottage.

All cottages were wonderful. We ran like wildmen to explore the small five rooms, that were filled with old, old furniture, often wicker. The very same that I now see for sale at antique sales.

OF COURSE, before we could unpack we dashed to see the lake and the beach, and we tested the water with our toes. The strangeness, the wonder of it all; the mysterious quality of the unknown was a stimulant and energizer that was comparable to L.S.D.-I imagine.

We were completely happy, we had realized our dream. Our three sleepless nights were not in vain-this was our dream come true; two long glorious weeks to go.

Now the modern child runs to explore the wonders of a different motel every night. He discovers the swimming pool as we discovered the lake. He reports, with pride that it is Olympic-size; it is heated; it is indoor-outdoor; there is a snack-bar, and a pooltable, and pinball machines right beside the pool.

Also there are soft-drink machines, candy-vending machines, book-vending machines; and a bowling machine that costs 15 cents.

He knows all this before we have found our room!

HE IS FASCINATED by our room. It has a color T.V., an adjustable air-conditioner, a three minute sun-lamp (which he immediately tries out with all his clothes on).

He discovers the beds are extra wide, there are paintings on the walls, postcards and stationery in the desk; the shower has two sprays, plus a sliding glass door. Home was never like this!

"Hey Dad, their soap is all wrapped up in little tiny bars, and guess what--down our hall is a big noisy machine that makes ice-". Dad wishes he had the same enthusiasm.

All this new found glamour is soon forgotten and everything is secondary to the pool. Before we poor road-weary parents can carry in the suitcases-he wants to swim. He has no desire to go anywhere else.

When we suggest the local sights-the State Capital, the University, the shops, he groans, and pleads, "When are we going to swim?

OUR CHILDREN BEFORE they can read, can tell a Holiday Inn sign. They know Howard Johnson by the orange, sloping roof, and may know the distinctive displays of several others. In fact it is a fine program in reading-readiness!

The motel 'wake-up' call is a real thrill to the same kid that you can't get out of bed in the morning. My first-grader awoke at dawn, and lay on the floor beside the phone; he had to be sure that he would be the one to answer.

Maybe we should install a similiar system in our home-sure would beat our constant morning hollering.

CHILDREN ARE MORE outgoing and friendly when they travel. They strike up a conversation with whoever is swimming nearby, or the kid on the next swing, or the group that has the ball in the pool.

Children learn more by example, which is much more affective than words. I am sure that they notice that their parents are much friendlier and outgoing when they travel.

It would be nice if all young children could have the experience of a motel vacation; but they also need the chance to have an old-fashione one-a rustic cottage.

No pool, no T.V., no phone; only lake and beach and woods filled with small animals and miles of open space to run and play and shout. These places are cheaper and child-proof. I HOPE YOU CAN FIND ONE.

Miami Beach - Where the Action Is

BY RICHARD CRABB

Miami Beach is the political news center of the world this week, standing tall enough to crowd out much of the other news of all types. It is expected that by the and of Thursday, the Republicans will have selected their candidates for President and Vice President.

There are 1,333 delegates involved and a simple majority of 667 is all that is required for nomination. Delegates vote by states.

Here is the way in which the size of the state delegations is determined: Each state delegation consists of four delegates-at-large, two additional for each congresaman-et-large, six additional if the state voted for the 1964 Republican presidential candidate or has elected a Republican governor or senator in the last four years (Illinois has), one district delegate for each congressional district which cast a minimum of 2,000 votes for the 1964 GOP Presidential candidate and an additional delegate if the district's total was 10,000 or more votes.

THE CONVENTION hall where the Repbulicans will make history that will be heard around the world is a new structure, but it is built north of, and in e sense onto, the Jackie Gleason convention hall. Combining the central elements of the occasion, the Florida Citrus Assn. has mounted a gigantic orange elephant at the convention site.

Giving an indication of the importance attached to pictures, still and TV, at the convention, the GOP hall embraces almost five miles of catwalks overhead.

NEWTON N. MINOW, former chairman of the Federal Communications Commission during the Kennedy administration and a former law partner of the late Adlai E. Stevenson, is the chairman of the new All-Illinois Committee for Humphrey. Minow, who was an early suupporter of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, and 166 other prominent Illinois professional men and business leaders constitute the hard core of the new Humphrey organization.

Included on the list of 166 are Mrs. Mary Kinsey of 973 Margaret St., Des Plaines; E. Erie Jones of 266 N. Linden Av., Palatine and John J. White, Glenview.

WILLIAM J. SCOTT this week named Charles R. Loebbaka, editor of the Evanston Review, the coordinator of his campaign. Loebbeke is a teacher at the Northwestern University Medill School of Journalism.

Scott also during the week urged state aid to local communities to provide for higher police salaries and police training schools.

VICTOR L. SMITH, Illinois Republican State Chairman, has arranged for the lease of the first two floors of the former Abraham Lincoln Hotel in Springfield. For the first time all of the state GOP candidates will have their downstate headquarters in the same building.

The downstate offices of Everett Dirksen, Richard Ogilvie, Robert Dwyer, Donald Carpenter, William Harris, William Scott and Justin Taft will be at the Abraham Lincoln site.

EDWARD V. HANRAHAN, Democratic candidate for Cook County state's attorney, spoke before a joint meeting of the Palatine-Barrington Rotary clubs last week and proposed the establishment of a juvenile court in each of the five judicial districts of Cook County.

The northwest section of Cook County is in District 2. The courts would be presided over by a judge who would hear cases at least one day per week.

ILLINOIS BAR Association announced this week the facts of life on political contributions. Those people who take part in $100 or even $10 a plate political dinners may not claim any deducation on income tax.

Political contributions are classified as gifts and hence are subject to federal tax gift taxes. The candidate who receives the funds from donors need not pay a tax on them if he uses them for his campeign or some related purpose.

The Hatch act of 1940 limits political contributions to $5,000 to a national committee supporting a particular candidate.

Republican National Convention Delegations

TOTAL DELEGATES 1,333

With the big first ballot scheduled to be taken at the GOP convention late Wednesday, the number of delegates state-by-state will be a matter of key interest to thousands of families in this area as they follow developments in Miami Beach. Only three states have more votes than Illinois' 58. They are New York with 92, California with 86, and Pennsylvania with 64. One of Illinois' votes will be cast by Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect.

Seek Solutions To Student Boom

With the college population of the United States estimated to exceed 10 million by 1976, a national search got under way July 30 for solutions to problems stemming from the student boom.

Illinois is one of 14 states involved in Project Three, a cooperative effort of 14 states forming the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education aimed at developing management information systems for their colleges, universities and State higher education agencies.

The aim is to provide leaders with data about the costs and results of educational programs to produce better decision about allocating resources and will use a computer-based system to collect and report information.

The project is part of a three-pronged move by the U.S. Office of Education, the first two parts aimed at planning in higher education and new methods of college construction.

Illinois is the only Midwest state in the 14-state project, which involves Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

Illinois, with its central educational complex of highly sophisticated research and informational institutions, is particularly well equipped to provide a headquarters to collect and report data among the other states in the project.

New Job-Finding Program

A new federal program called WIN, for Work Incentive, effective Aug. 16, is aimed at helping AFDC recipients to get jobs in their local communities and become self-supporting.

Adult family members of AFDC, meaning Aid to Families with Dependent Children, will now be able to retain part of their earnings, which in many states had previously been deducted from welfare payments.

While high priority will be given to AFDC unemployed fathers, all members of AFDC households 16 or older and not in school full time will be eligible for the WIN program, according to FSRS administrator Mary E. Switzer, who added that WIN will operated under the Department of Labor, Manpower Administration. Local welfare offices will refer eligible AFDC persons to proper manpower agencies.

OTHERS WHO will be eligible, in this order, will be mothers, caretaker relatives, and other essential persons already in a work training program and who volunteer; youths 16 years or older not in school or training; mothers and others without pre-school children who volunteer and are not in training programs, then those in the same category but in training; and others to be determined by local officials in welfare areas.

The program is not intended to accept sick or elderly persons, full-time students, those living too far away for practical purposes, mothers needed full time in the home for child care or family illness.

TOP PRIORITY will be to move enrollees into regular work or on-the-job training, with the incentive that the first $30 earned plus one-third of the remainder of the enrollee's earnings will not be counted in assessing his need for AFDC payments.

Teddy Roosevelt Brigade

By Catherine O'

About 70 persons including this writer, heard the first announcement of a bizarre plan to secure the release of the crew of the Pueblo from their North Korean captors.

The 80 Navy men and two civilians who have been prisoners since their ship was taken Jan. 23, were the subject of the Friday night meeting held at the Prospect Heights Church of Christian Liberty.

Warren Hayes of Columbus, Ohio, father of sailor Leroy Hayes, 26, one of the crewmen, announced that he is co-sponsoring an organization called "The Teddy Roosevelt Brigade," designed to "raise a civilian army of at least 10,000 veterans of World War II to join us and go in to North Korea and bring those boys back." He said the idea originated when a Columbus man named Joseph Breinard, a gunsmith, approached him with the idea. The last paragraph of the brigade's platform reads, "Hey, look at us, North Korea. We are Americans, old ones, ones that well know the smell of death. We know how to die and how to kill and we are coming for our men. Damn you, just you try to stop us."

"I FEEL," said Hayes from the altar lectern, "that there are many veterans like myself who have one good last fight in them and we are going to use that one fight to get our boys back." Hayes said he spent 38 months in the Navy during World War II. The audience gave him a standing ovation. Five recruits signed up.

Hayes' announcement followed speeches by his wife and three members of the Captive Nations Organization, composed of persons from countries taken over by communists. The women members wore colorful native costumes. They were Chicagoans Vic Viksnins and Ted Zerins from Latvia, Simon Hrhorkiw of the Ukraine, who now lives in Palatine, and Olaf Tammark of Estonia, now of Lake Geneva.

Zerins said he had written innumerable letters to newspapers, urging America to guard its freedom and explaining what happens when communism takes over. He said the Soviets are complaining about him. "They know where I live. They have even described my bedroom and the hallway leading to it. If America becomes Soviet, there will be no peace for me on earth."

Hryhorkiw said it was an honor to be asked to speak. He said, "Only a slave knows the value of freedom." Tammarck spent years in a prison camp in Siberia when Estonia was taken by Russia in 1940. He deplored the fact that no one in this country wants to listen when he says that freedom could be lost here. He said the manner in which the Pueblo was handled should be a trigger to get people out of their comfortable seats.

"Freedom," he said, "should be fought for every place, every time, if we want to remain free men." He said churches should speak out against the enslavement of 20 million people if they are truly interested in preaching the gospel and the word of Christ.

REV. PAUL LINDSTROM, church pastor introduced Mrs. Hayes by saying, "We've had 193 years of independence in this country and tonight the crew of the Pueblo has had 193 days of imprisonment." According to both Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, Friday was the first time they had made speeches.

Summer League Good Thing

BY LINDA GAMMILL
Sports Editor

The Prospect Knights have just completed their maiden Summer League season. Although their 5-8-3 record looks dismal on the surface, what Larry Pohlman's crew gained in experience was well worth the effort.

"Individuals became better ballplayers," said Pohlman Tuesday evening. "We improved a great deal in hitting and fielding, and we looked real good in eight out of our last 10 ball games."

"I'm sure that playing this summer is going to help us next year," Pohlman continued. "I'd hate to think of going into the season not knowing the kids the way I do now. They know now what they are supposed to do – what I expect of them. They just have to execute it now."

Pohlman should have plenty of boys who can execute the plays for him next year. Nearly all who were brought up to play varsity this spring and played on the summer squad have improved markedly. Jim Carroll, the regular Knight catcher for both spring and summer, is a prime example.

During the spring, in 36 plate appearances, the Prospect catcher managed just eight hits and two runs batted in. He ended the Summer League season with 55 at-bats, and 15 hits, raising his average some 50 points. But the most striking part of Carroll's summer performance was his total RBI's. With only 15 hits, Carroll drove in 17 runs.

Even though he is one of the slowest runners on the team, Carroll legged out just two less extra base hits than the rest of the team combined. He finished the season with five doubles, two triples and one of the team's two home runs.

He also improved as a backstop, handling pitchers well and being respected for his throwing arm.

Another varsity regular who improved over the course of the summer was Steve Grant. Grant steadily raised his batting average from .222 for the spring to .339, high on the Summer League club. Grant also made the move from second base to shortstop for the summer season, and played some left field for Pohlman.

"He makes the plays equally well at short and at second, where he bounced a starting varsity regular out of his job this spring.

Another who played varsity ball this spring and ousted his older competitor from the job was Mike Wulbeckar. "Wulbecker is probably one of the best defensive outfielders in this area," said Pohlman. "He hit .290 and gained a lot of confidence this summer." The rangy outfielder moved from left field to center for the summer and proved that he could handle the extra territory with ease. Wulbecker hit only .206 during his varsity spring.

Of Dave Somers, Pohlman said, "Somers had a number of timely hits. He also led the team in walks and scored 10 runs. That's just what you want from the number two man in the order. He faced a lot of left handed pitchers and did well against them. He is the only left handed batter on our team."

Jeff Suss has steadily improved around third base. "He has better range after playing this summer," said Pohlman. "He made some real good plays for us. He has quick reactions and is a good defensive third baseman. I am looking for him to hit better next year also," said the Knight coach.

Others who made the varsity this spring but sat on the bench until the summer season began, Dave Lemmon and Sandy Quillen, have shown a good deal of promise and competency. "Quillen came a long way as a defensive first baseman," said Pohlman. "And I think he'd be the first to admit that he came a long way as a ballplayer."

As for Lemmon, Pohlman now has a fine utility man who can make the plays at short, in the outfield, at first base, or even behind the plate. In their encounters with Beloit and Holy Cross, Lemmon showed exceptional range at short, making plays from the hole more often than not, and also handling line drives well. "Lemmon has come along in fielding," said the coach.

One youngster, who played for the freshman team this past spring, is already being given the nod at the second base slot on the varsity for next year by Pohlman. That is Don Koehler. Pohlman said that Koehler's performance around second, even before the summer began, prompted Grant to move back to shortstop, his sophomore team position.

"Koehler is impressive for a freshman," said Pohlman. "He was one of the bright spots this summer, he made some nice defensive plays. He is adequate at second base, but still has to learn a few plays.

"At the beginning of the season he struck out a lot, but he has been able to reduce that and has raised his average some 80 points," said Pohlman. "I'm real pleased with him."

Pitching prospects are also good for next year. Ron Doleja has matured markedly over the summer. "Outside of the last game, when he was completely off his rhythm, he has done some fine pitching for us." He won three of the five games we won this summer, two of them were shutouts and one was a one-run performance where the run was unearned," said Pohlman. "He even did a respectable job losing."

Pohlman also mentioned Dave Jones, Warner Schlais and Dan Smoy as being good candidates for a varsity position next year. All have shown that they can be steady performers on the mound. Smoy will be a sophomore, and Pohlman looks for him to be bigger and better by the time spring rolls around.

With all of this new-found, budding talent, Pohlman still won't speculate on the outcome of next year's Mid-Suburban League season, but he did say that playing teams from other areas was beneficial. "Just having played other teams that were good helped. If you just play on your back doorstep, you get used to it."

The Knight coach is full of praise for the Summer League program. He says that he doesn't enjoy playing in the spring. "Summer is a better atmosphere for baseball. In the spring, with the damp weather, you spend most of your time trying to prevent injuries," he said.

Pohlman said that he thinks that within the next 10 years the suburban high schools will probably play baseball from May until July, leaving the downstate schools to start their season earlier if they wish. He even expressed the possibility of two state tournaments, one for the downstate schools and one for the northern high schools.

But, until then, Pohlman will continue to root for the Summer League and its instructional aspects.

The biggest problem with the Summer League is that, at least in High School District 214, the program must be entirely self-sufficient. The cost is high to each boy, and, run as it is, Pohlman said that he didn't see any way for the team to be sponsored by local merchants.

The Mount Prospect Park District supplied the Knights with all of the bats and balls for the summer, and that helped to defray the cost somewhat, but it still cost each boy $30 to participate.

Pohlman said that the cost kept Forest View High School from fielding a team because the district approved playing in the league but wouldn't lend any monetary support.

"I think if more coaches show interest, maybe their attitude will change," said Pohlman.

Pohlman pointed out that the advantages of the Summer League are great. "Other leagues don't have the best of equipment, facilities, fields. We have better umpiring, and generally a much better situation than anyone except the American Legion teams." Most of the boys in the Summer League are too young to make the legion teams, and many need the instruction as well as the competition.

Pohlman added, "The kids like to play when they associate with something like the school. Even though they had been on the varsity, they were just individuals. As the summer got on, they pulled together. During the summer, THEY ARE PROSPECT - that helps."

Logan Square Nine Takes 3-1 Revenge On Conant Cougars

BY RICK PRICE

The Logan Square Lions travelled to a cornfield-encircled Conant High School diamond Friday night, and emerged from between the rows with a 3-1 win to avenge a loss to the same club earlier in the week.

The win, the third straight for Larry Nomellini's forces, was attained for an outlay of only four hits, but a nifty mound stint by Mike O'Donnell made any further display of power unnecessary. The spindly lefthander tossed no-hit ball for four innings, and prevented the Cougars from scoring until the seventh inning when John Wendell came on in relief.

The Lions took advantage of a trip of walks to score twice in the second inning after each team had failed to scora in the first. Conant hurler John Furio fanned lead-off man Jim Kenny, but then Dan Miksta drilled a line single through the box to get the rally off the ground.

Furio then issued three straight walks to Dow Woodard, Pat Donahue and O'Donnell to give Logan Square its first score. Al Feldman then hit a high pop fly behind the shortstop that went under the infield fly rule, but Cougar shortstop Bill Seleste failed to make the catch allowing Woodard to scora from tbird. Mika Abinanti then slapped a grounder back at Furio for the third out of the inning.

AFTER BAFFLING Conant through the first four frames, O'Donnell got into a jam in the fifth inning when the Cougars got to him for a pair of singles and a walk. Some alert Lion defensive play prevented a Conant score though, as Donahue threw out a man attempting to steal second and O'Donnell nailed a runner on second with a nifty pickoff move.

The local nine's third run in the sixth inning came largely as a result of a key call by Nomellini. After Kenny had led off the inning by working Furio for a walk, Nomellini called for a hit-and-run play with Miksta at the plate. Miksta delivered a line shot to right field that went for a single. Kenny, who is not known for his speed on the base paths, was able to move to third on the play because of the jump got on the hit-and-run call.

Nomellini's strategy worked like a charm as Woodard came to the plate and smacked a sacrifice fly to right field that allowed Kenny to score standing up.

Conant opened the seventh inning with a single and a double that produced its only run and prompted Nomellini to lift O'Donnell for reliefer John Wandall. The stocky right hander walked the first man he faced and then was tagged for a ground single, but finally got out of the jam on a pair of infield grounders.

Logan Square's Jim Kenny arrives back at first just in time on a pick-off attempt by Conant pitcher John Furio, and is safe in the 3-1 winning effort on the part of the Lions last Friday evening at the Conant High School diamond. Mike O'Donnell and John Wendell teamed up on the mound with a five-hit performance for the Lions.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of the 65th Western Open, held this weekend at Olympia Fields Country Club in Chicago, tees off with a long drive in one of the rounds preliminary to the finals held yesterday. Nicklaus fired a 71 in the final round to win the $26,000 first prize, one stroke ahead of Miller Barber, and two strokes up on Bob Stanton, who carded a 277. Julius Boros placed fourth with a 278. Nicklaus, for whom the win was the first this year, tied the course record of 65 twice in the four rounds of tournament play. (Photo by Curt Wilson)

Denture Adhesive From Saliva?

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A new denture powder called Super-Dent converts mouth saliva into a super-holding denture adhesive. Although used like regular powders, when Super-Dent combines with mouth moisture it forms a new type adhesive. This adhesive literally defies gravity as it holds dentures in. Eating any food has almost no effect on its holding power, yet Super-Dent is safe and gentle to dentures and gums. Super-Dent powder is available at all drug counters.

Your Horoscope

FOR TUESDAY

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) - Get the job done quickly by employing a progressive mind and an alert attitude. Plan your time according to what you know you can do.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) - Don't be persuaded into taking things on the employment scene for granted. You can institute reforms if you choose.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) - Co-operate with partners and you should be able to get a new project off to a flying start. Avoid anything that smacks of argument.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) - Don't depend solely upon knowledge as you make an affort to smooth things over with relatives. Employ feeling as well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) - It is not so much how others co-operate with you as how you co-operate with others that will make the difference today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) - If job hunting, this could well be the day for getting what you want. Don't be overly modest when interviewed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) - An excellent opportunity for advancement could slip through your fingers today unless you pay strict attention to what is said.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) - Not the day for thinking you know all the answers. Consult others as a matter of principle; only then should you make your decision.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) - Help to bring about better working conditions for yourself and others. It will pay off in increased productivity.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) - Now is the time for going after what you want with all the energy you have. Don't fail to take others into your confidence.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) - If you would make giant strides toward success, you must rely on your own talents, not those of others. Be your own best guide.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) - A favorable day for the signing of contracts - but only so long as you've read the fine print and fully understand it.

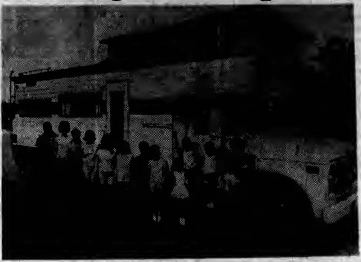
'World's Largest' Camper



Although the temperature in the mid-90's, Mrs. drew J. Bootz 504 S. Mount Prospect, was proud of the "fully gas furnace with registers" in their new built camper which, said, is "probably the in the world."

They'll need the furnace, Bootz said, when they the destination of their trip--Circle, Alaska.

And they need the "world's gest" camper to accommodate their family--self and husband, their 11 children and e cousin.

THE CAMPER, built on a ton truck chassis, "is pletely self sufficient," Bootz said.

In addition to the furnace, comforts of home include 6-cubic foot refrigerator, a water heater, lights and a 4-burner kitchen range with broiler end oven--all on LP-gas.

There is a shower and bath and 15 fold-awey beds.

"This way we are all under roof," Mrs. Bootz said. "This will be a relaxing vacation."

THE FAMILY recently left their permanent home in Mount Prospect, on the 15,000 mile trip to Circle and return, via Winnipeg, Calgary, Dewson Creek where they take the Alcan Highway to Alaska.

They will more than double the population of Circle, a community of 11 persons 40 miles from the Arctic circle and the northernmost town reached by any highway in North America.

"We'll be back in about six weeks," Mrs. Bootz said. "It's going to be a tremendous trip."

Accidental Death Ruled In Collision

The county coroner ruled accidental the death of Atilio J. Stockero, the Long Lake resident who was killed July 31 in e two-car collision at Barrington end Mudhank Rds.

Robert Batiste of Riverside, who was in the car which collided with Stockero's car, is listed in fair condition et Loretto Hospital in Chicago.

Both motorists had been alone in their cars, according to Illinois State Police.

A New Day For Des Plaines

Plans for a new daily newspaper to serve the Des Plaines area were revealed yesterday by Day Publications.

Full details on the new daily will be announced next Tuesday at a luncheon at the Seven Eagles restaurant to which some 200 Des Plaines civic, business and governmental leaders have been invited.

Day Publications, a subsidiary of Field Enterprises, Inc., now publishes The Arlington Day, The Prospect Day and the weekly, Market Day.

"The success of our present papers which, after a little more than two years of existence, now have more circulation than any other publication serving the same areas, has encouraged us to take this step," said John Stanton, editor and publisher of The Day.

"We believe that Des Plaines, a city with a population nearing 60,000 and with a thriving business community, merits a good daily newspaper and will support it."

Nixon Seen as Choice on Early Ballot

BY RICHARD CRABB

Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect residents and others from the northwest suburbs attending the National Republican Convention at Miami Beach were virtually unanimous in saying today that Nixon "is the one."

The first ballot is expected to be cast Wednesday evening with the voting beginning possibly as early as 8 p.m., Chicago time.

The reaction of Mr. and Mrs. Charias Mihalck of Wheeling was typical. When asked how they expected the convention to act on its 1968 presidential candidate, Mrs. Mihaiak predicted that it would be Richard Nixon on the second ballot. Her husband agreed, but said the Nixon forces would go all the way to victory on the first ballot. Mrs. Mihaiek is Wheeling Township Committeewoman and her husband is a deputy committeeman.

Even those who went to the convention with hopes for New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller agreed that the chance of preventing a Nixon victory on either the first or second ballot was next to nonexistent.

The Illinois delegation was to hold its second caucus today, its leaders hoping to pick up even more votes for Nixon than the 49 registered for the former vice president at the first nose count on Sunday. The count on Sunday ended with the 58 votes being distributed as follows: Nixon, 49; Rockefeller, 5; Reagan, 2; and passing 2. In the Tuesday caucus, Chairman Everett Dirksen hopes to move the count for Nixon up to 53. He is hoping to shift the two Reagan votes and the two delegates who passed on Sunday into the Nixon column.

RICHARD COWEN, Charles Trautner and Dwight Walton of Arlington Heights attended Sen. Charles Percy's press conference held in Miami Beach late yesterday. One of the network reporters asked Sen. Percy what came to his mind first when he thought of the vice presidency. The Arlington Heights' contingent stamped Percy's reply as the "press quote of the day." Percy said, "Hubert Humphrey is the first thing that comes to my mind when I think of vice president, and it is my hope that I may always remember him in that way."

Last evening there was a Wheeling Township table in the dining room of the Singapore Hotel. Richard Cowen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trautner and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Walton and Brian and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mihalek of Wheeling and Bruce Ladd, aide to Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, dined together to compare notes on

Jaycees Plan Golf Outing

The Arlington Jeycees will hold their golf outing Aug. 17 at the Arlington Heights Country Club.

To play, Jaycees must notify Bill Lange, 4738 Arbor Apt. 204, Rolling Meadows and pay a $6 check before Aug. 10.

Tee off time will be 1 p.m.

The Jaycees next general meeting will be held Thursday, Aug. 29. A board meeting is scheduled for Sept. 12 and a regional meeting for Sept. 22, at the Arlington [illegible] Restaurant.

Village Board Repeats 'No' to Liquor License

Arlington Heights trustees Monday reaffirmed their recommendation to deny a liquor license to the J&P Lounge at 8 N. Vail and instructed the village attorney to take the case to court if the Illinois Liquor Control Commission orders the license be issued anyway.

The trustees decision followed a 40 minute executive session during last night's regular board meeting, to discuss a compromise suggested by Howard S. Cartwright, chairman of the Illinois Liquor Control Commission.

Cartwright had suggested that a temporary liquor license be issued until October. Zoning regulations taking affect then would make operation of the lounge on Vail St. illegal.

His suggestion followed an appeal hearing July 24 requested by John and Eleanor Bensfield, 505 S. George St., Mount Prospect, who said they have suffered great financial loss because of Mayor John Woods' decision to deny the license in his capacity as the village liquor control commissioner.

Cartwright said he found no evidence during the hearing to indicate violation of any of the commission's 19 rules which govern issuing liquor licenses.

He said the commission would take the case under advisement and hold back its decision under the village board considers his suggestion for a temporary license.

Woods said he denied the license after consultation with village officials and trustees on the grounds that zoning laws becoming effective in October will make certain types of business and buildings illegal in the downtown area.

He also cited alleged misrepresentations on application forms.

Village Attorney Jack Siegel was instructed to inform attorney Morton Siegel, who represents the Bensfields, of the board's decision.

Siegal said the village would appeal to the circuit court if the commission orders the license be issued.

He said the specific grounds of any appeal could not be determined until the commission delivers its ruling.

Call for Prospect Hts. Annex Study

[illegible] intelligent approach [illegible] is to have a [illegible] made," said Everett Kelly, chairman of the [illegible] Suburban Council of Associations, at the groups meeting last night.

Kelly, who also is director of the Euclid Lake Assn., suggested that a committee be formed to investigate Prospect Heights' annexation to Arlington Heights or another municipality. He asked the other representatives to nominate a member of their association to serve on the proposed fact-finding committee.

Ralph Van Petten, president of the Prospect Heights [illegible] Assn., further proposed that the committee consist of two separate committees, one to study annexation and the other, incorporation. The council delayed discussion of the committee's exact form until a future meeting.

James Childress, president of the Wolf Mandal Homeowners Assn., expressed concern over whether annexation might eventually isolate areas less attractive for the annexing community's purposes.

SAID CHILDRESS, "I wonder if we are weakening our own purposes by letting them cherry-pick us."

Neil LeFebvre, representing the Randwood Assn., was ambivalant on the outcome of the proposed annexation.

"I have the feeling that it (annexation) could be possible, but 9 out of 10 think its going to be a gift from heaven," he said. "I think we're going to be left high and dry as far as facilities are concerned."

Where facilities were concerned, Kelly re-iterated his statement made at the July 22 meeting of the council."

"We need a long-range master program. The first thing the council should do is convince the municipalities to make a study of the cost of our annexation, which will vary in different sections since they have different problems," said Kelly.

Van Petten specified the problems in his area, Maple Lane, and its implication for annexation. He said the area there has a water problem, but he was careful to emphasize that it was related to the need for fire protection.

The council, which is composed of representatives of various Prospect Heights civic associations, discussed the area's police protection, vandalism and its water problem in addition to the annexation issue.

Funeral Services Set For 3 Killed in Crash

BY MAXINE TYMA

Sixty student nurses in white uniforms will form an honor guard Thursday morning at the funeral mass for Virginia Johnson, 18, and her brother, Richard, 12, of 510 S. Louis, Mount Prospect.

The two children of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Johnson, and Ricky Stenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Stenberg of Elk Grove Village, were killed Sunday afternoon when their single-engine plane collided in mid air with a North Central Air Lines airliner near Milwaukee.

The funeral mass will be offered at 10 a.m. in St. Raymond's Church in Mount Prospect.

The nurses who will form the honor guard are Miss Johnson's classmates at St. Francis School of Nursing in Evanston. In July Miss Johnson entered the second year of a three-year nursing program at the school.

MISS JOHNSON was graduated from Sacred Heart of Mary High School in Rolling Meadows in 1967.

According to her roommate in the nursing school, Gina O'Connell, 18, of 413 Prospect Manor, Mount Prospect; Miss Johnson wanted to be a pediatrics nurse and worked as a nurse's aide in pediatrics at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines for two years.

"She was a quiet, easy-going girl and was always happy," Miss O'Connell said.

She and Miss Johnson had been friends since they were classmates at St. Raymond's School. The Johnson family moved to Mount Prospect when Virginia was in seventh grade.

In high school, she was a member of the Sodality and the French Club.

Sister James of Sacred Heart High School described Miss Johnson as "very refined, sweet and co-operative."

Richard Johnson would have been a seventh grade pupil this fall at St. Raymond School in Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Alice Kenney, his sixth grade teacher, said he was a "happy and considerate boy."

"One of the nicest things I can say about Richard was that he was kind and happy. He had lots of friends and was just a normal sixth grade pupil," she said.

MRS. KENNEY said she is trying to contact the classmates of Richard to attend the funeral mass Thursday.

Richard was a carrier boy for The Prospect Day.

One of his friends and classmates, Paul Vandeven, 12, of 610 S. Albert, said the boy was "good in his studies," and said he was saving the money he earned with his newspaper route.

The two Johnson children will be buried in All Saints Cemetery in Des Plaines. Visitors may call after 3 p.m. tomorrow at the Lauterburg & Oehler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights.

The Johnsons are survived by their parents, Leonard and Rosalie; a brother, Leonard, 16; a sister, Nancy, 15, and grandparents, Mrs. Antionette Tomaino of Hibbing, Minn., and Mrs. Ruby Johnson.

Church Offers Corn, Melon

The Community Church in Rolling Meadows offered corn and watermelon to all comers Saturday. Lifting the golden morsels out of the fire is Lyle La Point, 3904 Eagle, Rolling Meadows. Buttering them up are Art Nyhlin and Chuck Brynelsen.

Kirk Kaczor, 2, of 8 Ridgewood in Elk Grove Village left the corn up to the others, while he finished off the stock of watermelon.

Schools Ask Parents' View of Tax Increase

It's not often that a school district sets a date for a tax referendum and then sends out questionnaires to voters asking whether they sent the referendum.

District 59, after scheduling a referendum on a 6-cent tax increase for Sept. 21, mailed 150 letters with a ballot attached to members of the school community council and a sample of parents.

Of the 39 who have replied, 15 favored a referendum, 14 voted for a tax levy without a referendum and nine indicated they were against any tax increase, said Supt. Donald Thomas.

Twenty-one of those responding were members of the community council, a group which advises the school board.

Mrs. Judy Zanca of Des Plaines, a member of the council, said "If we need a tax levy, we should raise it, but we shouldn't waste money on a referendum if we don't need one."

Looking ahead to future bond issues, Mrs. Zanca said that the approval of the September referendum might cause later issues to fail at the polls.

Noting that the board has the power to raise the tax without a referendum, she said that the public is at fault if it does not know how funds are being spent.

THOMAS SAID that, though the district can levy a tax increase legally up to 12 cents without a referendum, the board of education would prefer to open the issue to the public.

Board president Eugene Artemenko said that voters would have better communication with the district through a referendum rather

2 Hurt in Collision, Police Car Damaged

An Arlington Heights police car was damaged yesterday morning in a two-car collision at Arlington Heights and Golf Rds.

Officer James Eccles, 24, driver of the police car, and Ernest Brezinski, 47, of Roselle were treated at Northwest Community Hospital for injuries received in the accident and were released.

No estimate of damages to the vehicles was available. The police car was damaged on the front and left sides, while the Brezinski vehicle was damaged at the rear and right sides.

Brezinski was ticketed by Arlington Heights police for improper lane usage. He is to appear Sept. 11 in the Arlington Heights branch of circuit court.

Officer Eccles said he was driving north on Arlington Heights Rd. when the Brezinski car moved from the outer lane to the inner lane, into the path of the squad car.

Brezinski told police he used his turn signal before moving around a truck at the stop light and did not see the police car.

Eccles claimed that, because of the sudden movement of the Brezinski car and the wet pavement, he was unable to stop to avoid a collision.

3 Teachers At Workshop

Three teachers participated in a one-week Northern Illinois University workshop aimed at presenting new ideas to elementary school teachers and music specialists.

Vivian Erwin, 222 N. Salem Av., and Mrs. Janice Peterson, 514 W. Miner, both of Arlington Heights; and Neil Benson, 4726 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows, took part in the workshop.

Group Sets Auditions

The Elk Grove Masque and Staff theater group will hold reading auditions Thursday, Aug. 8, and Monday, Aug. 12 for the opening production of the 1968-69 season, a drama entitled, "Calculated Risk."

Roles are open for three females and 11 males, depicting characters between the ages of 30 and 60.

The play will be presented Oct. 18, 19, 25 and 26 at Dempster Junior High School, on Dempster, west of Elmhurst Rd.; Mount Prospect.

Following Resident's Criticism

Village Asks Review of Pool Curbs

Progress toward developing a workable safety code for above-ground swimming pools will be reported at the next meeting of the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees following criticism by a village resident who said the present ban on above-ground pools is unfair.

Village public health and safety committee members promised Mrs. Robert Reiter of 1510 N. Kennicott that they would determine what progress had been made by the National Institute of Swimming Pools in making provisions for objections trustees now have to the pools.

Mrs. Reiter said she could not understand how far the village could go in determining what she considered a private matter. She said backyard pools are a family, not a public concern and warned that small wading pools less than two feet deep can endanger small children as well.

She argued that larger pools can be covered and the ladder removed to safeguard children.

MRS. REITER objected to the village policy of requesting removal of the pools more than two feet high when a complaint has been made.

"If you're lucky enough not to have a crab on your street, then you can still enjoy the pool," she said.

She claimed she knows of hundreds of pools in violation of the village ordinance which have not been removed.

Trustee Roy Bressler, chairman of the public health and safety committee agreed with Mrs. Reiter that an enforcement problem does exist.

"I believe," he said, "that if we have an ordinance we should enforce it or do away with it."

Bressler explained that the board has considered the ban on above-ground swimming pools on three separate occasions and said "We passed the best possible ordinance we could."

He said the problem with the ordinance is that there is no model, area, or national experience with restricting the pools and that the public health and safety committee did not believe it could develop a workable and adequate ordinance for above ground pools.

Bressler said the National Institute of Swimming Pools had promised that a model code would be ready in January, but this had not been done.

He said the public health and safety committee has kept the matter of above-ground swimming pools under discussion, pending the result of the national institute study.

Village Attorney Jack Seigel told the board that the ordinance is difficult to enforce because of supreme court decisions which prohibit inspection of private property without "probably cause."

Bressler suggested that stores selling the pools in the area be notified that pools more than two feet high violate the village ordinance and asked if helicopter or light plane could be used to make an aerial survey to determine the location of violating pools.

TRUSTEE JOHN White said he couldn't approve an ordinance permitting the pools if generally-accep safety standards have evolved. He sugge when such codes are available, another revie should take place. " the fact that my wife pushing me to put one in," he added.

Commenting on a s gestion by Mrs. Reiter pools be licensed and in spected, Bressler said this would present a major in spection problem for the village, with as many i,500 pools requiring inspect ion during the first weeks of the spring.

All-Stars Add Win

Colleen Ireland had the luck of the Irish as she led the Arlington Heights All-Star Junior High Girl's softball team to a 19-3 win over Park Ridge last week with four key hits in five trips to the plate.

The victory was the fourth in a row for the All-Stars, and the fifth win of the streak came when they downed Palatine 8-2 in an Area Olympics game. Carol Burlingame was the big bat for the winners with two home runs.

Plane Backup Not Clogging Roads

BY JENNIFER JOYCE

Traffic on Chicago-area expressways may seem heavier during recent, sweltering weeks, but the stack-up of planes at O'Hare Airport is not to blame.

Last week the airport's control tower operators, claiming that they are overworked and underpaid, began to conform more closely to regulations, allowing a plane to land every three minutes instead of every 1½ minutes.

The back-up of planes waiting to land might cause more traffic in the parking lot and in the loading and unloading zones, said Thomas Enright of the Chicago Motor Club's safety and traffic division.

An average of 70,000 to 80,000 persons pass through the airport daily, with the heaviest concentration between 8 a.m. and 10 p.m., said O'Hare control operator Robert C. Schwark, 526 S. Dryden, Arlington Heights.

BUT INTERNAL congestion probably has no direct connection with expressway traffic, said Enright.

Any effects of the stack-up at O'Hare are difficult o measure because the average daily volume on the expressways drops 20 per cent during the summer, he said.

Police at the Hinsdale division of the Illinois State Police, who patrol the Northwest Tollway near O'Hare, described the flow of traffic "as usual," heavy at times, but not serious.

More than 10,000 autos enter and leave the airport daily via the Northwest and Tri-State tollways, according to figures from the Illinois State Tollway Commission.

A sizable percentage of the airport traffic adds to the 200,000 vehicles which travel daily on the Kennedy Expressway.

Any congestion on the Kennedy, however, cannot be traced to O'Hare.

"To my knowledge, there have been no reports of back-ups on the way to the airport," said the operations engineer for the Illinois Division of Highways, Charles McLean.

He said that, although the Kennedy sometimes carries an overload of traffic, this is normal for an urban expressway.

District 59 Asks Views On Referendum than through the board's tax levy.

Thomas said the extra funds gained, which would be for special education for handicapped children and remodeling of buildings, would be worth the risk that the referendum may not be approved.

Referring to those who have said they want no tax increase, Thomas said that the district would go without the extra funds if the majority of voters agreed.

"The people really run the district," he said.

The superintendent indicated that he was not compelled to follow the results of the sample poll.

The Sept. 21 referendum probably will be held as planned, he said.

District 59 Sets Pupil Registration

Registration and fee payments for students in District 59 for the 1968-69 year will begin Aug. 14 and end Aug. 21.

Registration hours will be from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Families will pay a maximum of two book rental fees and three fees for any other category.

The bus fee, for children living eight-tenths to 1½ miles from school, is $25. Transportation is free for children 1½ miles or more from school.

the first day of the convention. On several things they agreed.

The convention startled everyone by starting on time yesterday morning. Bitterest experience of the day was the foul-up of tickets for the convention. Everyone had been instructed to come to the Marco Polo Hotel, home of the Illinois delegation, early Monday morning to secure tickets from the 385 set aside for GOP leaders from Illinois who are not delegates or alternate delegates. On reporting to the Marco Polo Hotel, these persons found that distribution of tickets began Sunday evening instead and that only 20 tickets were left. After some difficult moments, everyone from Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships got tickets.

FROM THE galleries, it was possible to see the intense efforts of the floor managers scrambling for delegate votes. Gov. Spiro Agnew of Maryland, whose favorite son delegation was known to be moving toward release, constantly was surrounded, mostly by Nixon floor managers, to keep the Maryland group from being counter-proposed.

Rep. Rumsfeld (R-13th District), who is one of Nixon's floor managers, worked with the Michigan delegation. He sat and visited with Gov. George Romney for two hours during the first convention session.

There was no questi everyone from Wheeling Township agreed, that the biggest applause of the first session was given movie strong man John Wayne.

2 Women Accused of Petty Theft

A 20-year-old Des Plaines women was arrested by Mount Prospect Police and charged with petty theft yesterday.

Miss Carol Jane Knabe, of 331 Radcliff Rd., and her year-old companion, also of Des Plaines, were taken into custody after apprehension by a security agent of Carson Pirie Scott and Co. store in the Randhurst Shopping Center, according to police.

The agent allegedly observed the pair taking a dress and a slack suit worth $25, police said.

Miss Knabe is scheduled for appearance in the Mount Prospect branch of circuit court on Sept. 5.

She is free on $1,000 bond.

Elk Grove Utility Bills To Go Up

Residents of Elk Grove Village can expect to pay more for their gas, electricity and telephone service when a 3½ per cent municipal utility tax goes into effect Sept. 1.

Mayor Jack Pahl said the village is one of 50 Illinois communities imposing the municipal tax, which has been on the statute books in Illinois since 1955.

Elk Grove Village decided to levy the tax last June.

Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights have not adopted the tax.

"The money resulting from the 3½ per cent municipal utility tax in Elk Grove village will be used to upgrade streets," Pahl said.

The tax is in addition to state and federal taxes totalled on utility bills.

... with George Hamilton

"So you're going to the Miami convention. I know you are not an admirer of certain presidential candidates, but is it really necessary to take along that slingshot?"

"It's not a slingshot. It's a dowsing rod. It may help the delegates in their study of soggy platforms or water-logged issues. Or help them pick their nominee."

"From the tales seeping out of pre-convention coffee klatsches or prune-juice-on-the-rocks palavers, I don't think there's any help needed to forecast who will be chosen."

"On the contrary. Convention history is filled with stories of upsets. Take the 1896 Chicago meet when the Cleveland nominators got kicked out through the bolt of 200 delegates in favor of Bryan, which eventually handed the presidency to his opponent, McKinley.

"Or when Bryan and Champ Clark canceled each other out to make way for Wilson in 1912."

"Yes, and in 1924 McAdoo, who appeared to be a shoo-in, was sidetracked for Davis on the Democratic ticket. But I still don't see how your water-finder will guide the delegates to the people's choice, except by proving a candidate has water on the knee or on the brain and is thus unfit for office."

"Well, if the convention doesn't take kindly to my idea, I can offer other devices."

"Such as that zodiac chart?"

"Right. It has proved quite useful in helping a housewife decide whether it's the right day to leave the car in the garage, avoid answering the phone, cancel her appointment at the hairdresser, wear her red wig or the blonde one, or bid no trump."

Any dope chart that keeps the lady of the house from such activities can't be all bad. That's negative--what can you suggest along constructive lines?"

"Tea leaves, maybe. You know, 'You will meet a tal[illegible] dark handsome man.'"

"But a presidential can[illegible] didate needs more than good looks to get the go sign from the delegates."

"You must admit it is [illegible] an asset. You realize that even with your political savvy and my own expertise, we are not able to compete with an ex-ac[illegible] tor or a big city mayor with an Ivy League wardrobe."

"Speak for yourself. When does the next plane leave for Miami? By the way, may I borrow that divining rod, that zodiac chart and those [illegible] leaves?

"This ouija board might come in handy too. Look for me on TV."

Mobile Chest X-Ray Unit Expected Here

A mobile unit for free chest x-rays will be stationed in Prospect Heights, Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows this month as a service to residents of the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District.

In Prospect Heights, the unit will be parked at the Jewel Food Store, Illinois 83 and Camp McDonald Rd. on Thursday, Aug. 8 and Friday, Aug. 9. It will be in operation Thursday from 1 to 8 p.m. and Friday from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The mobile unit will be in Arlington Heights during the week of Aug. 12-16, at the Arlington Market Plaza shopping center. The service will be available from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday and from 1 to 8 p.m. on Thursday and Friday. It will not be in operation on Wednesday.

In Rolling Meadows, the mobile unit will be at the Suburban Drugs, 3010 Kirchoff Rd. from 1 to 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 15 and from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 16.

"OUR FIGHT against TB is by no means over in Arlington Heights or Rolling Meadows," said Dr. E. A. Piszczek, field director of the district.

He said that last year five persons in Arlington Heights were hospitalized because of new or recurring cases of TB and one case resulted in death.

"The total cost for their hospitalization, which was paid for by the taxpayers, was $11,877," the doctor said.

He said, in Rolling Meadows, one new case was found last year and two persons were hospitalized. The taxpayers cost for their hospitalization was $8,908, according to the doctor.

Watching the Masters

By Catherine O'D

If you watched this weekend's television screen closely enough it was possible that in the group of interested spectators you'd notice a tow-headed young man, tanned mightily by the sun, not missing a single stroke. Kenny Balinski of S. Prindle was not only watching the master golfers, he was working.

His job was to relay the scores of the professionals at the end of the ninth hole, run them to the scorer's desk, wait for them to be run through a computer and then rush back for the second half of the 18-hole championship Western Open Golf Tournament at Olympia Fields.

Golf is second nature to 17-year-old Kenny, whose own average is 82. He shoots in the upper 70's or the lower 80's and there aren't many golfers around who would want to challenge him.

HE WAS WORKING the Western Open as a volunteer from the list of Evans Scholarship winners. The scholarships are supported by the Western Open. Kenny is the only winner this year from Arlington Heights.

He graduated from St. Viator's in June after being on the honor roll for four years. He will be at the University of Illinois studying aeronautical engineering next month.

Besides winning the scholarship, he received an award from the Arlington Heights Rotary Club in June for outstanding performance in the community. Kenny shakes off all mention of the honors he's won.

At the moment his big thing is maintaining his home run record in the nightly impromptu league ball [illegible] Evergreen Park. He's [illegible] hit more home runs than [illegible] Ruth -- the park's [illegible] Yankee Stadium. He's a [illegible] nice young man.

WHOOPS!

Embarassingmoments [illegible] moments to remember. [illegible] many of the bus load of [illegible] nickers from a church [illegible] will forget their picnic of [illegible] week. The chartered bus [illegible] ed early in the morning [illegible] the happy throng was off [illegible] the happy eating [illegible] Crystal Lake.

They were not [illegible] for Crystal Lake, they [illegible] informed when they [illegible] enter the park and they [illegible] refused admittance. [illegible] whooping youngsters [illegible] return to "Start Over."

DOCTOR SAYS

Committee 'Polices' TV Doctors, Nurses

When you watch your favorite doctor on television, how accurate is his portrayal? The television writers and producers, not wishing to become a laughing stock, called on the Los Angeles County Medical Association for technical advice in 1954 and 1955. Because the programs produced in Hollywood were distributed throughout the nation this function was then turned over to the American Medical Association and that organization created the Physicians' Advisory Committee on Television, Radio and Motion Pictures.

Its nine members represent 26 specialties. All programs are first cleared through the Broadcast Standards Office. The usual procedure when a writer has finished his script is for that office to send a copy to the committee. A doctor reviews it and telephones his suggestions to the broadcasting company.

As an example, a script called for a doctor in a hospital emergency room to give an injection of tetanus antitoxin to a patient who had incurred a severe cut. The reviewer insisted that the doctor first give a skin test to insure that the patient was not allergic to horse serum. This is not only good medical practice but also good health education for the viewing public.

Again, a well-known actor playing the part of a surgeon refused to wear a face mask in the operating room because it would hide his lovely features. The studio was persuaded that the image of a careful competent surgeon in this case was more important than the image of the matinee idol.

Sizzling love scenes between nurses and interns in the hospital corridors were deleted and a "change of venue" insisted on. Such scenes in real life do not take place on the "company's time." If a nurse fails to answer your call light within 30 seconds of the time you press your button, it is because she has many other patients who are just as sick as you are -- not because it would interfere with her love life.

When medical subjects are properly presented on mass media they can have a tremendous impact on the viewer. In one sequence dealing with a woman who had a breast cancer, the attending doctor said that a [illegible] periodic physical [illegible] would save many wo[illegible] from fatal cancers of the breast and other organs. Keeping the medical [illegible] quences in your entertainment authentic is a valuable behind-the-scenes service.

Q—What is the [illegible] of Iceland disease? What are the symptoms, duration and [illegible] ment?

A—This disease, also [illegible] as benign myalgic [illegible] cephalomyelitis and epidemic neuromyasthenia, is believed to be caused by an [illegible] unidentified virus. It is characterized by fatigue, weakness, a low fever, [illegible] headache, generalized aching pains, emotional instability, depression and mental confusion. This disease may persist with fluctuating severity for seven months or even longer, but is is never [illegible] Since there is no specific treatment, efforts are aimed at relieving the symptoms.

Q—We have a 3-[illegible] baby. My husband [illegible] marijuana at home. Could this smoke in the room hurt the baby's health?

A—I trust your husband doesn't blow the smoke in the baby's face. Although there is no direct evidence that a small amount of this smoke in the air would affect the baby, I would strongly advise that your husband, if he [illegible] must indulge in this juvenile habit, do his smoking in another room.

Tapestry Becomes Conventional

The ancient art of tapestry has taken on a contemporary look. The canvases of tapestry makers are no longer covered with precise, little stitches, but with bold outlines whose shapes, rather than detail, suggest form and color.

The results are free-flowing, clean-lined designs that depend as much on the texture and tone of the background as on the ectuel pettarn. Bleached, natural or dyed burlap is a favorite backing for such work.

THE MATERIAL is stretched over a wooden frame, then pulled and stapled until the fabric is smooth end taut.

Afterwards, the design is transferred to the material. Sometimes it's e costumed figura, e stalking jungle animal, or an attractive still life. The nature and type of the subject determine the colors and various weight of wool used.

Most themes are adaptable as long as the central figure can be clearly defined with e minimum of stitches.

A CURVED tapestry needle and e variety of stitches—parallel, diagonal and perpendicular—bring the scene to life in half the time of former methods. Frequently, designers amploy geometric patterns. The work becomes a challenging axercise.

An outstanding example is e skyline impression in which all of the buildings are defined by a series of rectenglas, circles and conical shapes.

Once the picture is completed, it is framed. Often, the tapestry is egain mounted on e second, and larger, backing. The latter can be covered in dyed burlap, the same shade as in the scene. Occasionally, the second backing is tinted to metch the room's furnishings or walls.

The contemporary look of such pieces not only captures the attention, but e spot of honor in most homes.

A curved tapestry needle and various weights of wool are used to achieve design.

Geometric lines highlight this jungle scene made of burlap and yarn.

A minimum of stitches and a maximum of color is the new trend in tapestries, as illustrated in these panels of e Scandinavian couple.

Capes are current fashion news and easy toppers for knitters to make.

Comeback For Capes

If you are keeping up with current fashion news, you know that capes are making e comeback. And if you knit, no one need tell you that capes are easier to make than most toppers.

Capes have made dramatic entrances in many fashion eras. During the days of Charles IX, capes of semicircular shapes were the most popular styles. Most often they had short sleeves trimmed with fur.

ABOUT THE TIME of Louis XV, women wore dresses with bodies that formed a point in front. They were stiffened by whalebones and had sleeves with vertical pleats.

Then, in the mid 19th century, e sleeveless cape with arm slits became the favorite topper. Its design, featuring e double-pointed collar and two rows of buttons, was influenced by styles worn by the Carbonari, a secret political society in Italy, France and Spain.

It's no secret now, however, that capes are setting e smart fashion pace. Their simple styling looks well with both sports and city wear.

THE ABOVE CAPE is easy to knit in contrasting colors of Bear Brand Four Seasons or e choice of two other yarns. A single size fits 12, 14 or 16.

For your copy of an instruction leaflet for making this classic cape design, send 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, c|o The Arlington Day, P. O. Box 503, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Please ask for leaflet No. S144 and be sure to give your name, address and zip code.

In a soft crepe, jersey or silk surah and Empire style full pleated pantdress in street length or evening length would make an elegant summer creation. The pantdress has scoop neckline in the front and back with an inset band with bias bow trim and cut-away armholes. Butterick Pattern, new sizing, No. 4779.

10th Annual Midwest Bonsai Show

The 10th annual Midwest Bonsai show will be the big event of the year at the Hill Gerdens in Dundee, Aug. 16, 17, and 18.

Bonsei, tbe age-old Jepanese art of dwarfing trees to miniature size and growth was first introducad to America by Arthur Hill in 1902, not reelizing that Bonsei would gain such national popularity.

You have only to become e Bonsai enthusiast to understand how a tree of 3 to 300 years old in growth can be no more than e foot high.

EXHIBITORS throughout the midwest area are registering their Bonsai entries for the 1968 Blue Ribbon ewards to be judged in competition in the novice end professional categories--with e grand eward for the "Best of Show."

A panel of judges, whose knowledge of Bonsai culture has been acquired through the yaers, will be thoroughly tested in the evaluating and making of awards from the hundreds of Bonsai on exhibition.

The panel includes Kaneji Domoto, netionelly famous Bonsai Lecturer, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Walter Eickhorst, plant curator, Morton Arboretum, Lisle, Ill.; Mrs. Allan Marshall Jones, Landscape designer, Hinsdale, Ill.; professor John F. Kienitz, Oriental Art's Department, U. of Wisconsin, Art Kozelka, gerden editor, Chicego Tribune.

LAST YEAR'S Grend Award went to Mrs. Jules LaDany of Highland Park, Ill., for her entry of e 125-year-old Azalea plant--one of more than 36 awards out of 250 Bonsai exhibited.

Visitors to the Bonsai Shc will enjoy a day of relaxation in browsing through the many beautiful Jepanese gardens; attending demonstrations and lectures by Kaneji Domoto; viewing the largest display of Bonsai in the Midwest in the Bonsai Rama House; learning how to start your own Bonsai program from sessions in the outdoor Bonsai workshop (an added attraction this year), each morning from 9 to 11; end for those seeking tha unusual, the Oriental Gift Shop is well stocked with imported items from the Orient.

Football Season Approaches

Pre-Football Information Released By Walther

Arlington High School varsity football coach Bob Walther has released some information on the preliminary activities to the coming season.

Walther announced that football equipment will be issued Aug. 19-20 at the high school. Seniors will be issued the gear at 1:30 p.m. Aug. 19, and juniors will collect theirs at 3:30 p.m. on the same day.

Sophomores will be able to obtain their equipment on the following day at 1:30 p.m. and freshmen are scheduled for 3 p.m. Aug. 20.

Walther also reminded sophomores, juniors, and seniors that one half hour before they are issued their equipment, a running test for time will be given.

All teams should be dressed and on the field for the first official practice at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 21, but before this time, several requirements must be carried out to be eligible.

ALL ATHLETES must have a physical examination signed by a doctor, and must have a completed parent permission slip.

In addition to these two things, each player must have school insurance signed by a parent, and a combination lock. Walther stressed the importance of a short, neat haircut for each boy, and also a pair of gym shoes and white gym shorts.

Russ Attis, athletic director, will collect physical exam cards and parent permission slips in his office during the week of Aug. 12-16.

JUNIORS AND SENIORS can obtain their insurance numbers and pay their fees on the morning of Aug. 19 in the registration line at the high school.

Walther reminded the freshmen who are planning on going out for football not to purchase leather football shoes, as rubber sole, canvas-upper shoes will be sold at the school.

Freshman and sophomore boys will get their insurance numbers and pay their fees on the afternoon of Aug. 19 or in the morning of Aug. 20 in the registration line at Arlington.

Last Sign-Up Arlington Boys' Program

The final registration for the Arlington Heights Boys Football program will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 10 at Recreation Park.

Registration is limited to 450 boys, 220 spots still remaining. To be eligible, a boy must be at least 10 years old or in the fifth grade on Dec. 1, 1968. If a boy is 15 years old or in the ninth grade as of Dec. 1, he is not eligible for the program.

Boys who have not played in the program previously should bring their birth certificate at the time of registration. One parent must accompany the boy to the program as parents are required to participate in some league activity.

The $10 registration fee entitles the boy to the use of football equipment and a $50 deductible insurance policy. Parents are advised not to purchase any equipment prior to the registration date.

Girls may also register as cheerleaders on the same date and time. The fee is $3 and includes instruction in cheerleading fundamentals.

Orrell, Lesniak Place 10, 12 In Lakes Tourney

Steve Orrell of Mount Prospect and Jay Lesniak of Prospect Heights placed tenth and twelfth, respectively, in the Northern Illinois Men's Golf Association Tournament. There were over 250 entries playing in the tournament held July 27 at Indian Lakes Country Club.

The winning low gross was a 73. Orrell show a 79, 39, on the front nine and 40 on the back nine. Lesniak came off the course with an 80, 39 for the front nine, and 41 on the back nine.

Orrell is a varsity golf letter winner at Prospect High School, and Lesniak won his varsity golf letter at Wheeling, both winning their letters for two years.

The next tournament date for the two boys is Aug. 12 at the St. Andrews Country Club.

Tennis Club Falls Twice to Wheaton

Arlington's tough Tennis Clubbers dropped two meets Saturday to a powerful Wheaton club, 5-0 on the "A" level, and 3-2 on the Junior level, but the B's came through with a 5-0 win to save the day for the Arlington [illegible] ters.

To start off the bad day, Clint Parsons fell at number one A singles, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2 to Paul Coebergh of Wheaton. Don Johnson was beaten 6-3, 6-1 by Don Chapman, and Dave Johnson lost to Howard Bishop, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4. Bob Von Boeckmann fell at fourth singles to Chuck Lovelace, 6-4, 7-5.

The A doubles duo, Don Johnson and Von Boeckmann lost to the Wheaton Bishop-Chapman combination, 8-6, 3-6, 6-4.

For the B's, Ken Schaller took his match at first singles in straight sets, 6-4, 6-0, and Harley Gates defeated Art Liscowski, 8-6, 6-4. At third singles, Jeff Peek hung on for a 2-6, 6-2, 6-4 win, and Dick Ackerman won at fourth singles, 6-1, 6-1. Gates and Dale Kasl took the doubles match 6-4, 2-6, 6-3.

For the Juniors, Bill Von Boeckmann was instrumental in their two wins. He took his first singles match against Al MacRander, 6-1, 8-6, and then teamed up with Bob Gallagher to win the doubles competition, 6-2, 6-3.

Bill Stelling fell to Ken Hewlitt, 7-5, 6-3, and Gallagher lost his individual match, 6-3, 6-3. Stelling teamed with Jim Musgrave at first doubles, but dropped the match, 7-5, 6-3.

Yankees Earn League Title

After being shut out in their first game in the Arlington Heights Major League World Series, the Yankees came back and downed the Astros in the other two games of the best-of-three series.

In the first encounter of the series, the Astros blanked the Yanks, 5-0, on a four-hit performance by two Astro pitchers.

The following day, the Yankees bounced back with a 6-2 win, led by key hits by Steve Turner and Bruce Hanson.

In the final match of the avened series, the Yanks trampled the Astros, 10-1 behind a three-hitter thrown by Scott Rowander. The Yankee offense was paced in the title game by a pair of bases-loaded triples in the fifth inning by Greg Neumann and Randy Dove.

Geologist Appointed To Study Air Pollution

Jack A. Simon, principal geologist of the Illinois State Geological Survey, with headquarters at National Resources Building, in Urbana, has been appointed one of the 12-man committee formed as advisors on National Air Pollution Control Techniques to the NAPCA in Arlington, Va.

Simon and Louis D. Alpert of Whiting, Ind., are the only Midwest representatives on the committee, which will identify the best available air pollution control methods to the National Administration for Air Pollution Control, and indicate costs involved.

Control technology reports based on their findings will then be issued by HEW secretary Wilbur J. Cohen to remedy or removed any air pollutants threatening the public health and welfare.

While the HEW agency will indicate the effects of such pollutants on persons and property and specify the predictable effects of exposure, the States themselves are required by the Air Quality Act of 1967 to set air quality standards and work out plans to make those standards observed.

Promoted

Max B. McCallister, an Arlington Heights resident, has been appointed central region manager of International Harvester Company's Farm Equipment division.

MANAGEMENT RETAIL

has a challenge for you

In less than 6 years we have grown to over 65 stores in the Chicago metropolitan market ... new stores now being built with emphasis in Northwest areas.

One significant reason for this continued growth has been our fortune in attracting capable young men who have the drive and ability to assume substantial responsibility in an extremely short span of time.

Some of the characteristics of our successful management candidates are:

... wants a situation that provides an entrepreneurial environment.
... has or is completing his college education.
... is under 30.
... has progressed in his overall business career, but his present assignment is static.
... enjoys the demands of people - development.
... earns a salary around $7,800 per year.

If you are interested in learning more about our growth and your potential, call or apply:

ork on Field Lights For Knights to Begin materials for con- ting the lights for ect High School's foot- field have been ordered work should begin next , according to Jack tello, who heads the hts for Knights" fund committee. America Contractors of Des Plaines submitted the low bid of $14,900 for installing and wiring the lights, and the Revere Corp. submitted the low bid of $10,995 for supplying the six poles and the banks of lights.

The floods will be quartz-oval lights, Costello said. With these, the entire field can be illuminated for about $4 an hour.

Before this type of lighting came into use about five years ago, it cost about $100 to illuminate a football field for an evening, Costello said.

"Knights" is the nickname of Prospect High School sports teams.

urvey Shows Support or School Referendum majority of shoppers at a Mount Prospect center yesterday said favor the School District referendum set for Sept.

The 6-cent tax increase go toward building a special education building for handicapped children and would provide funds for improving the schools to meet the Illinois Fire Prevention and Life Safety Code.

The persons interviewed are residents of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines and Elk Grove Village. All live in areas included in District 59.

Most of the voters, who expressed approval of the tax increase, said they are concerned with improving education for handicapped students.

n for it if the tax goes toward fire safety. about the fire at Our Lady of Angels as an example? I think we need the ndum." – Nancy Ellsworth, 758 W. ter, Mount Prospect.

"If you mean, am I willing to pay 6 cents for handicapped children and for better education and health standards, the answer is Yes." – Sam Clickman, 249 Bennett La., Des Plaines.

guess I'm just against all taxes. We've so many now already that it seems like time you turn around they're taxing us more." – Edward Borycaks, 241 Fern Elk Grove Village.

"I don't see that the increase could hurt. We're going to be taxed regardless. The handicapped need help. Just because I have three healthy children, it doesn't mean everybody does." – Mrs. F. D. Michel, 817 Ambleside Rd., Des Plaines.

Home Nurse Program Starts Here This Fall

Home nursing will be added to the services of Northwest Community Hospital early this fall.

The service, a regular part of the hospital nursing department, will extend out into the townships utilizing Northwest Community Hospital; Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Barrington.

Its purpose is to aid those in need of nursing who do not require hospitalization. The chronically ill, handicapped and Medicare patients would be the predominant users of the program.

The Chicago Heart Assn. has conducted preliminary studies of the need for home care and has sparked several meetings to determine the extent the area hospitals can and are willing to extend the nursing service beyond their own buildings.

THE VISITING nurse will be supervised by the hospital's director of nursing. Like her hospital colleagues she will respond to the requests of the patients' attending physicians. Doctors whose patients must stay home will ask for a visiting nurse along with a written order for treatment.

The nurse will arrange an appointment and whatever medical setups are required.

A FEATURE of the program will be to teach the patient and members of their family to take over the procedure from the visiting nurse.

The hospital now provides instructions for patients about to be discharged who require special diets. The home care program will follow a similar procedure.

Patients over 65 will be able to take advantage of the home care service under Medicare provisions.

Home health service has been a topic of discussion in the area for several years.

It was approved by the Arlington Heights Village Board in January, 1967, as a part of a proposal by the Public Safety Committee.

'Crime Stop' Project to Start

September 23 has been set as the target date for the launching of "Crime Stop" in Arlington Heights.

Tuesday night, the Citizens Committee for Respect for Law and Order set the date and made plans for putting into operation the program which would enlist citizen support in reporting suspicious activities in the community to police.

FORMED three weeks ago, the committee is the result of an Illinois Chamber of Commerce suggestion that local action groups be formed to counteract increased crime rates. The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce took up the idea here.

Crime Stop would provide identification cards with numbers for citizens joining the program. When calling the police, the caller need only give his number and not his name.

The committee believes this would protect the identity of the caller and encourage greater citizen's assistance for police in reporting suspicious actions.

The committee plans for confidential lists of Crime Stop members to be maintained by the police chief and by the Chamber of Commerce. The chamber would handle the clerical work of issuing identification cards.

CHAIRMEN Wayne Brennan said: "Citizen participation is one of the big answers to helping out police. And this is the kind of program which will do it."

Police Chief L. W. Calderwood called the proposal "worthwhile work."

Practical Offset Printers of Arlington Heights has volunteered to donate the labor necessary to prepare the application forms and identification cards which will be used in the program.

The identification card will bear a replica of the Arlington Heights police star with the inscription:

"Help the man behind the star."

MEMBERS of the Crime Stop program also will receive a decal or bumper sticker for their automobiles.

Committee members discussed possible means of distributing the application forms and providing information on the aims and operation of Crime Stop.

Tentatively considered as means for distribution include utility billings, newspaper columns, newspaper carrier boys or billings from local merchants, as well as pick-up points in downtown locations, such as the Municipal Building.

COMMITTEE member Harold Bell, executive director of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, is to invite representatives of local civic groups to join the committee at its next meeting, in hopes that greater community support can be obtained.

Such cities as Chicago, Rockford, and Flint, Mich. have operated successful citizen-aid-to-police programs for some time.

Committee members hope to eventually achieve a membership of 5,000 within the village.

Convention Fever Spreading

BY RICHARD CRABB

That rare kind of tension that only a national political convention can generate as the first ballot approaches is being felt everywhere and by everyone in Miami Beach today.

"Everyone in any way connected with the big show feels it," said Dwight Walton of Arlington Heights, one of several GOP leaders from the northwest suburbs in Miami Beach awaiting the selection of the Presidential candidate this evening.

"This is especially true since the second session that took place Monday evening and the session on Tuesday were dealt largely in procedural matters and lacked the interest of either the opening session or the climax session Wednesday evening," the Wheeling Township Republican Organization's vice-chairman explained.

"We've talked to many who have attended several national conventions, including the one in 1964, and they report that it is always the same. They explained that there was the same talk about stopping Goldwater just as there is talk of stopping Nixon now, right up until balloting."

"It was Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller that talked then of stopping the Goldwater bandwagon, but when the first ballot was over, Goldwater had won."

ACTUALLY, the first ballot at the 1964 GOP convention in San Francisco makes interesting reading as the hour of the first ballot in the 1968 convention comes closer.

It produced these results:

Goldwater, [illegible] needed for nomination; Scranton, 214; Rockefeller, 114; Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, 27; Fong of Hawaii, 5; Judd of Minnesota, 22; Romney, 41; and Lodge of Massachusetts, 2.

In the 1960 convention, Richard Nixon got 1,311 votes on the first ballot to 10 for Barry Goldwater, who moved to make the ballot unanimous at the close of state-by-state voting.

Sen. Charles Percy planned to ease the tension of waiting for his friends today by arranging for a 120-foot yacht for an afternoon off-shore party today. Included among the guests were to be Mr. and Mrs. Charles [illegible] of Wheeling, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Trautner and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Walton.

Bernie Zinkgraf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard Zinkgraf of Prospect Heights who will be a freshman in college this

In Miami Beach ...

The Florida Citrus Commission, not content with its huge plastic orange elephant at the entrance to the convention hall, introduced a live animal yesterday attended by pretty girls.

... And Here

Some young Republicans in Arlington Heights had ideas of their own about the right Presidential candidate yesterday afternoon. The group staged a spontaneous demonstration, marching around their neighborhood with "Nixon in '68" signs and carrying an American flag.

Vacation Planning Pays Off, Says Wri

BY JAN BONE

Half an hour at O'Hare Airport with a stack of telephone books and a batch of six-cent stamps, can bring your family vacation happiness.

Wherever you're going, you can get the red carpet treatment if you do some advance planning.

WE WOUND up, for instance, having lunch on a guided missile destroyer in San Diego, with a personal two-hour tour of the ship arranged for our four sons.

And the Bureau of Reclamation, which handles water needs for western states, assigned an engineer to give our family a behind-the-scenes look at hydraulic models of dams in its Denver research laboratories.

We also had invitations to visit an Idaho trout processing plant, a sugar beet factory, a rubber company, and a date packing operation.

You too can find out about special places to visit. Just take a notebook and a couple of sharpened pencils, and head for the telephone center in either of the main O'Hare terminals.

THERE YOU'LL find phone books from across the nation---Anchorage to Zelienople, Pa.

In the classified directory sections of each city you plan to visit, look up the Chamber of Commerce, or the city hall. Some major cities, such as Denver, run special hospitality bureaus.

Bell Telephone's indexing system usually puts such listings under G---for government—and then breaks them down by city, county, state and federal agencies.

For each area you hope to see, get street addresses and phone numbers for city government, the local radio station, the local newspaper, and the police department.

LOOK IN the classified section, also, for industries which might provide plant tour possibilities.

Your best bet may not be the nationally-famous companies. Usually they are too big to bother with individual families on vacation.

However, a smaller industrial firm may respond very well to a request for a tour. We tried the approach:

"Never before have we been in your state. We may never come back again. We picked your company as typical of your state's economy. Won't you please let us come to see you?"

IF YOU are writing to Chambers of Commerce, you may want to offer to pay for literature.

Most of the time, they'll send it free, but the fact that you made the suggestion may bring you extra booklets.

Why do you need the radio, newspaper, and police addresses?

No matter how many letters you send out, some of your companies won't get around to answering before you leave on your vacation.

If you find yourself in a strange city, not knowing what to see, phone the radio station, the local newspaper, or even the police.

IF YOU tell them you're touring, and ask them what they take their own children to see, chances are you will not go wrong by following their advice.

That is how we wound up, for instance, hiking a lava trail at Sunset Crater National Monument, near Flagstaff, Ariz., that none of our travel literature had bothered to mention.

Ice caves, cinder cones, and aa (which is really spelled that way, but pronounced ah-ah) lava flow gave us an adventure during our western vacation.

You too can have one.

Hansen To Back Nixon

Carl R. Hansen of Mount Prospect, one of the 58 Illinois delegates to the National Republican Convention, explained his vote for Nixon to The Day.

He had steadfastly refused to publicly state his choice before the Illinois delegation met for its first caucus at Miami Beach.

"Jim Good and I pledged on the day we filed (March 4) to run as convention delegates from the 13th Congressional District that we would not reveal our choice for president until an official caucus of the Illinois delegation," Hansen said.

"We remained uncommitted until the delegation met in Miami Beach and decided to make public the choice of each delegate. Both Good and I expressed a preference for Richard Nixon.

"Four factors were taken carefully into consideration in reaching our decision. First, we voted according to our conscience--who would make the best president. Secondly, we considered what we believed to be the wishes of those we represent. The third consideration was what choice would maintain high level teamwork within the Illinois delegation. Finally, we considered what choice would be best for the Republican party."

uper-Machine eeds Paving f 7 Streets

Seven streets in downtown Arlington Heights will be resurfaced at the end of this month using a system new to the village.

Expected to be completed in three days, the streets will be repaved using the Cutler process.

Village Manager L.A. Hanson describes the Cutler process this way:

A machine more than 50 foot long simultaneously will heat the road surface, scrape off the top layer, and combine new asphalt with removed material before spreading a new surface.

The machine crawls along the roadway completing the surfacing as it moves, Hanson said.

The process will save considerable time in completing the project and avoid the traffic congestion which would result if the streets were blocked off for long periods of time, according to Hanson.

The machine also will avoid drainage problems that result from building up layers of pavement.

Approved by the village trustees Monday night, the project will cost $27,800 and will be charged to the village's motor fuel tax account.

fall, is a page on the Nixon staff.

Tuesday night on his evening off, he sat with Wheeling Township people attending the main event. Zinkgraf is staying at the Marco Polo Hotel with the Illinois delegation.

SALLY Trautner of Arlington Heights is making a collection of autographs of well-known persons at the convention.

She met Sen. Percy in a moment's lull during a radio interview, and Percy graciously gave his autograph.

Pat Nixon, who was seated with her daughters about five feet from the Trautners at the evening session Tuesday, refused her an autograph with the same graciousness. "Actually, Mrs. Nixon was justified because, as she said, if she attempted to give autographs at the convention there would be just no end to it. She said that she was sorry and she would gladly give me an autograph at another time."

One of the highlights outside the convention hall is the large number of eating places open until the early hours of the morning. Last night after the convention session, the Wheeling Township crowd went to Piccolo's Italian Restaurant. They agreed that Picoplo's was just like the Country Store, Tony's Fish Market and all the others they had visited — wonderful.

THE TICKET situation for Illinois spectators continues to be the only real blot on the convention arrangements.

Although Illinois' delegation is supposed to have nearly 400 tickets for the convention hall, Dave Brown, central committeeman for the 13th District, never has had more than 30 tickets to distribute. On Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Mihalek of Wheeling were unable to secure tickets for the session.

Some of their Wheeling friends who had tickets "rebelled" and the entire party went on a visit to the Keys south of Miami.

Richard Cowen made his mark on the Miami Beach scene Tuesday. He went swimming in the pool at the Evans-Governor Hotel where Sen. Percy and his staff are staying and collapsed the diving board.

"It was just a simple front dive," explained Cowen, "but when I jumped the board just kept going down."

Pay Up, But Not So Soon

You now have another 24 hours to pay parking tickets.

Arlington Heights trustees approved an ordinance Monday night which allows 48 hours leeway to pay a ticket.

The previous ordinance required violators to pay up within 24 hours.

Think it Couldn't Happen Here?

BY BOBBIE PEAT

You could "rig" an election in Arlington Heights. Sound impossible? Think it couldn't happen here?

I would have been the first to agree with you until I voted in the Park District referendum on July 27. Now I am not so sure.

Consider my experience.

AT OUR designated polling place, my husband and I signed our names and addresses and were given a square printed ballot to vote either "yes" or "no" for a proposed bond issue.

A woman was waiting for one of the two booths and I listened to her explaining to a young oriental girl how we Americans vote.

"Probably an exchange student" I thought. I went into the booth and made the "x" for my choice, handed my folded ballot to an elderly gentleman sitting by a ballot box, and watched him drop it into the slot.

AS I LEFT, I wondered what the young girl thought of our voting procedures? I bet it seemed so simple--so quick. Orientals place much emphasis on form and style.

I must have seemed strange to her. We Americans are so casual, so informal, about everything. Even our manner of voting.

Voting that day had lacked something. What was it? Perhaps the thrill of voting had waned over the years.

I REMEMBERED when I had my 21st birthday and was so excited because it was a presidential election year. It was nice to be considered "adult" (although I had felt "adult" for some time before). Now it was legal.

All through school I had been taught about the American heritage and the value of the vote--its importance and how men had fought and died to keep our country operating in the democratic manner-preserving that precious right. I was proud to vote.

And each time election rolls around, that pride comes through again. A sort of "I'm-doing-my-part-to keep-this-country-of-ours-going" kind of feeling. Seems a shame they don't have a fanfare of trumpets or a roll of drums, or something

NOW ALL MY friends will tell you that I am a most casual person. "Informality" is the password into my home. So, when I feel a lack of formality--you can believe that things are so casual to be almost slovenly.

I went back over the whole voting procedure again in my mind. What would I have changed, had I been running the show? And then it hit me. We had signed our names and been given a ballot.

But how did that woman behind the table know that I was a registered voter, or for that matter, that I had even given my true name and address? She had not checked a file that I remembered.

Perhaps they checked them later? But, if a discrepancy was found later, how did they know which vote to cancel?

I ASKED MY husband all these questions and he tried to assure me, "They must have some way of checking. You just didn't notice."

I couldn't rest until I found out how they did it. With a bit of begging on my part, I persuaded my husband to go back with me to the polling place. I was embarrassed to go alone.

He is a very patient man. We walked back into the polling place. The lady behind the table started to have us sign the roster again. (Good gracious, could we have voted twice?)

"Oh no, we have already voted" I said. "We just wanted to know how you could tell we were registered voters and that we are who we say we are?" Now you must admit, that is an embarrassing question to ask.

SURPRISE. They didn't know. The form we had signed was a sworn statement that we were telling the truth. They simply trusted us.

"Well, what if something were wrong? How would you know which vote to cancel?"

Surprise again. They wouldn't.

All a person has to do is sign the paper and vote. What a potential for a "rigged" vote.

"Dumb, isn't it?" said one of the women.

To treat our vote so lightly -- so carelessly -- Yes, isn't it!

Day by Day

Cool, Green Thoughts

By Catherine O'Donnell

If you'd like to turn your thoughts away from the bubbling overheated pavement, now is your chance to decide whether or not you'd like to buy a few thousand Christmas trees. The trees are still growing in 40 acres of lush land on the Holiday Tree Farm in Nekoosa, Wis.

The trees are the pride and joy of Larry and Helen Sebastian of Wing St. The Sebastians have just returned from a convention of Christmas tree growers in Tomahawk, Wis., where they won an award for their trees from the Wisconsin Christmas Tree Producers Association.

It was a surprise and a nice thing for the couple, who devote all of their spare time to shaping and shearing the scotch pines. Taking care of Christmas trees so that they grow in conical shape requires a lot of man-hours and Larry and Helen can do no more with the trees.

Consequently, they would like to sell the entire growth. The trees have been growing and have required care for the past six years.

Now they must be wrapped and carted to markets. "We would need special cutting and trimming machines, trucks to carry them and a market to sell them," Helen said, "but we are going to concentrate on the rest of the acreage up there.

"Growing trees has been sort of a family avocation. Besides the pines, we have 750 more acres of lumber. If you know of anyone who wants to buy a lot of scotch pines that are beautifully shaped, let me know."

When Helen isn't concentrating on Christmas trees, she is busy with the mail at the Arlington Heights Post Office, where she works on the counter. She's the pretty blonde with eyes that match her blue uniform.

GOOD IDEA

In Des Plaines during the last sidewalk sale days, the city co-operated with the merchants in a way that would be novel and nice for Arlington Heights to follow suit. They covered all of the parking meters with small shopping bags that advertised the sidewalk sale days. Lucky shoppers could park and browse to their heart's content.

THE OTHER END

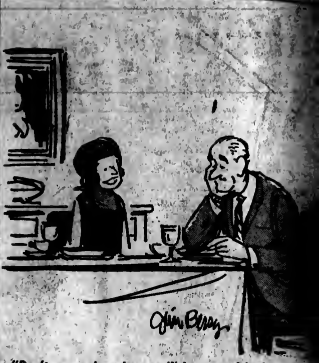
Yesterday's Day contained a story about the GOP convention in Miami which told how a little boy who met Nelson Rockefeller received a pat on the head from the presidential hopeful. "Hah," said Mary Halm of E. Olive, "my great-aunt Margaret Geoghegan used to pat all the Rockefellers including Nelson on their other ends.

"She was a nurse for the five boys and their sister from the time they were born. The family home was in New York City, with plenty of trips to the north in the summer and the south in the winter."

Miss Geoghegan died a few years ago and the Rockefeller family went to the funeral. They always came to visit her after she retired when they grew up. They made a visit with Mary's aunt a must at Christmas time.

AND A PREDICTION

If the old crystal ball is putting out the correct information, then the two winners at the end of the week will be the ticket of Richard Nixon and James Rhodes of Ohio. If you're planning on betting, don't accept this as gospel or even astute deduction. It was part of a dream related by a fellow buckeye.



"Don't worry about how you'll be treated by historia this isn't RUSSIA, you know!"

The Arlington Day

"Honor the original dream by always jealously keeping the paper's freedom and intellectual integrity."

Slow Motion Governme

More than nine years after it first began considering the weighty matter, three years after it began public hearings and 7,800 pages of testimony later, the Federal Drug Administration has finally decreed:

A one-pound jar of peanut butter must contain at least 90 percent peanuts and no more than 10 per cent other stuff, like emulsifiers and stabilizers.

If that doesn't stick to the roof of your mouth, try another example of your federal men in inaction:

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

A tall, cold drink to refresh you on a hot day will have just the opposite effect, according to Dr. L. C. Senay Jr. This is because the rate of sweating - nature's own device for cooling your skin - is temporarily reduced until the temperature of your cold drink has been raised to 98.6 degrees or higher.

In one experiment, three volunteers underwent a period of dehydration, then drank a solution of the salinity of the body fluids at body temperature and later at a temperature of 45 to 50 degrees.

In each case, drinking the warm drink was accompanied by a secretion of sweat that was more than ample to keep the body temperature from rising but drinking the cold drink caused it to rise.

My advice - drink your iced tea if you prefer, but don't expect it to cool you off as well as a cup of hot tea.

Q-What is Indocin used for?

A-Indomethacin (Indocin) is given to relieve the pain and inflammatory reaction in persons with various types of arthritis. It does not belong to the cortisone group of drugs.

Q-Can Indocin be taken indefinitely for arthritis? Does it have any bad side effects, especially regarding glaucoma? Is it a cure or is it given to control the arthritic symptoms?

A-This powerful drug may be taken for prolonged periods but only under careful medical supervision. Its side effects, when too large a dose is given, include headache, dizziness, nausea, diarrhea, mental confusio asthmatic attacks.

Underthings Become Sun Things

Time was when lingerie only showed by accident. Then a few daring souls made party pieces of carefully selected nighties. Now inner and outer fashions are all but officially married as colorful underthings become sun things according to one's mood.

One of the newsiest looks around these days appear in a delightful set of brightly colored nylon tricot junior coordinates that can go just about everywhere, indoors or out!

Linked by a blaze of diamond-patterned color, these smashing new fashions add up to the ultimate in coordination. A Junior starts by selecting a complete set of lingerie, fiberfill contour bra, bikini panites, body-shaped chemise, both short and shortest pettis.

Then comes the new twist, a matching hat and hosiery and shift adding to the fun. The idea? "To make the wearer look and feel totally terrific inside and out," says Mrs. Beatrice Coleman, vice president and marketing director of Maidenform, Inc.

The shift is virtually a wardrobe in itself. Smartly shirt-styled with a pointy mod collar and a romantic drift of sleeve, it's made with fine dressmaker details and designed to be lounge, beach and sleepwear in one–even wearable as a blouse-slip. The hat converts every which-way, and the stockings are perfectly matched in demi-toe styling.

Done in "Antron," a slithery nylon tricot, the Maidenform Junior Diamond collection wears a touch of lovely Alencon lace and retails from $2.50 to $11. The sizzling soda fountain colors are Lime Rickey, Orange Sherbet and Gumdrop Yellow, all covered with diamonds in White.

Spending Summer In Paris

BY MARILYN HELFERS
Woman's Editor

Carol Hansen is spending the remainder of the summer in Paris studying at the Sorbonne. Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hansen of Arlington Heights.

After much correspondence with the Sorbonne about the rioting in Paris, Carol decided to go ahead with her plans and left July 1 by plane for Paris where she will stay until Sept. 1.

WHEN SHE ARRIVED in Paris, she found that 70 per cent of the students who had registered for courses at the Sorbonne had come in spite of the riots. The turmoil in Paris, however, had changed her place of residence to a building behind the Sorbonne itself.

In a letter to her parents Carol described her room on the fifth floor as having two levels with a skylight and a balcony. It is painted white and "looked bare when I first saw it."

She has roommates from Brooklyn; Homewood, Ill.; San Francisco; Boston and Alabama. The only items besides clothes that Carol took with her on the plane were her hair dryer, steam iron and transistor radio.

THE GIRLS, who are responsible for getting their own meals, have found that prices are quite a bit higher since the rioting, and even a glass of lemonade costs 60 cents.

Carol will be a junior at the University of Illinois in Champaign this fall and is minoring in French. This is her second trip to Europe and she arranged this one all on her own. Her first trip to Europe was made with her family who rented a car and toured Europe for 21 days.

Carol's mornings are spent in grammar and phonetic classes taught in French and her afternoons are spent getting acquainted with Paris.

SHE HAS VISITED the Louvre, the Cite, the courthouse, and a discothque, that played mostly American music. (Many American songs are played on the radio in Paris, said Carol).

According to Carol, American tourists are easily recognizable by the cuffs on mens trousers, the cameras they carry and their attraction to sight seeing buses.

Plan Island Fantasy At Carousel Sept. 17

The Roundtable Room of the Arlington Carousel restaurant will be transformed into an Island Fantasy for the fall fashion show and luncheon of the Northwest Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary Tuesday, Sept. 17.

The luncheon will begin at noon with Maggie Daly of Chicago's American doing the fashion commentary and Charlotte McLaughling providing music on the Hammond Organ. Fashions will be from Michigan Ave. Courturiar Shops and children's fashions from Hagenbriag's in Arlington Heights.

First prize at the luncheon in a round trip ticket for two to Hawaii via United Air Lines.

For information regarding tickets and reservations, call 392-4874 or 381-1852.

Mrs. Le Vern Wille, Arlington Heights, in luncheon chairman, assisted by Mrs. Allan Grady, Palatine, cochairman. Advisary chairman is Mrs. A.F. O'Neil, Palatine.

Chairman of the fashion show committee include: invitations, Mrs. Ernest Rohde, Arlington Heights; tickets and reservations, Mrs. O.C. Jacobsen, Barrington; program, Mrs. Duane McCommon, Palatine; decorations, Mrs. Norman Staingraber, Mount Prospect; fashion coordinator, Mrs. Felix Krock, Arlington Heights, raffles, Mrs. Otto Bouc, Mount Prospect; prizes, Mrs. Matthew Brost, Arlington Heights; publicity, Mrs. Paul Glick, Mount Prospect; printing, Mrs. Robert Lockwood, Palatine; hostess, Mrs. William Ramser, Palatine; cocktail tickets, Mrs. Read Chalfant, Palatine; secretary, Mrs. William Kock, Arlington Heights, and treasurer, Mrs. Phillip Blair, Mount Prospect.

Mrs. John McLoughlin of Schaumburg, vice president of the Northwest Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary, will provide the music for the auxiliary's fall luncheon, Island Fantasy Tuesday, Sept. 17. The organ will be provided by the Hammond Organ Studio of Elgin. (Photo by Marilyn Helfers.)

Day at HOME

Psychiatrist's Book Contains List of Assets

BY GERRY WALSH

Homemakers and mothers sometimas count their blessings. They will tell of that nice husband who works so hard for the family.

They appreciate the comfortable home, the new car, a wonderful vacation; they may even include a new fur coat.

RARELY, HOWEVER, do women count up or take inventory of their own assets. What about you, personally?- "your own thing," as the hip generation call it; or "Know Thyself," as Socrates said 2,000 years ago.

Dr. Theodore Rubin M. D., a famous psychiatrist, in a recent and informative book, devotes several chapters to Assets.

Have you ever considered these personal Assets that he writes about so knowingly? Here are a few:

A Home with Parents - no institution, although they do remarkable work, can be an adequate substitute.

Having Brothers and Sisters - this also provides an opportunity for early experience in relating to other people in close harmony.

Responsible Parents - if they made a fair community adjustment, you have been given a bridge to the outside world...parents who wanted marriage to each other, who love each other, who wanted children, who love YOU.

Physical Strength and Vitality - good physiology is a prerequisite in making all else possible.

Sexual Identification - there are a good many people who go through life asexually. Sexual awareness is a basic prerequisite to a well-adjusted heterosexual life.

A Pleasant Appearance - good clothes and grooming is a definite asset in our society.

Exceptional Good Looks or Unusual Attractiveness. Don't sell this short just because "I had nothing to do with it."

A Sense of Humor - Humor can mitigate tragedy, helplessness, depression, and hardship.

Good Intellectual Endowment - if you have it chances are you know it-so, by all means own it and be happy that you are smart!

Making a Home - the ability to organize a home and to parform tha daily tasks necessary to it is crucial to the welfare of the family...it really is terribly important because the family is the very basis of humanity and civilization.

Being the mother, and thus the effective hub of a household is no small contribution, for you plant the seed of health in your children and the future's adults.

The Ability to be Alone with Yourself - to be a self energizing, self-stimulating, and self-igniting.

The Ability to Tolerate Anxiety - to be able to allow yourself to become anxious, to sit with your anxiety long enough to datact its source...and to work through to some understanding...is to grow in constructiva understanding of yourself.

Dr. Rubin lists many more assets, and explains them all in down to earth language. Some of the others that he mentions, some that you and I rarely consider are:

To feel emotion; to do for self and others, to use money constructively, sexual and emotional axchange; liking people; real honesty; creativity and special skill; charm (no amount of phony acting can stimulate it); contantment; good judgment; and teaching ability.

THE LIST can go on and on, of course. You might write down your own list and discover that it is more imprassiva than your bank balance.

Surely it is valuable; no one can take your assets away from you, so they are more precious than gold.

You may read Dr. Rubin's column in the McCall's Magazine, but I hope you also read and enjoy and learn from his book "Tha Winnar's Notebook."

Stylish, Automatic

A stylish new automatic buffet skillet, available in avocado or new harvest porcelain finish, has been introduced by the West Bend Co. A party-size metal cooker featuring a high-dome cover, the skillet is perfect for roasting, baking and cooking large quantity recipes. Lined with no-stick Fired-On Teflon, the skillet is easily cleaned in warm sudsy water without scouring. Retails for under $28.

4-H Club Training Course

Women who know something about home sewing and would like to volunteer as a 4-H Club leader can add to their skills through a program designed especially for 4-H clothing and home improvement leaders.

The announcement comes from the National 4-H Service Committee, which in cooperation with the Extension Service and The Singer Co. has arranged a course called "Your Sewing Machine."

The course is set up by the axtension service and usually runs for two days. Three teaching manuals are used:

(1) Know Your Sewing Machine

(2) Regulation and Care for Your Sewing Machine

(3) Make the Most of Your Sewing Machine. Singer provides the manuals.

Tha training sassions feature latest mathods of teaching young people of different ages and abilities, and include actual work with the sewing machine.

Upon returning home, the project leaders show their 4-H girls what they learned, and how to make sewing a joy instead of a chore.

A certificate of merit is presented each woman completing the course. More information can be obtained from the County Extension office, 201 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights.

Your Horoscope

FOR THURSDAY

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) - Minor difficulties, handled skillfully, should not develop into anything major. Keep your sense of values sharp and all should be well.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) - Happenings behind the scenes may be more important to your success today than you think. Consider others' opinions.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) - The wise Libra will take pains to safeguard his position on the employment scene. Don't take success for granted.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) - Keep your sense of proportion, should a successful morning slowly deteriorate into an afternoon of complications.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) - If you know how to apply what you've recently learned, you should be able to turn a chaotic morning into a highly gainful afternoon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) - Contacts with others must be first on the agenda today. Don't try to do everything yourself at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) - You need not relinquish control of the present situation. A change in attitude should put you back on top.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) - The wise Pisces will consider morning success enough for one day. Rest on your laurels during afternoon and evening.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) - Planned activities must not be interfered with. Should an emergency arise, dispatch another who is able to deal with it.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) - Keep alert to the possibility of change. An event could occur today that will mean much to your family's future; prepare to act.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) - An excellent morning promises to be followed by a relatively mediocre afternoon. Don't allow discouragement to overtake you.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) - It would be easy for you to overplay your hand - and thus your chances of success - today. Move with caution where others are involved.

Smith Named Water Polo All-American at Western

BY LINDA GAMMILL

Sports Editor

Larry Smith of Arlington Heights has recently been selected as a college All-American. But he's not a football or basketball player.

Smith is one of the best collegiate water polo players in the country. He is now attending Western Illinois University and is an aquatics instructor at the Macomb YMCA this summer. In the fall he will enter student teaching at East Moline High School. Upon graduation from Western, Smith plans to teach physical education.

LARRY SMITH

Smith is rated as the top scorer on the Western team, and he, along with teammate Dave Viar was selected for the Collegiate All-American Fifth Team which includes several players also selected for the U.S. Olympic team.

Western's varsity polo team finished the season with a 7-2 record against such teams as the universities of Chicago, Kentucky, Illinois (Chicago Circle), Iowa, Loyola and Drake, as well as Army and San Jose State.

Smith began playing polo six years ago at Weber High School in Chicago where he helped the team to the Chicago Catholic High School water polo championship. He earned an honorable mention for the All-American team last year. He has lived at 2812 Bel Aire Dr., Arlington Heights, for fourteen months.

The United States Public Health Service, injury-control program has just released a list of the household items causing the most accidents among children.

First, the most dangerous of these are power tools and heating appliances, each responsible for more than 125,000 accidents each year. Second, are cooking stoves, clothes wringers, and power mowers - over 100,000 each. Third, skillets containing boiling water and grease account for more than 80,000 serious burns yearly. Fourth, outdoor grills and incinerators account for 50,000 (most usually when inflammable liquids are used to start the fire.) Fifth, 35,000 children are injured tugging on the cords of coffee pots and toasters. A like number receive electric shocks or burns sticking metal objects into wall sockets or touching frayed electric cords. Sixth, are sunlamps. Seventh, pilot - lights when paints or solvent vapors are used near them.

Rooney Two-Hits Manteno; Earns 7-0

BY RICK PEACE

A nifty two-hit mound stint by Brian Rooney coupled with an eight-hit assault by the Lion's gave Logan Square a 7-0 win over Manteno Tuesday night in an abbreviated six inning contest at St. Viator High School.

Rooney, who was a stickout for Larry Nomellini's mound crew early in the season before falling into a mid-season slump, allowed only three Manteno baserunners and never permitted a man to advance past first base. The win was the righthander's second in a row, the last coming on a three-hit performance against Downers Grove last week.

WHILE ROONEY was mowing down Manteno batters with equal amounts of finesse and speed, Nomellini's lineup came up with eight safeties and took advantage of five walks to produce the seven tallies. The Lions wasted no time getting down to work on Manteno hurler Al Robbins, knocking out a pair of doubles to score twice in the first frame.

Lead-off man Mike Abinanti worked Robbins for a walk to get things started, and the speedy shortstop then broke for second on the first pitch to Jimmy Hynes. Abinanti had the throw to second beat by a few steps and advanced to third when the ball bounded into center field after getting past Manteno second baseman Bill Rutemeir.

Hynes then connected for a ground double down the right field line that scored Abinanti easily from third. It looked as if the Lion third baseman was going to be stranded there as Rooney grounded out and Jim Kenny went down swinging, but Dan Miksta rapped a high bouncer into right field that sent Hynes scampering home with the second score of the inning.

AFTER STRANDING runners on first and third in the second inning, the locals bounced back with another score in the third as the Hynes-Miksta combination came through with two more hits to account for the score. Hynes opened the inning by cutting a spinning single over the outstretched glove of Manteno second-bagger Rutemeir, moved to second on an infield ground out and scored standing up when Miksta slapped another single to right field.

Robbins settled down for the next two frames, but under an ominous sky the Lions exploded for four runs on four singles in the sixth inning.

Miksta collected his third hit of the night to get the sixth inning uprising off the ground and moved to second when Robbins walked Mike O'Donnell. John Wendell then tapped a neat bunt to the right side of the infield that loaded the bases with Lions.

BILL MADDEN then worked Robbins for a walk to force in Miksta and bring Al Feldman to the plate. Feldman came through in fine style, drilling a hard liner to right field that drove in Wendell and Madden with Logan Square's final two tallies of the evening.

The Lions are idle tonight, but resume action Thursday with a 6 p.m. game against Lane Tech of Chicago at the St. Viator diamond.

Lion hurler Brian Rooney displays the form that baffled Manteno on Tuesday night's 7-0 win over the central Illinois club. Rooney allowed just two hits while fanning eight en route to his second win within the last week.

A ground ball to the shortstop off the bat of Al Feldman forced John Wendell at second to end the Lions' fourth inning. Feldman rapped a two run single in the sixth inning as the Lions blanked Manteno Tuesday night at St. Viator.

Top Palatine

Coach Terry Gellinger's Palatine American Legion came to the end of the line in the trail toward the national title as they dropped both ends of a double-header to a Berwyn squad that they had downed the day before.

Last Saturday, Palatine defeated Berwyn, 5-3, behind the pitching duo of Norm Lohse and Steve Bahn, led by a pair of one-run doubles by Lohse and Al Bambrick. The win followed a 1-0 pitching victory over Argo the day before in which Dave Hasbach threw a four-hitter.

On Sunday, Post 690 fell to a 15-hit, 8-2 stomping by Berwyn even though they collected 10 hits. The second game, which had to be won by Palatine to remain in the tourney, developed into a 6-2 losing effort for pitchers Dick Strauss and Dave Hasbach, who gave up 12 hits between them.

Gellinger stated that he felt that if his squad had just one additional strong pitcher to keep them ahead in the first game of the double header, they could have won the tourney.

Crest Moves To 1st Place

Last-place Arlington Structural Steel handed league-leading Koops Mustard a 10½-1½ to highlight this week's play of the Arlington Heights Twilight Golf League. The big loss enabled Crest Heating to climb into a tie for the league's top spot.

Don McGowan collected three birdies to fire an even-par 36 that was good for low gross honors, while Chuck Buehler's 31 gained him low net.

Luzinski Fares Well for Phils

BY CURT WILSON

Greg Luzinski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Luzinski of Prospect Heights, is in the midst of a most successful season and is starting a promising career in baseball with the Huron Phillies, a farm team of the Philadelphia Phillies located in Huron, S.D.

Luzinski, who earned seven letters at Notre Dame High School, Niles, was graduated this June from high school, where he earned recognition in football and baseball.

The Phillies drafted Luzinski to the first base spot, but he served as a catcher for the four years he played on the Notre Dame varsity.

Reports speculate that Luzinski will be ready to move up to the majors by the beginning of next season, or even earlier, if the team officials make the decision.

Luzinski is particularly strong at bat, and, as a freshman, he led the Suburban Catholic Conference in hitting. In his four years at Notre Dame, he never hit below .588.

Luzinski has been maintaining his hitting prowess with the Huron Phillies, a Class A farm club, and it was his three-run homer that clinched a 4-1 game over the Sioux Falls Packers, a win that broke a four-game losing streak for the Phillies.

There is a distinct possibility that Luzinski will attend the University of Kansas this fall where he will play both football and baseball. The chances are, however, that he won't stay there long. The Phillies have their ... him as one of the ... hitters in the North... League, and as a replace... for 38 year-old Bill W...

government trains and employs experts... men who inspect grade beef at hundreds of locations throughout the nation.
y protect you...and retailers, like us.

t's why A&P is happy there's a U.S. government inspector the premises of our meat plant serving this area.

important are A&P's own beef experts.
r job is to see to it that A&P Beef measures up to our own PER-RIGHT" quality standards... dards which don't exactly fit government's grading categories.
instance, some beef graded U.S. Choice doesn't meet our "SUPER-RIGHT" specifications.

ates to the national Republican convention in Miami, s a vote tally with William H. Rentschler of Winnetka, rd Nixon's Illinois chairman. Illinois cast 50 first-ballot for Nixon yesterday as the former vice president won rty's nomination for president.

Following Nixon Nomination

Northwest Suburban Residents Celebrate

Last night was one of celebration for many members of the Illinois delegation to the Republican convention as they joined the Nixon victory celebration at Tony's Fish Market on the beach.

Dwight Welton, one of many northwest suburban residents attending the convention, said he and his wife learned several days ago of the elaborate security precautions taken to protect the Nixon party at the restaurant.

"Waitresses and the maitre'd at the restaurant told us the secret service had made a search and were checking on the backgrounds of everyone who would be on the duty the night of the party," he said.

While many celebrants were toasting each other and their candidate, events of the day were reviewed, interspaced with speculation on Nixon's running mate.

The name of Charles Percy was all but eliminated by members of the Illinois delegation during an early afternoon caucus, Welton said.

"The Illinois delegation went into caucus about 1 p.m. to find out who they favored for a vice presidential candidate. Sen. Howard Baker, Mark Hatfield, and John Lindsay were all ahead of Percy, apparently because of his endorsement of Rockefeller," he said.

DURING THE demonstration following Rockefeller's nomination, Percy was leading a segment of the demonstration, carrying a Rockefeller sign and attempting to lead people out of delegations to join the demonstration, Walton said.

Mrs. Welton and Sally Trautner, adviser to TARS, the Teen-Age Republicans, were part of the Rockefeller demonstration with the usual hats and banners.

Earlier in the day, several of the persons from the Wheeling township area had difficulty obtaining tickets to get into the convention hall, but through the efforts of Carl Hansen, the Elk Grove township committeeman and delegate, were able to obtain tickets after a wait of several hours.

Once inside, the spectators were seated in an area of the stands where Mayor John Lindsay chose to visit. There was a wild rush to get pictures and autographs from the New York City mayor, Welton said.

Later, Rev. Ralph Abernathy, leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, came by the seats of Sally and Chuck Trautner. Chuck Trautner invited Abernathy to come to Arlington Heights to visit the Wheeling Township Republican organization. Abernathy replied that his appearance would have to be scheduled through his Chicago public relations man.

Clergy Presents Ideas For Combating Racism

A Catholic priest told an audience invited to the First Presbyterian Church to discuss the "Urban Crisis" last night that they must preach across the street, across the fence, across the alley and convert their friends from racism.

"The list of ways to end racism and the urban crisis is fine, but it is frosting on the cake. First we have to provide the cake," Rev. Edward Egan of the Chicago Chancery Office told the audience.

Father Egan was one of three clergymen invited by the church to discuss solutions to the crisis facing Chicago and other cities today.

Some 60 persons turned their backs on the GOP convention to attend the meeting.

Among the other clergy present were: Rev. Robert Lucas of St. Louis, coordinator of ecumenical relations for the First Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. James Phillips, a Catholic priest who has just returned from a mission in Japan to work in the northwest suburbs.

Several members of the audience voiced their opinions on possible solutions to the crisis. One man said, "The mayor of Arlington Heights has been opposed to low-cost housing out here. Now's our chance to approach him on it."

A woman commented that everyone should check bills they pay by asking the companies if they are equal opportunity employers.

Rev. Lucas said the thing to do is to attack racism "wherever you find it — individually or corporately. Attack institutional racism as you find it in the church, attitudinal racism by breaking down myths."

The Rev. Phillips presented a list of proposals to end racism and the urban crisis. "I have friends, black and white, who say I am wasting my time talking to suburbanites. Prove they are wrong. I have a feeling of frustration in presenting lists of what to do," he said.

The list Rev. Phillips drew from was compiled from various programs being carried on by Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and other religious denominations.

"First, find groups which will sponsor low-cost housing. The Federal Government will provide up to 30-year amortization on loans, if they can find groups which will be around that long," Rev. Phillips said.

Rev. Phillips said that a group from Mount Prospect already is organizing and meeting weekly with this idea in mind.

"Secondly," Rev. Phillips said, "check to make certain local boards of education are teaching Afro-American history. Also, settlement houses need volunteers. Lawyers and businessmen can do a great deal also,— he said.

"A group called the Inquirers meet once a month in the Loop to provide legal and financial advice to Negro businessmen. Join them if you can help.

"Under personnel, check Operation Breadbasket by visiting at 45th and Martin Luther Dr. on Saturday at 8:30 a.m. See Martin Business College on South Paulina and learn how you can train the hard-core unemployed."

Rev. Phillips also urged young people to join the Student Health Organization in the Robert Taylor Homes by calling Barbara Britt at LI 8-3273.

"The need is great," he pleaded. "It is especially necessary to change the image of our police. The attitude of our black friends is really bad toward police," he said.

oman 'Waiting to See' n Swimming Pool Curbs woman who told Arl-on Heights trustees Mon-that the village ban nt above-ground swim pools is unfair and im-erly enforced says she "wait and see" before

ning future action.

Mrs. Robert Reiter of 1510 N. Kennicott told The Day that she will continue her efforts to have the present ordinance banning above ground pools more than two feet high rescinded. But, she said, she will wait until a report by the board's health and safety committee before planning organized opposition.

A group of about 20 citizens left with Mrs. Reiter Monday night, following a board promise to determine the status of a model code being developed for above-ground pools.

Trustees said that, until a workable code for health and safety standards is developed, they cannot consider changing the ordinance.

They said the National Institute of Swimming Pools expected to have such a model code available in January, but that it has not been completed.

MRS. REITER told the board Monday she objected to the way the ordinance is enforced because only when a complaint is made will the village ask that the pool be removed.

Village officials said the complaints serve as "probable cause" and provide the only legal way in which an inspection of property can be made.

Mrs. Reiter said the persons who left the meeting with her support her position and have pledged to aid her efforts to return above-ground pools to the village.

"We'll have to wait and see what the committee reports and then decide what to do," she said.

"We didn't expect a definite answer Monday, though I would have liked one, but it just doesn't work out that way. This can't be done overnight," she said.

Mrs. Reiter said she has not contacted any of the persons with whom she met, but that a list of names and addresses had been prepared. She said that the group could organize if they believe this would help their cause.

Newcomers Still Can Vote

Even if you have not lived in Illinois long enough to qualify as a resident, you still can vote for a President and Vice-President in November—if you follow the required procedures.

Illinois law, said Mrs. Jeanne Novotny, village clerk of Arlington Heights, requires that you live one year in the state, 90 days in the county and 30 days in your precinct by Nov. 5, election day, if you are voting as an Illinois resident.

Many Arlington-area residents, she said, have moved here too recently to meet these requirements, but will still want to vote in the national election.

Here's how:

If you have moved here from Arizona, Connecticut, New Jersey, Texas, Vermont, Wisconsin, or Wyoming, you will be able to vote in your home state, by mail, under certain conditions. Mrs. Novotny asks you to phone her at CL 5-3494, for instructions.

If you have moved here recently from any state other than those listed above, you can vote for president and vice president in November, but you will have to go in person twice to Chicago. Both times, you will go to room 230 in the County Building, at Randolph and Dearborn.

ON YOUR FIRST visit, you will make a formal application for a ballot.

Election authorities then will write to your former precinct to verify that you did live there and would have been qualified to vote if you had not moved.

It is not necessary, said Mrs. Novotny, for you to have been a registered voter at your former address, if you would have qualified as a resident.

You will return to the county building in November--the last date is Sat., Nov. 2,--to vote.

If you plan to vote under this procedure, you must have moved to Illinois no later than Sept. 4, 1968.

"This election is tremendously important," said Mrs. Novotny. "I hate to see voters disenfranchised when they could be voting."

Woman Hurt In Car Crash

Della Zizzo, 40, of Niles was treated at Northwest Community Hospital yesterday for injuries received in an auto accident at Northwest Hwy. and Kensington.

She was released from the hospital.

Miss Zizzo was a passenger in a car driven by Michael Zizzo, 19, of Niles.

Arlington Heights Police said a car driven by Hans Heuke, 47, of Harwood Heights, struck the Zizzo car.

Hauke was ticketed for failure to have his car under control.

Prospect Hts. Seeks Answer To Growing Vandalism Rate

BY BILL CLEARY

Park View homeowners complained of repeated vandalism in their subdivision during the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations meeting Monday.

"Persons have been shooting at cars and garages, have even burned a car seat and have broken into our neighbor's house," said Georgeann Gardner, president of the Park View Homeowners Assn., one of the groups represented in the council which is made up of residents' organization in unincorporated Prospect Heights.

There was general accord within the group that vandalism is on the increase in the Prospect Heights area.

James Childress, president of the Wolf Mendel Homeowners Assn., said that he had made tentative arrangements for Cook County Sheriff Joseph Woods to speak to the council concerning police protection and vandalism.

"Maybe Woods will be able to tell us how best to utilize the resources we do have and, secondly, how to hold law breakers until county police can get there," said Childress.

CHILDRESS admitted that there is a legal problem involved in the case of a citizen holding a vandalism suspect. This is one of the problems that he said he hopes Sheriff Woods will clear up when he speaks to the council. He said that the result might be that the county would have to take out a bond to insure the area against libel.

Law enforcement in Prospect Heights is under the jurisdiction of the county, since the area is not incorporated. The county has not been able to provide adequate protection, according to Childress.

"With what the county has to cover, it just can't do it," he said.

In its own defense, Childress' area has improvised an alert system.

"In our neighborhood, we have begun a telephone alert. When vandals are known to be in the area, we telephone those at the other end of the block and then converge on them."

In some areas, vandalism is cyclic. "We often have periodic outbursts," said Andy Palm of the Prospect Heights Improvement Assn. "First mail boxes are attacked; then lights are broken; then stones are rolled into the road."

RALPH VAN Patten, president of the Prospect Heights Improvement Assn., compared the manpower of the surrounding communities to that provided for Prospect Heights by the county.

"Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect work on a ratio of one policeman per 1,000 population. Des Plaines has one per 700. Prospect Heights has a population of about 14,000 and but two county policemen," said Van Pettan.

"Were Prospect Heights annexed to Arlington Heights with its existing base (police force) one patrol car and six officers would have to be added at a cost estimated at $38,000", said Van Petten. He based his figures on a 1965 Arlington Heights economic study.

"WE FIGURED the same protection, starting from scratch (i.e. were Prospect Heights not annexed), would cost $50,000 10 years ago. It would cost at least $60,000 today if not more. And this does not include protection for the section west of Wolf Rd., since this was not in existance as a residential area at the time the study was made," he said.

While the real thing vacations in Miami, the GOP (Grand Old Paper) Elephant fascinates Ed and Nancy Bohannen, 286 N. Marion, Palatine. The elephant is part of a circus preview which will visit Randhurst Mall Aug. 8 to 17. Shows will be at 10 a.m., 3 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. during those days.

Commuter Poll Leans Toward Hatfield as Veep

nv. Mark Hatfield of gon is the man that com-rs here would prefer as ard Nixon's running mate ovember.

trong support for Mayor
Lindsay of New York also showed up in an inal survey this morning of ngton Heights and Mount pect commuters.

eagan's name was men-ned, but several men dered if the California
ernor would settle for sed place.

'A Nixon-Reagan ticket
ld have been the strongest ible Republican choice," Ken Sprague, 260 Beau
Des Plaines, "but I don't k Reagan will accept. Nixon has to go with someone who can give him strength in the South--possibly Lindsay or Sen. John Tower, of Texas."

Sprague, unlike many commuters, was disappointed with the Nixon victory. "I think the favorite sons should have stood firm for three or four ballots and not been so eager to join the bandwagon to make sure they got their due rewards."

FAR MORE typical was the reaction of Winston Elkins, 1430 Busse, Mount Prospect.

"Nixon is a competent man with lots of experience. He will be hard to beat as President." Elkins' choice for second place? Rockefeller or Lindsay.

"I'm all for it. I think it's great." said Miss L. Collins, 315 N. Salem Ave., Arlington Heights. "I prefer Regan for vice president. Percy? I'd go along with it, but I wouldn't be as satisfied with it as if it was the governor from New York or Regan."

"PERCY'S extremely good," said Charles Jabney, 402 E. Sunset, Arlington Heights. "I think he'd make an excellent vice president, and also be able to take over in case anything happened to Nixon."

"I want anybody BUT Percy," said Paul Perry, 508 S. Walnut, Arlington Heights, "but that's up to Mr. Nixon. I think Illinois has a lot to say about who's elected president."

"Frankly, I'm very disappointed in the Republican party," said Richard Edwards, 704 W. Dempster, Mount Prospect. "I feel that they're going to go down to another disastrous defeat.

"I can see why Oglvie backed Nixon. It gave him a chance to be on nation-wide television. I'm personally very much in favor of Percy's breaking away from the party machine."

"NIXON'S JUST the one I wanted," said Mike Farmer, 1227 N. Wilke, Arlington Heights. "Reagan might be all right for vice president if he could be persuaded."

Hatfield would be the vice presidential choice for Ted Herman, 2924 Cardinal Dr., Rolling Meadows, and for Mrs. Shirley Roberts, 2014 Elizabeth Dr., Arlington Heights.

Jim Stansbury, of Beverly Ln., Arlington Heights, feels the Nixon nomination was "a good choice." Vice president? He doesn't know. "Not with the trouble we've had with the South."

"NIXON'S VIEWS on several of the domestic issues concern me, particularly his negative emphasis on law and order," said a Mount Prospect commuter. "I think that he doesn't understand the issues confronting the poor people.

"Although he's an intelligent man, I think he's been advised incorrectly about what poor people need. The country doesn't need another conservative."

JOHN KOCH, 573 Dorothy, Des Plaines disagreed, although he had not favored Nixon.

"Nixon is the candidate that the American people want this year," said Koch. "They're tired of the liberal left and the extreme right.

"They're going to need a candidate to take the South. Maybe Reagan can get some support.

"I wouldn't say Nixon needs George Wallace, but he could use a George Wallace type."

Firemen Save Barbecue

Mount Prospect firemen came to the rescue of a barbecue last night when they were called to the home of Vito Mithlo, 208 N. Lonnquist, to douse a grease fire in the family's outdoor grill.

Using an old fire-fighting technique, they placed the lid on the grill, put the fire out and returned to the station.

JENNIFER JOYCE

ic school teachers will Maryville orphanage's in the orphanage's oms next year.

r Trails School District 26 Board of Education last night approved this temporary solution to the problem the orphanage suddenly faced ealier this year:

No fund with which to pay its own teachers.

CLASSROOMS at Maryville will be leased to the school district for $1 a year.

The district also will absorb the cost of teachers and textbooks.

The orphanage and school at 1150 River Rd., Des Plaines, suffered a teacher shortage and a cut in next year's budget that prompted the Rev. George Halpin, director of the institution, to ask the school district to absorb Maryville's 300 elementary students.

Halpin explained that the orphanage's main source of funds, Catholic Charities, collected half of its usual amount in its 1968 drive.

IN ADDITION, a decrease in the religious staff made it necessary to hire 10 teachers and a principel at an extra cost of $85,000 for the coming year, he said.

Dropping the orphanage's grade school "is the last thing in the world we wanted," Halpin commented.

The school board also plans to transfer some Maryville students into existing public school buildings.

The board agreed that the gradual transfer will begin with the first grade in the fall.

Eventually, all of the Maryville students will be taught in the regular school buildings.

Halpin said that Maryville would furnish bus transportation for children being transferred this fall.

Supt. Winston Harwood recommended that the orphanage's non-religious teachers be given the option of remaining at Maryville in the employ of the public schools, or leaving.

THE TEACHING nuns would not be hired as part of the staff, he said.

The nuns might be employed by the orphanage, however, to help the orphans during the transition period between coming to Maryville and starting in the public schools, Harwood suggested.

Harwood stressed that it would be Maryville's permanent responsibility to prepare the children emotionally before they enroll in the public schools.

The children at Maryville come from Cook County in the majority of cases and are mostly Catholic, Father said.

One-tenth are full orphans, one-tenth are half orphans, and the rest have both parents living, he added.

The request to transfer the orphans into the public schools came July 18 when Halpin learned that the budget had been cut.

Since then, the board of education verified the fact that the public schools must educate the Maryville children, under the Illinois Orphans Act.

lore Residents Complying ith Village Garbage Plan pliance with a village that residents place cans behind the fronts r homes has increased ficantly" in some areas, ding to John Coste, nt village manager.

te estimated that as 25 per cent more of illage's 12,000 homes re taking advantage of ck door pickup provided e village contract for removal.

e said that before the ppeared in last Friday's gton Day, reminding nts of the service, about cent of the homes were keeping trash behind the front of the building.

The same Day story generated letters and phone calls to both The Day offices and village officials critical of the service provided by Laseke Disposal Co.

Investigation of the complaints by village officials and Laseke determined that many complaints result from misunderstandings, confusion and individual problems with selected trucks, village officials said.

OVER-ALL, village officials said they are satisfied with the service of the company and that the problems associated with the private contractor are not unusual.

"At most, we possibly get three calls a day," said Coste. "We usually turn these over to Laseke who tries to find out the problem and take steps to solve it."

Village Manager L. A. Hanson said, "during the 10 years I've been here, I've never known Laseke to not make a pickup or do what we ask."

Nevertheless, Coste said, there have been complaints about the service.

"When a family has a full garbage can which hasn't been picked up, he has a problem," Coste said.

"A tax bill is a bother only once or twice a year, but a full garbage can is an immediate and very visible problem," Coste said.

"WE TRY to do all we can to determine the cause of the problem and to eliminate it," he said, "but many times it's an individual problem with an individual family or driver on a route."

Coste said the problems increase during hot weather when the heat and humidity slow down the efficiency of the men working on the trucks.

Many problems, he said, arise from misunderstandings or confusion about the service.

Coste said drivers and helpers on trucks have been instructed to pick up trash containers at the back door, but may have conditioned a household to know that grass clippings or such will not be picked up behind the house.

H. W. Laseke, of Laseke Disposal Co. said his workers do what the village tells them to do.

"We've tracked down many of these complaints and found them to be untrue," he said.

"When you deal with the public, you can't please everyone," he said.

hat Garbage lan Provides e are the services and conditions in the village contract posal service.

ll garbage, household waste and grass are collected from tion behind the front of the house twice a week.

ranches or brush are the only exceptions to the "back pickup service. These must be securely tied in five-foot es and must weigh no more than 50 pounds. These will llected twice a week at the curb.

e contractor's charge for the regular basic service is 's month for each household. The contractor will bill collect from each customer and is authorized to bill in ce.

o collection will be made on Sunday or on national ays. When regular collection falls on a holiday, pickup e made the following business day. Residential collections at 7 a.m. pproved containers should be in good condition and may ade of galvanized metal or fiberglass. They must have fitted lids and handles. The containers should have a city of not less than 10 gallons, nor more than 30 gallons.

RASS CUTTINGS may be placed in plastic bags, bushel ts or containers of comparable strength and size, provided hese containers do not exceed 50 pounds in weight.

he contractor is required to securely replace all container s and to return containers to the spot where the customer d them for pick-up.

xcess refuse, such as boards, building materials, dirt, con and discarded household furniture and applicances of all are not part of the regular service and are subject to charges. These will be removed by the contractor on l calls only and charges shall be $3.20 for each cubic or fraction of a yard. Materials in this category will be d up at the curb or at such other location as may be ally arranged by the contractor and the customer.

e village does not maintain a public dumping ground. village operates a sanitary landfill at the northwest corner s village, but this is carefully controlled. Laseke is charged e village to use the sanitary landfill, which eventually rovide usable land.

is illegal under village ordinances to haul your own ge. Only the cootractor hired by the village board, acting resentatives of the commuoity, can do this.

e contractor provides an annual spring pick up in the e taking any and all items except building materials, dirt, concrete, at no extra cost to customers.

Sticker to Picture Historical Museum

The Arlington Heights 1969 village sticker will honor the historical museum and the Illinois sesquicentennial, according to Charles Bennett, chairman of the public relations committee of the vil age board.

Bennett said the committee selected the museum for portrayal on the sticker because it provides a strong symbol for the village directly relating to the 150th anniversary of Illinois statehood.

He said many other groups suggest that their organization or special cause be honored on the vehicle stickers, but these were not used because they do not feature a unique symbol of the village.

The sticker featuring the museum will directly relate to activities planned for the Illinois sesquicentennial and the dedication of the museum in early November, he said.

Bennett said that, once the board of trustees approves the idea, an artist will be asked to complete the final design.

Members of the committee have been working with the sketch on the current telephone directory to provide an idea of how the final sticker will look, Bennett said.

Jug Taken

An antique five-gallon jug was reported stolen from the yard of Mrs. David Spence, 833 N. Yale.

Mrs. Spence told Arlington Heights Police yesterday the yard ornament was valued at $7.50.

WEEK LONG JUBILEE!

Help celebrate our 55th anniversary and the grand opening of all new drive-up banking facilities . . .

We're devoting the entire week of August 12 through 17 to the celebration of our 55th anniversary and to the grand opening of new drive-up facilities.

There are prizes, celebrities and a few surprises on tap to help us commemorate the founding of First National Bank of Des Plaines in 1913. Through this celebration we hope to show our appreciation to you. It has been your support that has helped us to grow from a bank with $50,000 in assets to an $80 million financial institution.

Since you contributed to our growth, we want you to join in the festivities during our week long jubilee.

☆ MONDAY, AUGUST 12 — 8:30 to 9:30 A.M. Don Kessinger, All-Star shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, will be on hand during the grand opening of our new drive-up facilities. The event takes place in the bank's southwest parking lot at 740 Lee Street.

☆ THURSDAY, AUGUST 15 — 2:30 P.M. Mayor Herbert H. Behrel will present $25.00 Savings Bonds to the oldest and youngest Des Plaines residents to visit the bank during the day. Candidates must sign our special register including address, phone number and birth date.

☆ FRIDAY, AUGUST 16 — 6:00 P.M. Miss Des Plaines of 1968 will greet visitors to the bank from 6 to 8 P.M.

☆ SATURDAY, AUGUST 17 — 1:00 P.M. A Costume Party is scheduled for youngsters in the bank's southwest parking lot. Bicycles and Savings Bonds are among the fourteen prizes to be awarded for best costumes. Sandy the Clown of WGN-TV's Bozo's Circus will be there to pass out autographed pictures to the youngsters. Also, the Money Bucket contest winner will be announced.

☆ A Money Bucket Contest will be held all week with the person coming closest to guessing the exact amount in the bucket winning the contents. Entry blanks are available in the bank lobby.

☆ Hostesses will be on hand to greet visitors throughout the week and distribute gifts to children and Vanda orchids to the ladies.

☆ An Original 1913 Detroit Electric automobile will be on display in the bank lobby. And there are other surprises in store. So, make August 12-17 "First Week". Visit us often and bring your friends. You'll be glad you did.

Dialogue

... with George Hamilton

"I see you're heading for a cook-out. Charcoal in a brazier, Navaho blankets, — and is that a portable radio?"

"Actually, I'm getting ready for the Democratic Convention in our nearby suburb of Chicago. Rumors are rife that even with the phone strike settled, the communication facilities there will not be adequate for the biggest show on earth."

"So you're stepping into the breach?"

"I pride myself on a little foresight. The walkie-talkie I'm carrying might come in handy for urgent wheeling and dealing. In case the area gets too noisy, I've been boning up on my smoke signal lore, Indian sytle."

"Won't you need a simple code to get your message through to the befuddled delegates?"

"Correct. One puff might mean vote 'yes' for a favorite son. Two puffs, vote for the underdog."

"And three puffs will get you served with a cease-and-desist writ by the Air Pollution Control board."

"I've also laid in a stock of hand mirrors to flash signals, — the old-fashioned heliograph used in vintage Class B movies."

"Aren't you afraid that most of the office seekers jamming the area will merely use them to check up on their TV make-up? And is that a megaphone?"

"Well, there ought to be at least one interlude for the fine arts. I was thinking it might soothe the savage breast of one or the other agitated delegates if our own senior Senator from Illinois, Everett Dirksen, would rasp out a few stanzas from one of his recordings."

"Wait one cotton-pickin' minute. Dirksen is a Republican and you're talking about him at a Democratic convention!"

"If there is one thing desired by all party members at the finale of a convention, it's party unity. Can you think of a better way to foster harmony among the warring factions than to combine their energies in one prolonged boo for the lion-maned Senator's mellow offerings?"

"Maybe you're right. It would provide a fast way to clear the hall so the delegates could stampede home to start rounding up votes for the man of their choice. Have you selected an appropriate verse for our senatorial spellbinder to deliver?"

"How about: 'We're poor little sheep who have lost our way'!"

Daylight

BY JOE STUBENRAUCH

A few weeks ago you listened to a Commencement Day speech, stepped up to receive your diploma, went on to your first full-time job as a young male high school graduate.

You've had a chance to see for yourself that there are many responsible careers, offering good pay, which are open to you, even though you do not have a college degree.

It's a good time to take stock and also listen to a word of advice about your future.

WE ARE NOT going to hand out the tired old words of encouragement about putting your shoulder to the wheel, keeping your ear to the ground, an eye on the horizon, and all the other acrobatic tricks which may make you feel that a wrestler has an easy profession.

You have probably found out for yourself that if you turn in an honest job of work, you're a valuable man in the firm that hired you.

Let's move on to your chief concern. If you're typical of today's young live men on the move in the business world, you want to move up. You're thinking of material gains: a raise in pay, a more responsible job, bigger goals.

There's a good chance you work right here in the northwest suburban area. Look around you and see if your particular skills are suited to the job you're holding. If you're primarily mechanically minded, you may already feel frustrated in a clerical job or in retail selling.

Take-Off Time

GOP PLATFORM
TRAVEL AT YOUR OWN RISK

The Way to Move Up

THERE ARE AREAS where high school graduates are needed, more each day. For instance, in the next 10 years, the demand for automobile mechanics will increase by 17 per cent, for airplane mechanics by 35 per cent, for draftsmen by 40 per cent, business appliance servicers by 30 per cent, repairmen in radio, television and electronics by 25 per cent.

These are Department of Labor estimates. They sketch out the future of where the jobs will be.

Not all the jobs with excellent opportunities are in the field of the technician or the man trained to work on machinery.

Take someone who is good at shorthand — counting on our fingers, we know of four men, executives today in key positions, who got there by mastering business shorthand and becoming in time the "man Friday" to top men in their firm, and inevitably becoming so well versed in the inner workings of the policy-making that they graduated to the prime jobs.

MANY BUSINESS heads actually prefer having a male secretary at hand who does not mind a bit of overtime to get out important letters or reports, is willing and able to go along on a business trip and take down memos as the negotiations progress, or can be sent to far-off cities or countries and be counted on to return with notebooks crammed with facts and figures, all neatly pothooked in shorthand.

Another increasingly valued job is that of translator in a company big enough to warrant having fast work done on documents, surveys, memos from overseas. Depending on the language used, such a spot in time opens the door for many a move to the "big time."

It's a fact, in spite of what you may have heard about computers and the magic world of input and outgo, a satisfactory mechanical device has not hit the market to date. If you have doubts, just tune in on the next United Nations session that's broadcast and listen to the way translators take over delicate discussions, by word of mouth.

EVEN IF YOU do not have oral translating ability, and your mastery of another language is limited to paperwork, you will find you will be in real demand, always of course, depending on the type of firm you're working for.

Incidentally, it's the special kind of knowledge you can absorb through night school or correspondence courses. Extra effort, true, but on your own terms.

Talking of computers reminds us to tell you that the estimate for the national demand right now is reported at close to 50,000 programmers needed.

Some firms will train beginners on the job. Others are quick to explain that you do not have to be a mathematics whiz-quiz kid.

WE KNOW ONE LAD who sat down and simply leafed through the yellow pages of the telephone directory until he hit a line of work that atracted him. It's one way of lining up your sights on the future.

For one sure thing is that if you have enthusiasm in the work you're doing, you'll eventually come to the attention of the man who hired you, and you're moving in the right direction.

Another high school graduate went into a job in this area in a warehouseman capacity, but with one purpose: he was looking for trouble. Literally that.

He found out where the firm was "hurting" through improper handling and packaging, figured out a solution, approached higher-ups with his ideas ... and just know that he is on his way up!

DOCTOR SAYS

D and C Operation Can Bring Peace of Mind

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Many women are advised each year to have a D and C. This is the operation in which the uterine cervix is dialted (D) and the uterine lining is scraped with a curette (C). It is a simple operation that requires only a few minutes but it should be performed in a hospital to insure aseptic conditions. The anesthetic is usually the type that can be injected into a vein. The operation is done chiefly to establish a diagnosis but it may also be curative. Following the operation there is usually no pain but rather a dull heaviness in the pelvis similar to the feeling associated with menstruation.

The scrapings are examined under a microscope just as are the more common Pap smears. The operation is performed chiefly on women who have bleeding or spotting from the uterus after the menopause. When the cause is a polyp or a cancer in its earliest stages, the operation may end the trouble. In younger women, a D and C may be done to establish a diagnosis of endometriosis or tuberculosis of the uterus.

Dilation of the cervix in younger women is often all that is needed to relieve painful menstrual periods. When a woman has a miscarriage, a D and C is often necessary to stop the bleeding.

If every woman who has uterine bleeding after the menopause would have a D and C, many more uterine cancers would be discovered in their early stages than is now the case. This could mean the prompt removal of the tumor and the saving of many lives. In those cases where examination of the scrapings reveals no cancer, the resulting peace of mind would make the operation worth-while.

Q—I knew a woman who got multiple sclerosis when she was 22. After about 24 years it left her. She didn't take anything for it. Have you ever heard of such a case?

A—Yes. It is characteristic of this disease for the victim to have spontaneous remissions. These are unpredictable as to when they will occur and how long they will last.

They make the task of evaluating new treatments very difficult because if a remission occurs when the treatment is being used the improvement may be falsely attributed to the treatment.

Small Change Adds Up

The General Accounting Office, that rarity among government agencies which saves far more money for the taxpayer than it spends to run itself, has advised Congress that the hard-pressed Post Office Department could save $4.2 million annually with a simple change in law.

The budget watchdog says the savings would result if some rural mail carriers were permitted to use government-owned vehicles. Present law requires them to use their own cars, for which they are paid a maintenance allowance.

The money involved is trifling with the department's annual defi $1.2 billion. Compared with federal budget of $186 billion, it's change falling through a hole in pocket.

Yet, as the U. S. Chamber of notes, $4.2 million represents the by 4,416 Americans, based on income tax of $930.

That's about the number of filers who live in Plymouth, M some of the nation's original taxp ed three centuries ago.

Day by Day

Ridin' Down the Highway

By Catherine O'D

Early in the morning and there were the Chicago & North Western gates at the Central Rd crossing doing a minuet with the cars. One car forward and one gate down, two cars backward and two gates up and on until it looked like a psychedelic version of a square dance.

The gates were dipping and the drivers were fuming and on and on it went. The gates stopped and dropped long enough for the trains to cross and then went on with their senseless dance.

NOW DIDN'T Ralph Bruns do a fine job with his new ivory brick wall, black-topped parking lot and country squire lights? The real estate office at the highway side of Stonegate is a great model for any other businesses who want to cooperate with the Arlington Beautification Council. It's neat and pretty.

A swing into Stonegate and, lo and behold, the village trucks and the H.H. Electric trucks from River Grove are putting the last lights into the area.

The high density lights are replacing the decorative ones so familiar in Stonegate. The six or seven on S. Gibbons are bad news to the smoochers of Evergreen Park and good news to the neighborhood ball teams.

They are looking forward to night games under the friendly street lamps. No one in the public works office knew exactly when the command, "Let there be light" will be given but it can't be too far away.

MIAMI

Miami is a busy town these days. A call from a friend who is there with the Republican convention was filled with moaning and groaning about the high cost of doing one's patriotic duty.

He and his wife stepped from the lobby of the beautiful air-conditioned hotel-palace. A dollar bill to the doorman and the doorman blew his whistle. The whistle brought a taxi all of 20 feet from the stand.

The couple went to get in and there was another bellman standing with his palm upraised and the other hand on the taxi door. He, too wanted to be tipped for the extra service.

"It started to look like another demonstration," said the friend. "I refused to tip the door holder. The cab driver got out and shouted about losing his place in line and I'm certain I detected cheers from the spectators.

"I didn't tip, but it clouded the evening. Prices down here are fantastic."

t college towns have that cater to the college . It's fun to add a few to your wardrobe, shopn a strange town, after ave a chance to see "in" at your school.

ny college students open own checking account home, a free or very able service provided family bank and still the parent's control.

ll your clothing, be sure ude a raincoat and umbrella; a shower cap and "cloddy" slippers for trips to the shower; and towels and washcloths.

PERSONAL: Many schools suggest girls bring a "john bucket," a half-size plastic pail with handle, into which they can pile their toothbrush, toothpaste, mouthwash, deodorant, shampoo, soap, towel, washcloth, etc.

Make-up, rollers and roller bag, face tissues, dusting powder, cologne and hair spray are other needed items. Band-aids, aspiring, dental floss, antiseptic, vitamins, as well as any personal medicines should be included.

Don't forget tweezers, manicure scissors, toenail scissors and shaver, plus a neatly packaged hair dryer.

Men may check what they need from the above items and add their shaving and grooming supplies, shoe shine kit and lint remover.

HOUSEKEEPING: Handy to have are a dust cloth and a rag to wipe up spills, a sewing kit and a few extra buttons of various sizes. Some colleges allow a small electric pot in the room, in which you can make instant coffee, hot chocolate or hot soup from dehydrated mixes or bouillon cubes.

Take a drinking cup, spoon and can opener, and you might throw in a measuring cup and a knife.

Want to be the hit of the floor? Take a popcorn popper, if it's allowed. But check first.

If not provided, you will need mattress pad, sheets and pillowcases, blankets and pillow. Linen service (clean sheets and pillowcase once a week) if not free, is usually so reasonable that it beats feeding change to the washer and dryer, plus buying soap, bleach and wearing out your own linens.

LAUNDRY: Find out if ironing board and iron are available. You'll also need laundry detergent and bleach (the tablet form eliminates accidents), clothes sprinkler or spray bottle, laundry bag or hamper for soiled clothes, and perhaps a few plastic clothespins and a dampening bag.

Don't forget lots of change to feed those hungry washers and dryers, for trips to the soft drink machine, and for telephone calls.

ROOM FURNISHINGS: Chances are your room is well furnished with plenty of shelves, drawers and good reading light. Drapes or curtains are sometimes already up and uniform throughout the dorm. If not, you and your roommate might correlate drapes and spread, shopping in town or by catalog after school is under way.

You will need your own alarm clock, bookends, radio and extension cord. An intensity lamp is great for late studying while your roommate sleeps.

MISCELLANEOUS: And that isn't all. It's handy to have safety pins, rubber bands, paper clips, string, extra hangers and a bed rest.

You'll need stationery and stamps too.

Some college students find a portable typewriter invaluable. Some get along fine without it. All are glad to have a good up-to-date dictionary on hand.

A note to Mom: For a special going-away treat, cover a two or three pound coffee can with decorative adhesive paper, fill it with homemade goodies, and seal with the plastic lid. Your college student can use it all year to store those welcome food packages from home.

Right — College-bound and bouncing with excitement is Mary Ann Cleven, Mount Prospect, who will enter Bradley University, Peoria, in September. Helping her compose a list of things to take along are (seated) Jim Anderson, Mount Prospect, a sophomore at Western Illinois University and Clyde Whitcomb, Mount Prospect, a sophomore at Eastern Illinois University. "The handiest thing I had was my umbrella," said Jim, while Clyde was proud of having one of the few popcorn poppers on his floor.

Left — Most college rooms are well equipped with shelves, drawers, desk and good reading light. In this room at Blaisdell Hall, University of Illinois in Urbana, Carolyn Morris and Kay Rives of Mount Prospect, each have a roomy closet with overhead shelf space, two big drawers under the bed, a large bulletin board and mirror, and a desk with overhead shelves and reading lamp. Drapes, uniform throughout the building, are provided by the dormitory. Linen service at a nominal fee is available.

Brask Named Training Head For Wheeling Township GOP

John Hogan, 1837 N. Kaspar, Arlington Heights, has been elected president of the Institute for Management at St. Procopius College in Lisle. Hogan is personnel director of National Tea Co.'s Chicago Division and has been with the firm since 1951.

Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights) last week appointed Gerald I. Brask, 104 S. Yale St. of Arlington Heights, as training director for the Wheeling Township Republican Organization.

Brask's major responsibility will be to work with the more than 75 GOP precinct captains in Wheeling Township.

Brask succeeds Dwight Walton, 1612 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights, recently appointed vice-chairman of the organization.

"Training director is a most important function in suburban political activity," said Schlickman. "Successful political activity goes far beyond traditional favor giving. The techniques of successful political activity at the precinct level include block worker organization, voter communications and fund-raising. The precinct captain often substitutes as a social worker, psychiatrist, employment counselor, cab driver, legal advisor and marriage counselor."

"JERRY BRASK'S function as training director will be to convey to Wheeling Township Republican precinct captains, new and old, the knowledge and experience to effectively perform," Schlickman said. "A long-range objective of Brask's will be to develop a precinct captain's manual."

Brask and his wife, Lois, have long been active in Wheeling Township affairs. In addition to being captain of Precinct 63 in southwest Arlington Heights, he is a director of the Wheeling Township Republican Workshop and served as an area chairman for School District [illegible] referendum in 1967.

Brask is a civil and [illegible] engineer with Consoer, Townsend and Associates of Chicago. He received his engineering degree from the University of Minnesota.

STRONG

A brief news item buried in an inside page stated the simple fact: Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association's total assets have passed $50,000,000.

This means little to the average reader . . . until he realizes that Arlington Heights Federal Savings now ranks within the top 10 per cent of the nation's 6,213 savings and loan associations.

More remarkable is the fact that we have moved into this elite group within fifteen years after we opened our doors.

Also worthy of note: Our growth has been as sound as it is record-making. Our reserves (net worth) are 36 per cent stronger than required by Federal supervisory agencies.

Your confidence remains, above all, our greatest asset. That's why we work so hard to earn it.

Stewart, Dahl On Dean's List At Notre Dame

Two Arlington Heights residents have been named to the Dean's List at the University of Notre Dame.

Larry C. Stewart, 1726 N. Stratford, attained a 3.364 average during the second semester as a sophomore in the College of Business Administration.

James E. Dahl, 416 S. Windsor Dr., attained a 4.000 average for the second semester of the freshman year program.

Requirements for the Dean's List at Notre Dame are a 3.250 average or better on a scale where 4.00 equals A.

Stewart and Dahl were two of 1,372 students to be so honored. The figure represents 22 per cent of the University's 6,200 undergraduates.

Everyone is On the Move, Says Mover

BY CURT WILSON

"This is the movingest area in the country," said Gordon Terry, regarding the northwest suburbs.

Terry, who directs a nationwide moving operation from his office in Des Plaines, is president of Rothery-Atlas Van Lines. George W. Noffs, president of the Arlington Heights outlet of North American Van Lines, agreed with Terry as he said, "Arlington Heights is probably one of the most moving areas in the nation."

STATISTICS SHOW that more than 33 million people across the nation will move to a new home this year, an average of one out of every five families.

Terry believes, however, that the average in the northwest suburban area will be as high as one out of every four families that will move this year.

According to figures released by the Illinois Bell Telephone Community Service Department, based on the number of new main lines installed in residences between January 1 and June 30, 1968, 519 new families moved into the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area during that three-month period.

HAROLD BELL, executive manager of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, which operated the Welcome Neighbor Program, stated that the welcome service greeted 1652 new families during the 1967 calendar year.

Bell said that 1968 is running about the same as far as volume, and he stressed that the Welcome Neighbor service greets almost entirely families that move to houses, because they are often unable to obtain the names and information on people moving to apartments.

Terry pinpointed the primary reason for most of the moves as being employees transferred by their businesses. The great turnover in this area was attributed to the large number of companies springing up here.

AS AN EXAMPLE, Terry cited United Air Lines, which recently built the world's largest single-company office building in Mount Prospect.

More than 2,500 people work in the office, most of whom were transferred from other United locations and had to move to new homes in the area. This is the main reason for the large colony of apartments in the south end of Mount Prospect.

Terry said that a pattern is established when a young couple moves to the area with a new company, and they move again as their family grows. Even a third move might take place as the family desires a larger or, in some cases, a smaller one.

ANOTHER interesting point that Terry brought up was most families that move out from the city will not move back, but to another suburb.

The majority of the moves that do not involve a job change, said Terry, are to the same or an adjoining suburb.

Another factor affecting the frequency of moves in this area is the age of the residents. It was shown this week that the average age of the residents here is 24 years.

At this age, many people are still getting started and may move more often than older people.

Mike Schmidt pauses to reflect on all the work that needs to be done when the family moves to a new house. Mike's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Schmidt recently moved from Hoffman Estates to 1252 E. Kensington, Arlington Heights. (Photo by Curt Wilson)

Horoscope

FOR FRIDAY

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) - Combine business and pleasure to your advantage. A social activity could easily result in a signed business contract.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) - Don't allow the sun to go down on a quarrel with loved ones. There can be a meeting of minds if you do your part.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) - Complete the week's work during morning hours if possible. Afternoon would profit by a relaxed attitude on your part.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) - There are some who would attempt to deceive you today into thinking you cannot succeed. Refuse to be discouraged.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) - Even though you feel no personal affinity toward co-workers, you would be wise to play a friendly, persuasive game.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) - Settle disputes amiable during morning hours; use the afternoon for progressive activities important to your work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) - Many social advantages offer themselves to the aware Aquarius this morning. Don't make the mistake of thinking them unimportant.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) - Take care not to fall asleep at the switch this morning or you may miss out on an unusual and profitable opportunity.

ARIES (March 22-April 29) - Take the lead yourself if you can't find anyone willing to go out on a limb where the present project is concerned.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) - Performance and personality have equal parts in your success today. See that professional associates know what you're about.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) - Take care of important matters during morning. Afternoon and evening seem calculated to confuse the issues at hand.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) - Gain additional support for your present plans. Approach friends and strangers alike in an attitude of self-confident optimism.

KLED VEGETABLES are easy to make give you the opportunity to use your im- ion and creativity when you arrange in their jars. Many vegetables are at their and cheapest this month, so why not pickle of them to serve at your next dinner par-beans can be given a new look by ing green and yellow pods. Carrot take on added interest when slender are combined with thin slices. For an ing design, quarter small beets and throw a handful of tiny onions or 1 to 1½ inch of cauliflower.

And to solve the cauliflower's color problem, it pink. Add ¼ cup liquid drained from beets to each cup red wine vinegar pickling them. If you have no beet solu- add red food color to regular white

All vegetable pickles should be processed in water to destroy harmful organisms and ure a tight seal. Water should be steam- but not quite boiling, and deep enough cover jars. Keep jars straight when lowering the water so the entire bottom of each touches the water at the same instant.

Quickly bring water to boiling and start processing time. Remove jars from and stand them out of draft, and several apart, to cool. Wait 10 to 12 hours, bands and test seal. Store in a cool, dry place. Pickles need several weeks to velop full flavor. Thay are best when rated for several hours and served icy make 6 or 7 pints:

3½ to 4 pounds fresh, crisp, pencil-slim or yellow beans (mix or match colors) cups vinegar
3½ cups water
4 tablespoons each salt and sugar - more or less may be used
3 to 4 cloves garlic

For each pint jar:
1 to 1½ teaspoons dill seed or medium-sized head fresh dill
¼ to ½ teaspoon crushed hot red pepper
1 teaspoon each mustard and celery seeds

Thoroughly wash, rinse and drain beans. While beans drain, put vinegar, water, salt, sugar and garlic in saucepan; bring to boil and set aside. If necessary, trim beans so they are ½-inch shorter than the fruit jars. Put beans in jar without crowding them and add seasonings.

When all jars have been filled, bring pickling solution to a full boil, discard garlic and pour hot solution over beans. It should come to ¼-inch of top of jar. Wipe off anything spilled on top or threads of jar. One tiny seed can prevent sealing. Put dome lid on jar; screw band tight.

Process jars 5 minutes in boiling water. (This recipe may also be used for dilling okra. Okra must be firm, fresh and preferably no more than 2½ inches long. Leave on a bit of the stem. Process 10 minutes in boiling water.)

BEET AND ONION WEDGES

Use fresh, small, tender red beets and thoroughly cured pickling onions. If onions are not available, pickled ones may be used, but they increase the cost. Takes 40 to 50 small beets and 1 to 2 cups tiny onions for 6 to 8 pints pickle.

In addition to beets and pickling solution, 2 teaspoons light mustard seed, 1 teaspoon celery seed and ¼ teaspoon crushed red pepper are needed for each pint of pickle.

To make pickling solution use:
4 cups high-grade bottled vinegar
1 cup water
1 cup sugar - more may be used if sweeter pickle is wanted
1 tablespoon salt
2 teaspoons whole allspice
1, 2- or 3-inch stick cinnamon - break in small pieces
½ teaspoon whole cloves

Tie spices in thin piece of cloth. Combine all ingredients for solution and boil for 5 minutes. Set aside while preparing beets and onions.

Leave on all beet roots and 1 or 2 inches of stems. Thoroughly wash, rinse and drain beets. Drop them into kettle of boiling water and cook until barely tender. While beets cook, remove skins from onions. Boil onions 5 minutes; dip into cold water. Drain. When beets are ready, let drain until cool enough to handle; then remove stems, roots and skins. Quarter beets and mix with the onions.

Fill jars about ½ full; add seeds and crushed pepper. Finish filling jars to ½-inch to top. Reheat pickling solution to boiling and pour over beets. Solution should come to ¼-inch of top of jar. Wipe off anything spilled on top or threads of jar. Put dome lid on jar; screw band tight. Process 30 minutes in boiling water.

CARROT STICKS AND CHIPS

Use fresh, firm small, deeply colored carrots. For about 2 quarts pickle make a solution of:
3 cups white vinegar
2½ cups water
1 cup sugar - more may be used
1½ tablespoons salt
1 bay leaf
2 cloves garlic - slightly crush
1, 2-inch piece of ginger root - pound to crush
1½ teaspoons whole allspice.
1, 2- or 3-inch sticks cinnamon - break in small pieces

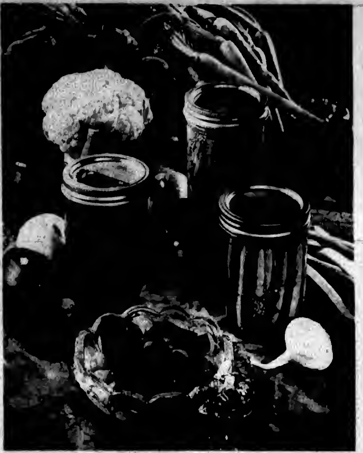
Measure vinegar, water, sugar, and salt in kettle large enough to hold the carrots. Tha other ingredients in thin piece of cloth and drop into kettle. Boil mixture 8 to 10 minutes and set aside.

To make pickle:

In addition to the carrots, ¼ to ½ teaspoon crushed red pepper, 1 tablespoon each light mustard and celery seeds are needed for each quart jar. If dilled carrots are wanted, add 1 to 2 tablespoons dill seed to each quart jar of pickle.

Thoroughly wash, rinse, drain and peel carrots. Cut about half of them in slender sticks and the rest in thin slices. Heat pickling solution to boiling, add carrots; boil 5 minutes then turn pickle into a bowl and let stand overnight or longer. Reheat pickle to boiling.

Fill jars about half way with carrots, add the pepper and seeds and finish filling jar to ½-inch of top. Heat solution to boiling and pour over carrots. Solution should come to about ¼-inch of top of jar. Wipe off anything spilled on top or threads of jar. Put dome lid on jar; screw band tight. Process pints 10 minutes and quarts 15 minutes in boiling water.



Create tasty and attractive vegetable pickles now while vegetables are at their best and cheapest.

'Enjoying Meat - American Style'

Michael Shannon, a resi- t of Arlington Heights for years and a member of the industry, has written his inion of enjoying meat- erican style in answer to many questions he has ceived from friends and ighbors about how to rchase tender meat for their

Shannon has been in the olesale meat business for years. He is a qualified tcher and while working for ift and Co. he was a special sultant on portion-con- lled meats for its Hotel and staurant Division.

He was in business for eight rs on Chicago's north side rving the better retail dependents, restaurants and ters. He is presently in arge of the Dept. of riculture's national school cheon program at the S. Meat Co. on the south of Chicago.

By Michael T. Shannon

Julia Child is one of my favorite TV performers and I know that I'm in the majority because her book, "The French Chef Cookbook," is among the top 10 sellers in this country. She does her job wall, and at present is a novelty in the Amarican viewer's eye, but her popularity will wane because the product that she is selling isn't for the American kitchen.

Can you imagine our suburban housewife gambling her domestic happiness, and particularly her husband's stomach, on the outcome of a Chaud-Froid Fish Salad Mold?

French cooking is highly complicated, aven for the French, and takes a great deal of time. I might add that it is totally unnecessary in the American home.

IF YOU HAVE an adventurous appetite, a yen for the different in foods, try the very excellent Franch restaurants we have in the downtown Chicago area. It's much easier on the family.

If you insist on axperimenting in the French food realm at home, please do it when hubby is away on a business trip or on his poker night. The children can always eat hot dogs.

It's a basic fact that the French, as well as other Europeans, cook with wines and saucas simply because the meat produced on that continent is relatively tough and cannot be prepared in its original form. I do agree with the French in using wines when cooking, the only difference is that I drink the wines when I am cooking.

AMERICA raises the finest meat animals in the world. We are at least fifty years ahead of the rest of the world in the breeding of beef, lamb, and veal for the table. We have a prodigious amount of grazing land, and of course, the scientific know-how.

The finished product that reaches the retail store is tops in quality and edibility, the only distressful note is that our American beauty doesn't know how to cook it; rather, I should say that she doesn't know how to handle the steak or roast, or whatever it may be, before she pops it in the oven.

Thare ara four fundamentals to remember in purchasing and preparing the meat for the family meal. These are important because the meal is planned around the meat dish and if you fail in this department, the entire meal will be a failure.

1. Buy only graded U. S. Prima or Choica Meat, especially beef, to insure tenderness. Veal and lamb are young animals, and by nature are usually tender.

2. Know what you ara buying. If you don't know, ask the butcher what cut of meat it is. Never ask him how to cook it! Ha's a retailer, not a chef. A good American cookbook, will give you this information accurately.

3. Never cook the meat the same day you purchase it. If you plan to freeze the meat, keep it in the refrigerator a day or two before you freeze it. This is called "aging" and enhances tenderness and flavor.

4. Never directly salt a steak or roast. This tends to dry out the meat before the allotted cooking time. If you must saason, season the natural juice from the meat and then baste. This process will flavor of the meat.

I mentioned "aging" above. This is a procedure that most smart butchers practice. They usually hang the beef carcasses, and other fresh products, in thair coolers a minimum of three days before cutting and placing in the counter for sale.

Tha temperatura in the cooler is constant at 32 to 34 degrees F. and they let nature take its course, sometimes using a "blue" or aging light. Most of us grow mellow in age and so does beef.

Lastly, remember that the best economy is quality.

Lamb, eggplant, mushrooms, zucchini and corn are combined for a new taste in outdoor ing.

Try Lamb Shish Kabobs

Outdoor chefs who are making use of our mer weather cooking season may enjoy fix- lamb kabobs.

Kabobs are broiled cubes of meat on wers, often with alternating pieces of ables. The meat is usually marinated re broiling. Here the vegetables are fresh hrooms, eggplant and zucchini squares. kabobs are served with whole kernel corn.

LAMB SHISH KABOBS WITH KERNEL CORN

teaspoon powdered mustard teaspoon warm water pounds boneless lamb cut from leg cup salad or olive oil tablespoons cider vinegar teaspoon salt teaspoon onion salt teaspoon garlic salt teaspoon oregano leaves
½ teaspoon whole allspice
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
12 medium-sized fresh mushrooms
12 squares (1-inch each) raw eggplant
12 squares raw zucchini
4 cups whole kernel corn

Mix mustard with warm water; let stand 10 minutes for flavor to develop. Cut lamb into 1¼ inch cubes and place in a bowl. Combine oil, vinegar, salt, onion and garlic salt, oregano, allspice, black pepper and mustard. Heat, then cool. Pour over lamb. Cover, refrigerate 4 to 5 hours or overnight, turning meat occasionally.

String meat on skewers and broil 3 to 4 inches from source of heat, 2 minutes. Remove meat and rearrange on skewers alternating with vegetables. Brush with marinade. Place under broiler. Cook 7 minutes or until done, brushing with marinade as often as vegetables look dry. Serve meat and vegetables on a dish of kernel corn. Six servings.

Tour Trail Gardens

When planning your next weekend outing consider a tour of the Trial Gardens at the University of Illinois in Urbana. One thousand, five hundred varieties of annual and bedding flowers reach their peak during Aug. and Sept. Located near the corner of Florida and Lincoln Aves. in Urbana, this spacious two-acre flower and lawn research program is maintained by the State Division of Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture.

More than 350 varieties of petunias are now in bloom, 125 varieties of snapdragons and the same of zinnias. Many varieties of salvias, marigolds, celosias can be viewed along with 15 varieties of the new seed-grown geraniums, including the 1968 All-America winner, "Carefree" in bright pink, deep salmon and scarlet.

Shade beds ara anothar feature of the Trial Gardens. These are located at the floriculture greenhouses and have on display many varieties of fibrous-rooted begonias, impatiens, pansies, lobelias and browallias.

All flowers are labeled and planted in rows for easy inspection. Cameras, pencil and paper ara necessary items whenever visiting the Gardens.

Serve a summer "fruit happening"-a gathering of fresh fruits steeped in cranberry juice cocktail and ginger ale.

Summer Suggestion: A 'Fruit Happening'

Summer is the season for fresh pears, nectarines, grapes, blueberries peaches and practically every other warm weather fruit. After you have eaten enough of them singly, wa suggest a "fruit happening."

Take several fruits. Place together in a glass bowl with a block of ice. Then pour over a mixture of cranberry juice cocktail and ginger ale. Let the fruit steep in this mixture awhile, then serve.

CRANBERRY FRESH FRUIT BOWL

2 cups cranberry juice cocktail
¼ cup sugar
1 cup ginger ale
1 pint strawberries, hulled and halved
2 pears, peeled, cored and diced
2 peaches, peeled, pitted and sliced
2 cups stemmed, seedless green grapes
1 small pineapple, peeled and diced
Fresh mint

Mix cranberry juice with sugar and stir until sugar is dissolved. Add ginger ale. Layer all fruits in a serving bowl. Pour liquid over fruit and chill until ready to serve. Toss gently just before serving in small bowls topped with a sprig of fresh mint. Eight servings.

David Clough Weds Silvia Ponce

A June 15 wadding in Monterrey, N.L., Mexico united David Edwards Clough, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Clough, Arlington Heights, and Silvia Katinka Ponce, daughtar of Senora Olga Gallegos de Ponce and the late Senor Abelado Ponce.

Wedding attandants included Thomas Clough of Cleveland, who served as best man for his brothar and Jeremy Clough and his wife Judith of Ft. Collins, Col. who served as sponsors.

David Clough was graduatad from Arlington High School in 1964 and from Case Tech in 1968. He met his bride while studying at Monterrey Tech during his junior year.

The bride and groom are now residing in Boulder, Col. whera David plans to do graduate work at the University of Colorado.

Vacation Planning

Traveling tips can be put to good use whether you are planning a vacation to the Grand Canyon or only going to the shopping center.

To avoid that mess when eating at drive-ins, try taking along a shoe box lined with aluminum foil for each child. They can set their beverage or milk shake in it and in case of accident the foil will catch the drippings.

Mom, attach a large safety pin to the lining of your purse. If you will slip your rings or watch onto the pin any time you wash your hands, you will not run the risk of leaving any jewelry behind.

Before going on a trip, type the names and addresses of people to whom you wish to send postcards on gummed labels. Fold the strips of labels and carry in your purse. Another wise precaution is to buy a few postage stamps and carry with your labels.

Empty cereal boxes make ideal litter bags in the car. When they are filled, simply throw into a nearby trash container.

Tuck an old snagged nylon stocking into the trunk. It may come in handy to clean off the headlights as the nylon is an ideal abrasive agent on glass.

Area Artists In Annual Fair

Several area artists have been accepted this year to exhibit at the Eleventh Annual Gold Coast Art Fair to be held the weekend of Aug. 9 through 11 from noon until 10 p.m. along Chicago's famed Rush St.

Billed as the world's largest art fair some five hundred participating artists will donate all proceeds to the Near North Juniors Infant Welfare Society. This year the fair's theme is dedicated to the Illinois Sesquicentennial and as usual there will be no admission charge.

Eight Arlington Haights artists will be axhibiting. They are Pat Kowal, Marc Gottula and his wife, Joanna Thompson Gottula, Joseph Adams, Beverly Galandak, Lois M. Baldwin, Marlene S. Hunt and Lucille Anderson Luciandi.

Thomas A. Prochaska and Frank Young Jr. both of Des Plaines will also axhibit along with five Mount Prospect artists, Evelyn Mitchell, Bob Bowman, Anthony Barone, Arlene Flora Kargacos and K. Dawn Butler.

Keep Your Iron Handy

If you thought you could retire your iron now that the durable press era is here, you'd better recall it for active duty!

That's the recommendation of the nation's laundry experts in a report issued this week on the resin-finished fabrics which promise permanent press qualities.

From its research and textile center in Joliet, the American Institute of Laundering, representing 80 per cent of the country's professional launderers, told its members that these garments do need some pressing—and will need more as they are frequently laundered.

THE A.I.L. made extensive tests of various combinations of washing and drying methods, including the use of home and professional equipment, as well as hand washing, the report points out. They also studied the fabrics after bleaching and alterations had been made.

The test program was launched as a result of the predicition of garment manufacturers that 90 per cent of all production will be channeled to meet consumer demand for permanent press clothing.

Conclusions from testing polyester|cotton shirts, typical of durable press fabrics in use, were:

"1. Washing in cool or in warm water either by machine or hand and air drying does not clean satisfactorily, nor does it remove wrinkles put into the fabric during wear.

"2. Hot home washing with tumbler drying is satisfactory for a few wear cycles. But after eight to 10 wearings the fabric requires pressing. Wear wrinkles are evident and the fabric is fuzzy.

"3. Washing in a professional white work shirt procedure used by laundries involves a complete pressing, but assures that they are clean."

Garments of heavier materials, such as slacks, and work shirts initially retain their shape and creases well after washing and drying, the Institute continued. But as the number of wear cycles increases, they found the need for pressing also increases.

The A.I.L. found that the new fabrics are greatly improved over the old wash-and-wear materials, in that the resins used to make the permanent press, are not chlorine retentive, as a rule. In the older fabrics, chlorine from bleaches would be retained in the fabric, and when the heat of pressing was applied, the fabric would deteriorate.

"For the most part," they reported, "the problem of chlorine retention as we knew it with wash-and-wear is not present."

BUT THE launderers found that alterations create a problem with these permanently finished materials. Seams can be taken in to make the garment smaller, but they can't be let out. Cuffs can be shortened, but lengthening is not recommended, and they have some reservations about shortening.

In tapering legs of pants, they recommend to "sew off equal amounts from both the inseam and the outer seam rather than from one only," since the position of the crease can't be changed, and by sewing in a little on each seam, the crease will remain the same, thus preventing the creation of a double crease.

The laundry experts also found that durable press fabrics have a tendency to absorb oil and grease, and that frequently in order to clean them, they must use both laundry and dry cleaning techniques.

They recommend to women who complain that home laundering of polyester|cotton shirts has resulted in discoloration, that they turn the job over to the professional laundry. If shirts don't come back to their original brightness after the first washing, successive professional laundering should improve their appearance.

The Morton Salad Bar Dispenser, a wood paneled and brass stand, will soon be appearing in cafeterias and restaurants. It offers six varieties of salad dressings in convenient, safe squeeze packs.

Salad Bar Dispenser

An innovation soon to be introduced in many local restaurants and cafeterias is the Morton Salt Bar. This help-yourself salad dressing selector was recently developed by Morton Quality Products Company, Chicago. It offers six different salad dressings: Mayonnaise, French, Garlic Italian, Thousand Island, Blue Cheese and Plain, all in convenient squeeze packs.

Designed primarily to eliminate spillage and spoilage problems, each bar will contain 300 packs of dressing. As with Morton's popular squeeze pack servings of mustard and catsup, the new dressings will not require refrigeration.

Illinois Bell offers still more.

Now the Union says "All or nothing."

What does bargaining mean to leaders of System Council T-4, IBEW?

They made it quite clear last week.

It means: They will accept nothing less than everything they demand.

With the Democratic convention out of the way, we resumed informal negotiations with the union on July 26.

In an all-out effort to end this strike, we discussed significant additions to a contract we already considered eminently fair.

We offered to try and bridge the difference between our last offer of July 17 and the union's last three-year contract position handed to us in Mayor Daley's office on June 29.

But the union representatives would listen to nothing but complete capitulation.

Why?

Because they are betting they can disrupt your phone service so much that you will want us to give them all they ask . . . anything . . . just to end this strike.

How Much Is Fair?

Who knows? But . . .

How would you like to get $3,200 more pay over the next three years?

Weekly wage increases of $14.00 now and another $13.50 within the next two years?

Sound fair?

That's what our formal three-year offer of July 17 would give two out of three of the workers involved.

They also would enjoy these improvements in fringe benefits, starting at various dates during the contract: full payment by the company of hospital, surgical and group life insurance premiums; five weeks vacation after 25 years; increased pensions and disability payments.

Similar contracts already have been accepted by half a million other telephone employees here and across the country.

Without any additions, our July 17th offer surpasses the wage agreements reached in all other major industries this year.

The new steel contract, for example, gives top-rated people an extra 51 cents an hour over the three years of the contract. Our offer gives top craftsmen an additional 69 cents an hour.

The contract proposal, in fact, stretches the top limits of guidelines set by the President's Committee on Price Stability in its efforts to curb inflation.

How Much More Is More?

Despite the obvious merits of our July 17th offer, we concluded we should make one more determined effort to reach a settlement.

That's why we indicated our willingness to try and bridge the difference between offer and demand.

But the union leaders showed no interest. They want all or nothing.

Now the question is: How much more is more?

It's Time the Union Leaders Answered Some Questions.

We think it's time to put some important questions to these union leaders and all who support them.

- Workers in other industries might ask: Why do these people deserve bigger increases than I got?
- Other telephone employees might ask the same.
- Some striking phone workers might ask: How many more months must I walk the picket line, how many more thousands of dollars must I lose in order to give the leaders a "victory"?
- Public officials might ask: Why should this union be encouraged or allowed to violate wage guidelines set up by the President's Cabinet Committee?
- Everyone might ask: Why should these union leaders be allowed to shove all of us down the road to a period of inflation that will eat away at all our incomes?

We'd like their answers to these questions ourselves.

Next Presentation At Mill Run Playhouse

Next presentation at the Mill Run Playhouse in Niles, to run Aug. 13 through Sept. 1, is a comedy by Edward Chodorov, "Oh Men! Oh, Women!" based on the premise that men and women will never get along because they want different things — men want women and women want men.

Starring John Forsythe, "Oh, Men! Oh, Women!" is the story of an about-to-be-married psychiatrist whose patients inadvertently give him distrubing information about his fiancee.

John Forsythe, remembered as television's Bachelor Father and as star of the John Forsythe Show, most recently appeared in the film "In Cold Blood." His other movies include "The Trouble with Harry," "Nothing But the Truth," "The Ambassador's Daughter" and "Madame X."

He replaced Henry Fonda in the play "Mister Roberts" and created his own role — that of Captain Fisby in the hit Broadway show, "Teahouse of the August Moon."

JOHN FORSYTHE

He and his wife, the former Julie Warren, a musical comedy actress, were married in 1943 and now live in Los Angeles with their two daughters, Page and Brooke.

The supporting cast of "Oh, men! Oh, Women!" includes Dick Valentine, Mary Jo Stadelmann, Art Kassul, Lillian Evans and David Spung. Carl Stohn Jr. is the producer, Michael Ferrell directs and David Morrison is the designer.

Performances will be at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; 6:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. Saturday; and 7:30 p.m. Sunday. There will also be Wednesday matinees at 2 p.m.

Tickets are $3.25 and $3.95 weekday and Sunday evenings; $4.25 and $4.95 Friday and Saturday; and $2.95 and $3.25 Wednesday matinee. For further information and reservations, call 297-2044.

All Licensed Drivers Face Re-Examination

Secretary of State Paul Powell today reminded Illinois' licensed motor vehicle operators that beginning Jan. 1, 1969, the law will require that they be re-examined once every nine years in order to retain their drivers licenses.

"Periodic re-examination of all drivers is one of the Federal Government's requirements, and failure to comply with it would result in the loss to Illinois of 10 per cent of its allocation of Federal funds for highway purposes," Powell said.

"But what is more important," he added, "is that periodic re-examination of drivers has long been advocated by traffic safety experts as an essential weapon in the battle to reduce the death toll on streets and highways."

AS THE PROGRAM gets under way, one-ninth of the licensed drivers will be examined each year as their licenses are due for renewal, so that all licensed drivers will have been examined by the end of the nine-year period, Powell said.

This procedure will result in an increase of 825,000 examinations to be given each year over the present workload, he said.

It is possible that, as the program develops, it may be necessary to re-examine drivers at shorter intervals than nine years, Powell warned. The Federal government has said re-examination should take place every four years, but added that progress toward that end would be acceptable at present.

Experience gained by the various states and further consultation with Federal government officials may bring adjustments in the next few years.

The drivers being re-examined will be given the vision test, the road sign recognition test and the written test on traffic laws, and some will also be required to take the driving test.

THE DECISION to require the driving test will be based on the driver's past record for revocation or suspension of his license, involvement in accidents and arrests for traffic law violations, plus other factors which may come to the examiner's attention in the course of giving the other tests.

The first drivers to be re-examined will be those with records of previous revocations or suspensions, accident involvement or convictions for traffic law violations.

Since those drivers are in the minority, Powell estimated that they would all be re-examined in three or four years.

Drivers to be examined will be notified just prior to the renewal date of their licenses.

6 Scholarships for 4-H Coeds

Six $800 scholarships will be awarded this fall to 4-H coeds who plan to major in home economics.

These scholarships are part of the College Scholarship Fund set up by the Cooperative Extension Service and administrated by the National 4-H Service Committee.

The home economics grants are for current or former 4-H members who will be enrolled in their junior year of college in the fall of 1968. Candidates submit their applications through the state 4-H Club office.

Scholastic and 4-H records will be judged in Chicago the first part of November, and winners will be announced during the National 4-H Congress held there, Dec. 1-5.

Donors of two scholarships each are: The S&H Foundation, Inc., The West Bend Co., and Sunbeam Corp.

In addition to the home economics scholarships, S&H Foundation provides annual awards in the national 4-H Home Improvement program, reports the National 4-H Service Committee.

Poolside Farewell Party

about 35 members of the Prospect Heights Woman's Club attended the poolside party given by Mrs. John Brierton at her home as a farewell to Mrs. Richard De Muesey, who is moving back to Ohio. Most of the guests had worked on committees with Mrs. De Muesey, who was Vietnam chairman last year, and who will be succeeded by Mrs. Brierton this year. In the Hawaiian hut adjoining the pool (above), Mrs. De Muesey receives the good luck wishes of Mrs. Brierton, Mrs. J. Bayard Kelly, and Mrs. Robert Wrobel.

Wonderful World of Wrinkles

Ask any of your friends to quickly divide mankind into two distinct groups, and undoubtedly their first reaction will be as follows: 1(male, and 2(female. I'd like to go one step further and point out that there is another division which is perhaps a bit more subtle, but none-the-less as dramatic. I'm talking about that vast abyss which separates the bath-takers from the shower-takers.

Living as we do, in a culture which places a high premium on efficiency and speed, perhaps the shower-takers are in the majority. I don't know this to be a fact, I'm only guesssing.

Undoubtedly, somewhere there is a giant computer, which in three or four seconds could spew forth the correct data concerning this burning social question.

BUT, IF MY GUESS is correct. I'm in the minority...and intend to remain there. I'm not making apologies, mind you, merely stating my case.

In this big, beautiful land of brisk shower-taking, I remain steadfast and true to my tub. I like to loll, for long periods of blissful time, in bubbles up to my chin. If pellets of exotic, aromatic bath oil are dissolved in the water, I am absolutely delirious with joy.

What I deem relaxing, some shower-takers may view as downright slothfulness. Not so. Bathing, if properly executed, can be a ritual which boarders almost on prayer. After all...cleanliness IS next to you-know-what, though a shower may do in a pinch, I never emerge from a shower stall feeling quite as refresh, nor as divinely clean as I do from a bath. The more wrinkled my finger pads the better

SOME OF MY LOFTIEST thoughts have occured while completely submerged in a steaming tub. Pettiness seems to disappear, and I am at peace with the whole human race.

Now my intent is certainly not to proselytize, but I would like to make one small suggestion. The next time you feel blue, insecure, nervous or depressed, try a warm luxurious bath, it beats brandy all to heck.

P.S. Any female reader sharing my views, who desires an entry blank for the "Miss Prune of 1968" contest, may obtain one by writing to me in care of this paper. Remember, age is no barrier, in fact...it's a downright advantage.

FACT, FUNNIER than fiction: Jim Saine, owner of Tralee Farms, Rt. 25, Barrington Hills, tells a story that I'd like to pass on to you.

Jim and his family live in the farm house adjacent to the restaurant. As well as horses, they also have a registered English bulldog as a pet for the children. Her name is "Holly" and she is kept in a pen behind the house.

One Sunday, a few weeks ago, the children were playing with Holly and forgot to put her back into her quarters.

The dog wandered up to the business entrance and evidently followed one of the guests through the first door, where she was trapped, unable to get in and unable to get out. She didn't make a sound as she waited for someone to come and rescue her.

A COUPLE, out for a relaxing Sunday dinner, drove up to the door where the gentleman dropped his wife while he parked the car. The lady opened the first door, and there stood harmless, friendly Holly... with her bowed legs and fierce-looking bull-dog face.

To say she was startled, would be the understatement of the decade. She was utterly flabbergasted!!!

At this precise moment, Jim, genial host that he is, opened the inside glass door to bestow a welcoming smile. Seeing what had happened.. and noting the look of panic on the woman's face, he shouted in his sternest voice: "HOLLY GET OUT OF HERE!"

The lady spun on her heels and fled to the protecting arms of her approaching husband.

AS LUCK WOULD have it..the lady's name was "Holly"

After a few moments, she regained her composure and realizing what had happend, approached the entrance laughing.

they enjoyed their dinner in traditional Tralee tran-

Taxpayers Supporting Many Officials

Each 10,000 inhabitants of the United States supports an average of 27 elected state and local officials, says a Commerce Clearing House report.

All told, there are some 521,758 officials elected to administer state and local governments. More than a fourth of the elected local officials are serving governments located in the nation's metropolitan areas.

State governments account for 13,038 elected officials and the remaining 508,720 serve such local governments as counties, municipalities, townships, school districts and special districts, said the CCH study of government data.

State officials saw $61.1 billion pour into their coffers last year – an increase of 147 per cent over the past 10 years. States imposing sales or gross receipts taxes received $18.6 billion and motor fuel taxes produced $4.8 billion. Personal income taxes imposed by 36 states brought in $4.9 billion.

On top of this, transfers of funds from other governments, principally the federal government, added $14.3 billion to state revenues.

Counting school districts, there are some 81,248 local governments in the country. While this is a reduction of 10,000 from the 1962 total – largely through a decrease in the number of school districts -- the states' largest expenditure continues to be for education which totaled $21.2 billion – a 20 per cent jump from 1966.

So it takes money, officials and a host of career-civil service people to run our 81,248 local governments and manage collecting $61 billion and spending $59 billion of it each year.

It also takes millions of individuals and profitable corporations as well, CCH said.

Learning Chemistry

Mark W. Frisbie, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Frisbie, 901 S. We Go Trail, Mount Prospect, and David Denley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Denley, 101 Wolf Rd., Prospect Heights, are among 48 high ability high school students enrolled this summer at San Diego State College in a chemistry training program.

The Department of Chemistry at the school is conducting the program, funded by a National Science Foundation grant, to help students choose electives in their last year of high school and to encourage them to enter a scientific career.

Wheeling finally managed a win, 8-2, in the second game. A five-run fifth inning put the game on ice for Wheeling. For Waycinden Joe Dominick doubled to drive in the first run. Dominick's hit was the only extra base whack of the game.

IN JUNIOR league play, the first place Kunkel Realtors snatched a 5-3 win from Jerry's Super Shell in their only contest of the weak. The Realtors bunched four runs in the fourth inning, three of them coming on a home run by Mike Funk who also pitched the win.

The Elks split their games, falling to Dog 'N' Suds, 13-10, as Ken Mitsuoko blasted both a home run and a triple, and Craig Lukowicz, Gene McNally and Tom Maher all hed two hits for the losers. For the Sudsers, Tom Pavalina went two-for-two with a pair of doubles, Jeff Moore had a double and a single, and Dennia O'Shaughnessy and Mike Meyer had two singles apiece.

The Elks tripped Clark's Mobil, 10-9, although the losers, playing with only eight men, put together a seven-run, second inning uprising. Bob Hahn and Ken Mitsuoka each contributed homers to their cause.

CLARK'S WON their second game of the week, taking over 7-6 from the Selep Silk Screeners. Keith Wallnski pitched the win.

Sportsman's Barbershop also divided a coupie of gamas. They adged the bankers of First National, 3-2, clinching second place with an 11-hit attack. Dave Matzl collected two singles and drove in two runs. Don Stevens also had two hits and two RBI's, and Eric Watson drove in the other run. Dennis Mitchell and Ray Meinsen both had two hits.

SPORTSMAN'S was clipped in their second game of the week by the City Barbers, 9-7, although they got most of the hitting. Meinsen had a home run while Joe Locka had a triple and a single, Don Stevens doubled, and Dave Hadley, Chris Eugenis and Ted Urda all had two hits.

First National Bank cashed in a 16-2 victory over Johnson's Sporting Goods with 18 hits. Ken Butzen and Dave Raymond both went four-for-five and Pete Hahn was three-for-four in the winning cause.

The Optimists added another explosive hitting attack to the Junior League slate, coming up with 16 hits in a 15-5 whitewashing of Pete's Enco. Rick Groch homered for the Encos, and Jim Volanti had a round-tripper for the winners. John Steen and Dave Mileski each had three hits.

The Arlington Heights girls All-Stars took care of their sixth and seventh victims last week to keep their undefeated slate.

The Arlingtons smashed a usually powerful Des Plaines group, 22-5, and then went on to clobber Barrington, 24-0. Ginger Loughman slammed two round-trippers And Carol Burlingame went three-for-four at the plate. Jamie Kessner, Stacy Weber and Mollie Schimmel also helped to spark the win.

Arlington will play Mount Prospect on Friday at 2 p.m. at Recreation Park for the last game of the season.

Keeps Lead Despite Loss

Annen and Busse bowed to Kirchoff Insurance 6-4 in this week's play of the Tuesday night Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League, but retained a slim lead over second place Kruse's Tavern.

The sweitering heat caused most of the golfers to wilt, but Bob Krause and Ed Lauing managed to remain crisp enough to turn in identical 39's to share low gross honors. Low net went to Bob Kopriva, who toured the Mount Prospect layout in 40, giving him a sizzling net 28.

Research technician Barbara Cook examines some of the controls on the electron microscope which stands 5 ft. 8 in. high and weighs 600 pounds.

New Electron Microscope At Lutheran General

An electron microscope capable of enlarging images up to 100,000 times their normal size has been installed at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. It can detect particles such as viruses that are impossible to see with a regular microscope which can magnify images only up to 1,000 times.

The electron microscope is being used as an aid in diagnosing certain kidney and liver diseases. Other clinical uses will be developed.

It is also being used in the hospital's research programs, particularly in the areas of heart and cancer. Partial support for the heart and cancer research programs is coming from the Park Ridge United Fund.

The electron microscope uses energy emitted from extremely fast flowing electrons as its light source. This energy source requires that the instrument be used in a dark room so images can be seen more clearly.

Tissues are prepared for the electron microscopy under a microscope. They are cut into slices so thin that about 100 could float on a drop of water. Tissues can be photographed for follow-up studies by a camera built into the electron microscope.

Flower Cookery

Have you ever tried a nasturtium tea sandwich? a marigold petal salad? chrysanthemum stew or blossom fritters with gardenia blooms?

Frances Jones Poetker, an international prize-winning FTD florist from Cincinnati will be at the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Co. Home Service Auditorium kitchen, 122 S. Michigan Friday, Aug. 16 from 2 to 3 p.m.

Flower users should not use flowers that have been sprayed, she warns, and offers many recipes that are colorful and unique.

For scrambled eggs with rose petals select 3 or 4 rose petals, preferably red ones. Wash and remove bitter white base. Cut into thin strips with sharp scissors and add to scrambled eggs when they have finished cooking.

The public is invited to attend the free demonstration.

Two Charged In Liquor Sale

A Des Plaines bartender was charged with serving liquor to a minor and the youth was charged with accepting the liquor after an incident at the Fox and Hounds Tavern, 1584 Rand Rd., Sunday.

Bartender Hugh Adams, 29, of 119 Bonnie Brae, Mount Prospect was charged with serving liquor to William Mundt, 18, of 770 Oakton, Des Plaines, according to Des Plaines police.

Adams denied that he served Mundt liquor, police said.

Adams said that Mundt and a companion entered the tavern and asked to be served at the bar and to purchase a six-pack of beer. He said he refused to serve them. The youths said that they were served and were not asked for identification, according to police.

Bond for both Mundt and Adams was set at $50. They are to appear in the Des Plaines branch of circuit court on Aug. 28.

Car Thieves Steal for Joy Rides, Not Profit: Police

A "not for profit" system of auto theft that provides a car for a temporary "joy ride" is active in the suburbs.

Police officials say that the majority of auto thefts are committed here by teen-agers who take a car for a short time and then abandon it.

"They take the cars for a joy ride and not for profit," said Mount Prospect Police Chief Newell Esmond.

He said most of the thefts are committed by persons younger than 21 years old.

Last year in Mount Prospect, there were 13 auto thefts through July. Chief Esmond said this year there have been 21 auto thefts. Last year, nine of the cars were recovered by police and, so far, 13 of the stolen cars have been found this year.

ESMOND CITED drivers' carelessness as one of the main reasons for the rise of the auto theft rate in the village.

In Arlington Heights, however, there is "very little" auto theft, according to Lt. Maurice English of the police department.

Through June last year, there were 16 auto thefts in the village and this year there have been 20 through June.

Lt. English said that the residents of Arlington Heights are careful about locking their cars to discourage theft.

"Most of the young persons who steal cars are looking for joy rides, but most of the young persons in town here have their own cars," said Lt. English.

Cpl. George Kasch of the Illinois State Police, District 3 headquarters in Des Plaines, agreed that the majority of cars stolen are taken for a brief period and then are abandoned.

"A number of them are stipped or damaged. We also find a stolen car involved in a hit-and-run accident and then left at the scene," he said.

HE SAID that more than 80 per cent of the stolen autos reported to the state police have been recovered.

The trooper said that most reports of auto theft are received by municipal police agencies and that the state police are responsible for the auto theft division in the unincorporated areas of the county.

"Don't make your car an invitation or a temptation," said Thomas Enright, traffic safety consultant for the Chicago Motor club.

He urged drivers not to leave their keys in the car, especially, when they "stop at a store for a few minutes."

"That's when a lot of autos are taken, during that few minutes," he said.

Fitzhugh Hosts Rules Meeting

Harry L. Fitzhugh of Arlington Heights, executive secretary of the Illinois High School Association and a member of the National Alliance Football Rules Committee, will be a host for the Central States Rules Interpretation Meeting in Chicago on Aug. 12.

The meeting will be held at the LaSalle Hotel and will be attended by about 40 rules interpreters from 30 states. The meeting is to acquaint state officials with the proper interpretation of the National Alliance Football Code.

MANAGEMENT
RETAIL
OSCO DRUG
has a challenge for you

In less than 6 years we have grown to over 65 stores in the Chicago metropolitan market ... new stores now being built with emphasis in Northwest areas.

One significant reason for this continued growth has been our fortune in attracting capable young men who have the drive and ability to assume substantial responsibility in an extremely short span of time.

Some of the characteristics of our successful management candidates are:

... wants a situation that provides an entrepreneurial environment.

... has or is completing his college education.

... is under 30.

... has progressed in his overall business career, but his present assignment is static.

... enjoys the demands of people - development.

... earns a salary around $7,800 per year.

If you are interested in learning more about our growth and your potential, call or apply:

Final Convention Session Provides Some Surprises

BY RICHARD CRABB

"We're off to Chicago orrow to work for Sen. Carthy."

Strange words to be spoken the final session of the OP convention in Miami ch, but a sign of the times itically.

During the final session of convention in Miami last night, the Chuck rauners and Dwight Waltons of Arlington Heights, the Chuck Mihaleks of Wheeling, and other Republican leaders from the northwest suburbs were sitting in the convention hall among a large mixed group of college students. Each wore a badge inscribed, "The New Majority." They had taken part in the record 29-minute convention hall demonstration for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller the night before. They are a part of a nationwide student organization which arose during this campaign year.

One of the Arlington Heights woman asked the students what they would do now that the Republican convention is over. Almost in unison, the students gave the answer, "We're going to Chicago tomorrow to work for Sen. Eugene McCarthy."

They had come to Miami Beach and had offered their services to Gov. Rockefeller. They had run messages, made Rocky signs, addressed letters, handed out Rockefeller literature and done all the other routine tasks at the Rockefeller headquarters.

"These young people had paid their own expenses to Miami Beach to work for Rockefeller," said Lou Walton and Sally Trautner. "They were well-dressed and well-behaved and they were intensely interested in everything that was going on. One of them said in parting, 'Watch the Chicago convention on TV. You'll see us there in the demonstration for Sen. McCarthy.' This was the first national political campaign in which any of them had ever taken part."

When the Waltons left the convention hall after the final session last night, their rental car refused to start. One tired delegate waved and called, "Maybe she's out of gas just like Rockefeller."

Yesterday afternoon, when the announcement was made at the swimming pool at the Singapore Hotel that Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland had been tapped for the vice presidency by Richard Nixon, one delegate turned to her friend and asked, "What state is he from?" The question was asked many times in Miami Beach during the afternoon.

The Rockefellers staff yesterday still was baffled by the swift turn of events at the Wednesday night session. They would meet in the bar or around the swimming pool and always the question was "Why didn't he win?"

"The thing which impressed us," said Dwight Walton, "was that the experts, the persons who had been working with the campaign day after day, were just as much in the dark as any of us were."

Walton said he had one thrill while he was on the floor of the convention Wednesday. He was standing beside Gov. James Rhodes with the Ohio delegation. Rhodes was talking to the delegates, really not saying anything of importance. Suddenly someone was frantically pulling on Walton's shirt. He turned around to find that it was Mike Wallace of CBS, looking like a cousin to a space man with his electronic gear. "What's Gov. Rhodes saying? What has he been saying that's important?"

"Imagine Mike Wallace asking me what I'd heard. For years in our relationship, he has always been telling me what be heard," said Walton.

Post Office Work Begins Sept. 1

Construction on the new Arlington Heights post office will begin Sept. 1, The Day learned yesterday.

Arlington Heights Postmistress Mrs. Virginie Dodge said, "I can't believe it, but it's really good news. We will certainly welcome the additional space."

Mrs. Dodge said the present post office building at 201 W. Wing St., built 10 years ago, has been inadequate for the last five years.

Plans for the building are 80 per cent complete and are expected to be ready for post office department inspection 15 days from now, T. S. Patti, vice-president of Building Leasing Corp. of Kansas City, Mo. told The Day.

Patti said he expects approval from the post office department's district real estate office from 10 days to two weeks after that. Plans already are underway to move men and materials to the site adjacent to Bill Cook Buick in Arlington Heights.

The one-story building will have a concrete and glass facade and will occupy 27,000 square feet on the 150,000 square foot site at Kennicott and Euclid, Patti said.

Approximately 75 to 100 parking spaces will surround the building, he said.

A SPOKESMAN for Donald L. Swanson, regional director of post offices for the Chicago area, said the new building will be adequate to meet the village's need 20 years from now. The building will be leased from the Kansas City company at a cost of $81,240 annually, he said.

Mrs. Dodge said the post office rented additional space on south Arlington Heights Rd. five years ago to keep up with the demands for service from 60,000 patrons in Arlington Heights, 14,000 in Rolling Meadows and 14,000 in Elk Grove, areas served by the Arlington Heights post office.

The Arlington Heights post office also manages a facility for mail service to the more than 300 industries in Elk Grove.

Patti said his company will have more than 30 men working on the project and already is making contacts locally for subcontracting.

College Asks for Meeting On Installing Campus Sewer

BY K. C. RADTKE

Harper College President Robert E. Lahti, yesterday asked officials of the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MDS) to select one of three dates for a mutual discussion on a proposed sewer which the MSD "promised" to install on the college campus.

In a letter to Vinton Bacon, MSD superintendent, Lahti asked for a meeting either on Aug. 19, 20 or 21 to attempt to resolve the sewer installation.

Lahti told the college board of trustees last night that he was awaiting Bacon's reply.

"The Metropolitan Sanitary District committed themselves in January to installing our sewer, but somehow 'juggled the priority of its program'," Lahti said.

He said that MDS officials obligated themselves to construct the sewer extension between the college site and Algonquin Rd., and had told college officials that work would begin in April, 1968,

Retarded Children Learn by Playing

BY MAXINE TYMA

At the Countryside Center for the Handicapped near Barrington, retarded children learn by playing.

The outdoor recreation facilities on the six-acre site have been turned into "classrooms" where the children learn to get along with others and how to enjoy all the day camp operation.

The name of the center recently was changed from "Countryside Center for the Retarded" to the "Countryside Center for the Handicapped" to describe the wide range of services available threre. An eight-week summer day camp for retarded children is offered and a year-round workshop and rehabilitation center for young adults, enables those enrolled to be productive, to feel the personal achievement of doing a job and to enjoy the companionship of others while working.

The most popular spot is the small swimming pool with standing room only. Camp counselors and volunteer workers don swim suits to supervise activity.

The swings, play equipment and grassy areas are used to give the children an opportunity to enjoy the outdoors.

THIS YEAR for the first time, 10 children from Elgin State Hospital are participating in the day camp program. The children range from 9 to 16 years old. They are bused each day from Elgin. Counselors from the hospital come with the group and the state hospital pays the enrollment fee for the day camp program.

"We have had tremendous success with the children from Elgin," said Manuel Wedge, assistant director of the center.

"Next year we would like to continue this and to offer a more comprehensive program," he said.

Director of the center is Ralph Walberg of 320 N. [illegible] St., Mount Prospect.

"About 80 per cent of our children who attend classes here during the year return for the summer day camp," Walberg said.

"We also have children now who are enrolled in special education programs in the public schools and some who attend other schools for the retarded," he said.

Field trips also are on the agenda for the day campers.

This summer the children have visited Santa's Village, Hawthorne Melody Farms and the Deer Grove picnic area. They were guests of the Mount Prospect Plaza Assn. this week during a carnival.

"WE HAD A great time there," said Walberg. "We were treated to favors and cotton candy and popcorn and could ride on any of the amusements. The children had a good time."

The center has the use of the Barrington Swimming Pool during noon and 1 p.m. and the daycampers and the young adults in the workshop are bused there to go swimming.

"The state hospital has such beautiful ground and outside area, but often the children can't use the outside area under supervision," said Wedge.

"Here they can swim and play and picnic," he said.

Volunteer counselors also play an active part in keeping the summer program well supervised and interesting for the children.

Linda Hayes, a pretty United Airlines stewardess from Mount Prospect and Deb Handerlong, 15, of McHenry, are two of the volunteers who work with the children in the summer day camp program.

In the workshop area, the young adults do assembly and packaging work. Mrs. Margery Branch, manager of the workshop and rehabilitation center, said companies in Palatine and Des Plaines sub contract with the center for special jobs.

"The children have their own banks and get paid for the piece work when the job is done. At the end of the week, they take their money home. The payment right away provides a good incentive to work," she said.

DURING THE year the center has a preschool program for retarded children and they accept children 3 years old and older. Children who do not qualify for programs in the public schools can attend classes at the center and can continue their development.

The outdoor swimming pool gives the children a chance to express their feelings, from fun to affection, as was the case with this child who splashes counselor Sue Hoffman, left, and who gives counselor Kitty Allen of Barrington a big hug.

This boy can't stay alone for long when someone gives him a friendly splash and invites him to join in the fun. The two 6-year-olds are enrolled in the summer day camp program at the Countryside Center for the Retarded and swimming is one of the main items on the agenda for the summer program (Photos by Bob Johnson)

'Help Wanted' Signs of Times For Companies Here, Elsewhere

BY JENNIFER JOYCE

Driving through the industrial parks of the northwest suburbs, you will find many "Help Wanted" signs as a permanent fixture in front of industrial plants.

The signs, usually for both male and female help, are an indication of a shortage of unskilled laborers, not only in the northwest suburbs, but in the whole Chicago metropolitan area.

The employment director for Motorola Inc. in Elk Grove Village said that the pay scale is not the cause of the lack of unskilled workers.

"It's the number of people that are needed," he said. "There just aren't enough out here in the suburbs."

The shortage is critical at times, depending on what job category is to be filled, he added.

The labor market suffers when industries move from the city to the suburbs, said a spokesman for Bennett and Kahnweiler, the real estate firm which developed Centex Industrial Park in Elk Grove Village.

THE NORTHWEST suburbs are not alone in their labor problem, he said, adding that the north shore suburbs face a worse shortage.

According to a recent government study, Chicago is one of several large metropolitan areas in the nation which has a labor shortage.

In estimating the size of the labor shortage, company officials described the problem variously from severe to almost nonexistent.

The Parker Mount Prospect Personnel Service reported that 65 per cent of its clients are unskilled.

Positions for untrained workers are open in every field, especially in large companies which want to train employes immediately after they graduate from high school, the agency's director said.

Employment agencies do not place all unskilled workers, because a number of companies prefer to hire personnel directly, without paying a fee to the agency, said the director.

Recently, however, some companies have been willing to pay the agency fee because of the increasing demand for unskilled labor, said the president of Parker Personnel in Mount Prospect.

The shortage of unskilled labor is "critical," according to the agency head, and it is not confined to the Chicago area.

The nation-wide tightening of the labor market has been continuing for the past three or four years, he said.

Workers in the greatest demand are male assembly and warehouse workers and famale order pickers and assembly workers, she said.

IN GENERAL agreement with the other agencies on the labor shortage, the owner of Sheets Employment Service in Arlington Heights said thet the cost of living in the suburbs seems to be a major factor.

It is difficult to live in certain suburbs on a lower-middle class salary, be said, though some areas have less expensive housing.

Peter Harper of the Pure Oil Co., former president of the Northwest Industrial Council, traced the unskilled labor problem to the increasing number of industries that are moving to the suburbs.

In spite of the expanding suburban population, the industries need more workers than the area can supply, Harper said.

One company, which claims to have no problem with unskilled labor, is the Charles Bruning Co. in Mount Prospect.

A personnel director company said that a of its unskilled mute from Chicago eliminating any ficulty.

However, the company does face a shortage 'labor, he said.

The new Arlington Heights post office is expected to be completed by April of next year. The new building will handle mail for an estimated 90,00 living in three communities. It is designed to provide for community needs for the next 20 years.

Reunion Day

Elk Grove Kiwanis will celebrate Family Reunion Day, Aug. 11, with an outing at Ray's Follies, Twin Lake, Wis.

Kiwanis President Henry G. Ayasse and Village President Jack Pahl and their families have invited the area's families to join with the Kiwanis in a day that is set aside to promote family togetherness.

Meeting on Sewer Asked

with a completion date of July, 1969.

HOWEVER, MSD officials bundled the $1 million college sewer project in its 1968-69 budget together with other sanitary jobs.

When the MSD submitted a $15 million request to the legislature on July 22 to cover several projects, including the Harper sewer, the request was denied.

This unexpected event left college officials hanging because they do not funds to construct the sewer themselves. The sanitary district has offered to reimburse the college if a way is found to install the sewer now.

"It is certainly my feeling the taxpayers in our district should not have to pay for the sewer. The Metropolitan Sanitary District should," Lahti said.

Youth Hurt In Collision

Thomas Dapper, 15, of 950 E. Haven Rd. Arlington Heights was treated for arm injuries at the Northwest Community Hospital yesterday and was released, according to police.

He was a passenger of the car driven by Mrs. Francis Dapper, 48, his mother. Her car struck a car driven by Ralph Fockler, 16, of 1719 Martin Ln., Mount Prospect.

The accident occurred at the corner of Busse Rd. and Central Rd.

Campus 10 Days Behind

Contractors working on the new Harper College construction site are only 10 days behind schedule, architect Robert Fridstein told the college board of trustees Thursday.

Fridstein said the 10-day deficit is not crucial and attributed the job progress to the "critical path" method of scheduling.

Such scheduling is plotted and computerized with difficulties fed to a computer for solution when they arise, Fridstein said.

He praised the co-operation among architects, Harper administrators and contractors in blending what he termed "the ideal situation" for keeping the construction on schedule after one year of progress on the project.

Fridstein said a little more than 37 per cent of the total $12,246,046 construction contract has been spent and 47 per cent of the building time has elapsed.

The six college buildings now under construction at Algonquin and Roselle Rds. are scheduled for September, 1969 occupancy. These buildings are: the college center, power and maintenance, art wing, science, lecture-demonstration center, and learning resources center (library and visual aids).

Two School Districts to Join In Hiring Centers Director

BY RICHARD CRABB

Arlington Heights Elementary School District 25 last night approved the hiring of a joint director for teacher and student centers.

The appointment already tentatively approved by High School District 214, establishes a new level of cooperation between the two school districts, which could lead to a permanent and expanded joint effort in behalf of teacher and student services provided by the two districts for the schools of the northwest suburbs. Until now the two centers have been maintained in different locations and under differnt directors.

As a result of decisions made earlier this year, the two service centers soon will be housed together in the District 25 building on Miner in Arlington Heights. The building formerly was used by the village's memorial library. The instructional resources center, established and maintained by the high school district for the schools of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships, has been housed in Elk Grove High School. The dianostic learning center, established and maintained by District 25 for the schools in the same four townships, also has been located in the high school.

BY THE action last night, District Supt. Donald Strong was authorized to enter into agreement with District 214 by which Stephen D. Berry will become director of both the instructional resource center and the diagnostic learning center. Berry has been director of the District 214 instructional center. Under the new arrangement, Berry will be director of both centers with an associate director in direct charge of each.

Both centers are Title III federal programs, federally supported pilot programs for developing new services. Title III programs are for specific periods, and both of these programs will end on June 30, 1969.

The instructional resource center produces classroom teaching aids which are not commercially available for schools in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg townships. The diagnostic learning center offers the schools in the same townships a facility for working with children who have learning problems. The children are tested and recommendations are made in much the same manner as a physician examines a child and writes a prescription for medicine or treatment. Robert Bright had been director of the learning center from the time it was established until he resigned to become superintendent of the Wonder Lake School District in Lake County.

Berry will devote his full time to managing both centers. Some of his duties will be: planning for the future development of the centers after the federal support ends next June 30; supervising communication; directing the implementation of policy developed by the sponsoring districts; evaluating both programs, and securing additional funding sources for the maintenance and future development of the centers.

THE DISTRICT 25 board received a report Wheeling Township who handles the public schools in Township. The board ed about the investm funds. All tax funds school districts flow the hands of the treasurer of schools, P. Roth, the report When tax funds come rapidly than funds are used, the treasurer securities so that being received until money is used.

For example, on million dollars was over to District 25 Wheeling tax collector, the district uses Roth invests the funds now invested cent interest while pays only 4 per cent on funds borrowed.

The District 25 board adopted rules and regulations changes last night. One change involved teachers resigning before the end of the school year. A resignation will be accepted only when a situation "arises which was not reasonably foreseeable at the time of contract signing which offers an individual a and distinct professional and/or personal opportunity," according to the new policy.

VFW Post To Sponsor Fish Fry

The Arlington Heights Post 981, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will sponsor a fish fry tonight from 5 to 8 p.m. in the post hall at 811 N. Yale, Arlington Heights.

A fish fry will be scheduled for following Friday night. Cost is $1.25 a person for an "all you can eat" dinner. Shrimp and hamburgers also will be available.

Candy Sticks In Throat Of Boy, 2

Two-year-old Timmy Kellner, 317 S. Emerson, Mount Prospect, was taken to Holy Family Hospital yesterday when a piece of candy lodged in his throat.

He managed, however, to swallow the candy before he arrived at the hospital.

Circus Still Works Magic

Obituaries

Jerome V. Sanner

Jerome V. Sanner, a pioneering developer of Pure Oil's Truck Stop died Wednesday in West Palm Beach, Fla. at the age of 65.

Sanner began his career as a trainee and later became commercial sales manager of a Cleveland based oil company. By 1943, he had accumulated 100 outlets of his own and was vice president, and later president, of Interstate Motor Freight System, then the nation's leading trucking firm.

Restaurant Requests License To Serve Liquor with Meals

A special type of liquor license is being requested by the owners of Evans Restaurant, 113 S. Emerson, Mount Prospect.

Last year the owners applied for a regular license to sell alcoholic beverages, but were turned down. This year they are asking for a special license to permit them to sell liquor only with dinners.

The application has been given to the village's finance committee to consider. The committee will make a recommendation to the board of trustees.

There are 22 liquor licenses now in Mount Prospect. Each license has to be created by the board of trustees. These cover establishments which sell packaged liquors over the counter, drinks over a bar or in a restaurant, and or both.

But none of the licenses created by the trustees so far require an establishment to sell drinks only with meals, as is requested by the Evans' owner.

The request is patterned after a type of license suggested in the Illinois State ordinances, according to Mayor Daniel Congreve, who also is village liquor commissioner.

If the trustees see fit to create a new liquor license in the village, it is up to Congreve whether it is issued.

CO-OWNER of Evans Restaurant, George Mourousias, said yesterday that, if such a license were created and issued to him, he would install a service bar in the dining room section of the building, but that no liquor would be served in the coffeeshop section.

"Many of our customers have asked why Evans doesn't serve drinks," Mourousias said.

Congreve said that, if the village trustees were to create a new liquor license to accommodate Evans' request, the special type mentioned would be the best type.

It avoids the possibility of creating just another bar, according to Congreve.

"If we don't get a license this year," Mourousias said, "We'll try again next year. We'll keep after them."

Car Hits Street Light

A small gas street light in front of 1539 N. Kennicott was knocked down sometime Wednesday by an unknown vehicle, Arlington Heights police said.

The vehicle, apparently south-bound on Kennicott, went up on the parkway at 1537 N. Kennicott just missing a tree and knocking a street light down.

The vehicle continued southbound across the property at 1535 N. Kennicott before turning back into the street, police said.

Dialogue

... with George Hamilton

"You know, every once in a while I wish I was back in the Navy."

"What brings that on? An urge to be back on the tossing sea?"

"Don't say that word, tossing. I joined the submarine service because being on top of the water made me seasick.

"What I'm referring to is the plays and movies and TV shows that tell of the good times we had in the service."

"You had a good time in the Navy?"

"Well, I didn't think so at the time, but now it doesn't seem so bad. Anyway, I saw a play about the Navy the other night that was the best one I've seen all year and it brought back some of the carefree days."

"Carefree days in a submarine?"

"We had a few, believe it or not. But this play isn't about submarines. It's 'The Golden Fleecing,' with Larry Hagman, who plays a lieutenant from a ship that has a computer..."

"Who's Larry Hagman?"

"You know, he's the star of the TV show, 'I Dream of Jeannie."

"Oh yes, he plays the part of an astronaut who finds a bottle that contains a genie named Jeannie. Isn't he related to someone else in show business?"

"Mary Martin. She's his mother."

"Peter Pan? I can't believe it."

"You'd better believe it. But to get back to the play, at Pheasant Run Playhouse in St. Charles, I have to recommend it.

"There's these two Navy officers, played by Hagman and Dan Conway, and a civilian scientist, played by David Whitaker, who get the idea of using their ship's missile guidance computer to beat the roulette tables in Venice while their ship is visiting that city.

"In the process of doing so, they rent an expensive hotel suite in Venice, Hagman gets involved with the admiral's daughter, played by Fawne Harriman and Whitaker revives a romance with pretty but nearsighted Terri Edwards.

"Conway keeps busy trying to buy model ships made of glass for his wife, and ending with boxes of broken glass. Martin Moeller is typical and hilarious as a Shore Patrolman.

"But one of the important roles is that of the admiral, played by a familiar theatre actor and one of my favorites, Bill Morey, who gets drawn into the action of winning at roulette.

"I'm sorry, but I can't help not noticing your restlessness. Am I boring you?"

"No, but you've recalled some 'good old days.' I'm trying to decide whether to see the play or reenlist in the Navy, or both."

Peterson to Head Elk Grove High's Bands

Douglas E. Peterson of Arlington Heights has replaced Terry J. Blackley as director of bands at Elk Grove High School.

Peterson is a graduate of Drake University, where he took both his bachelor's and master's degrees in music education. Between 1959 and 1962, he was the private brass instructor at Drake. He also was the principal trombonist with the Des Moines Symphony Orchestra and the Des Moines Municipal Band.

Prior to coming to High School District 214, Peterson served Iowa's Southeast Polk Consolidated School District as co-ordinator and director of instrumental music.

His experience in District 214 consists of two years as assistant band and choral director at Wheeling High School. Though he worked with all choral groups, his special emphasis was the Girls Glee Club and the Nota-Ables, a girls' jazz singing group.

In his new assignment, he will be responsible for Elk Grove High's Symphonic Band, the Concert Band, a 120-piece marching band and a 25-piece jazz band. In addition, Peterson will teach a humanities course at the school.

Presently, he is preparing Elk Grove's bandsmen for a jazz competition at the Illinois Sesquicentennial State Fair, which involves 15 bands from throughout the state. The contest will take place today.

Tail Light on a Horse

By Catherine O'Donnell

There was once an ordinance in Berea, Ohio that stated that any horse on the road or street after dark had to have a red light on its tail. The ordinance was removed in 1961 after much debate by the local council and much publicity in the national news media. It had been a law for 60 years.

There are a few local ordinances that can be compared to the horse's tail light one. Most pertinent at the moment is the matter of swimming pools.

It is difficult to understand why an above the ground pool should be subject to abolishment through a local law, because of safety features. If a pool is properly constructed, erected, inspected and guarded, it should certainly be a matter of personal preference and not subject to the voice of big brother deciding whether an individual has a freedom of choice.

THERE IS ANOTHER family that is probably the only family hoping that the warm weather continues. They are Dick and Carolyn Burkett of N. Harvard. They have been waiting six weeks to get a permit from the building department to build their pool.

The pool they plan is one they've dreamed about for years. They decided that instead of buying a summer house they'd build an indoor pool.

They reasonably figured that with the climate being what it is, it would be a good thing to enclose it so that they could use it all year around instead of two months during the summer.

The building department was stymied. It was as if they'd never seen a pool that was enclosed before. They'd had plenty of pool experience with the high rise buildings springing up like dandelions in the spring all over the landscape, but a private pool with easy year-around access was something new.

THE BURKETTS have one-half acre of land that will easily dwarf any building addition to their home. Dick's good golfing friend, architect Ed Borre, who has awards for designs all over his office, drew up the plans.

All systems were go but they were stopped by the building department, which sent the plans to the board of trustees for discussion.

The board delights in using the word esthetic. They've used it through all legalities from garbage pickup practice to downtown renewal.

What's more esthetic than families enjoying their pools in the ground, above the ground or in the house? The only pools that no one enjoys are the ones in the basements after rain storms.

THE RISING STAR OF LISBY PEEK

Lisby Peek is a pretty young gal who will be a senior at Arlington High School next month. She has a lovely singing voice, a dainty carriage and a real stage presence.

She was a natural for the choice of the lead in "Kiss Me Kate," the spring musical. She did a fine job in that. Before that she'd been in the chorus of other musicals.

During the three-day production, Lisby went for an audition at Loyola University's Damen Hall. There were 300 other eager, talented teenagers waiting to be heard.

THE CALL WAS for a television production on NBC through the Chicago outlet, WMAQ. It is called "New Performers."

The cast consists of 26 of the most talented in acting, singing and dancing. By noon there were only 50 left at the audition and by 6 p.m. there were the 26, including six featured players.

Lisby was one of the latter. Her accompaniment was played by pianist Lynns Whiting. Lisby will sing two of the original show songs written by Lloyd Norlin with music by Dan Schuffman.

The show has been rehearsed, taped and the performance will be at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 12 on Channel 5. Lisby will sing one solo called "Why?" Her other number will be "Parents" which she will do as a member of a trio.

THE AUDITIONS opened up a wide, wonderful world for the pretty miss from Arlington Heights. She will be a guest on a talk show with host Bob Hale and she has won a $500 scholarship to the college of her choice. She has already planned to attend Kansas University and major in the performing arts.

Her family is very proud of her. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Merl Peek of S. Belmont.

Her big brother is Jeff, a Princeton senior and her sister is Emery who will be a junior at Arlington.

Eventually Lisby Peek will be a name in lights on a theatre marquee. She can hardly wait.

A Losing Conversation

BY BETTY CANARY

I keep checking the book lists for a directory of quick, harmless replies suitable for occasions when one is engulfed with that old "what-do-I-say-NOW?" feeling, but so far nobody seems to have one on the market.

I am certain such a book would prove to be a best seller and if you know anybody writing a guide entitled "Useful Retorts and Innocuous Answers," I certainly would like a copy.

FOR EXAMPLE, what does one say when the boy who went buoyantly after his driver's license comes home droning, "I failed the tests, I failed it."

After praising a child's painting, what does one say when in answer his mother says, "He has absolutely no talent and we have stopped giving him art lessons."

Oh, not that I am the innocent bystander. Usually I bait my own trap before walking into it.

LAST WEEK, for example, I exclaimed, "What happened to your finger, dear?" and, right back at me, my friend hurled the truth.

"My daughter-in-law slammed a cupboard door on it!" she said.

What do I say NOW? I wondered.

"MY GOODNESS," I said aloud, "Such a terrible accident."

"She did it on purpose," my friend replied.

"Must have been quite a shock," I stammered.

"Shock, nothing! Broken finger!"

"Heavens!" I said, trying to back out of the conversation. "I'm sorry I asked."

"I WAS TRYING TO be helpful and reached for some plates and she slammed the cupboard door and told me to get out of her kitchen," she explained.

"Well, I didn't mean to be so inquisitive," I apologized.

"Why couldn't she say politely, 'I don't care for any help'?"

"Sometimes young girls are thoughtless."

"My daughter-in-law is over 30!"

"PERHAPS SHE was a spoiled only child?"

"Nope. Has both brothers and sisters."

"Uneducated?" I asked hopefully. "Ignorant?"

"She received her doctorate several years ago."

What do I say NOW?

Sister Victoria, Policy Writer

BY MARILYN HELFERS
Women's Editor

Sister Victoria is affectionately known as "Vicki" to her co-office workers at Unigard Insurance Group (Northwestern Mutual Insurance Co.) in Arlington Heights.

Sister Victoria, of the School Sisters of St. Francis, is working for the summer in the company's policy writing department. She started on a part-time basis July 12, and July 29 when she had finished teaching Spanish summer school sessions at St. James Catholic Church in Arlington Heights, she became a full time summer employee.

The wages she receives she gives to her Provincial House in Chicago to be used mainly for the Sisters' retirement plan.

SISTER VICTORIA had taught in St. James parish from 1954-1963. She taught first grade for eight years and second grade for one year. This summer program for Spanish speaking in their summer program for Spanish speaking children.

The program helps pre-school children prepare for first grade and their First Communion.

While she was in the parish she visited many of the friends she had made during the years she taught in Arlington Heights. One of them, Maria Ptak, who is also an employee at Northwestern Mutual, told Sister Victoria that her office might need summer typists.

BEFORE THIS year the Sisters have always taught during the summer on one mission or another, usually remedial reading or arithmetic. But this summer we were given a list of places to which we could apply for summer work.

"We applied to the place of our choice, and if we were accpeted we could work there," said Sister Victoria.

"The list included positions as practical nursing teachers, proof readers, in hospitals, in orphanages, cooks for rectories, park work, recreation work and Spanish summer school," she said. "One of the Sisters is teaching driving.

"I called the company and spoke to William Wood, supervisor of operations, who told me to come in and fill out an application. I did, and was hired by William Wood, supervisor of operations," she said.

SISTER "VICKI" has been fully accepted at Northwest Mutual according to Mrs. Bea Schoonvelt, personel assistant. "She is a fantastic worker and an extremely good typist," said Mrs. Schoonvlet. "If we have the opportunity we will hire more Sisters like her next summer," she added.

Besides being an excellent worker, Sister Victoria, who prefers to be called "Vicki" in the office, has made her way into the hearts of her fellow employees.

"She joins in on our coffee breaks and lunch hour and no one feels ill at ease," said Mrs. Schoonvelt. "Sister Vicki has a sparkle and graciousness about her that makes everyone feel comfortable in her presence. We're really going to miss her when she leaves us to return to teaching in September," she said, "and she hasn't really been here that long."

In September, Sister Victoria will teach third grade at St. Maria Goretti in Schiller Park.

A $50,000 home can look like $30,000 or a million

Every Inverness homesite is at least an acre, no two homes alike

Where you build your home can make a big difference. In Inverness the natural contour of the rolling countryside determines the individual size, shape and character of every homesite. Each must be an acre or more to provide a spacious, private, natural setting for your home. And architectural restrictions assure that no one in the entire community can ever build a home like yours. This unique, 1850 acre countryside village provides a perfect setting for socializing, too. There's a 5-acre playfield with community house, a private country club with 18-hole golf course and swimming pool, tennis courts, stables and bridle paths —all within the village.

Sound expansive? The fact is, you can own a distinctive home on an acre or more homesite in this established community for no more than the cost of a "look alike" model home on a postage stamp lot. One acre minimum Inverness homesites represent an investment of $10,000 to $22,000 and can be purchased under liberal terms. When you're ready to build, knowledgeable architects and builders are available for consultation.

If your need is immediate, there are a number of individually designed homes for purchase. A portfolio of two to six bedroom homes in the $40,000-$100,000 price range are usually available for immediate occupancy due to transfers.

Drop in at our historic "4 Silo" Office and chat over an unhurried cup of coffee. Then take a delightful tour. The result is usually a very happy ending.

This original block print by Japanese artist Toyokuni, entitled "An Iris of the Gay House" is on display at the Sears Vincent Price Art Gallery, 140 E. Ontario, Chicago, Aug. 6-31. Toyokuni I (1769-1825) was a Japanese printmaker, one of the famous Ukiyo-e artists who, from the early 17th to the middle 19th century, created colorful popular prints illustrating scenes of everyday life in their "fleeting world." Toyokuni I, known familiarly as Kumakichi, had another professional name or psuedonym, Ichiyosai. This, plus the fact that many other artists of the period used his first name and imitated his style, helped to complicate his life and work for later scholars. A pupil of Toyoharu, Toyokuni I lived in Edo and was influenced by Itcho and Shun-ei. Said to be the originator of Azuma Nishikiye, Toyokuni I excelled in portrait, actor, landscape and genre subjects, and is especially well known for a series of standing actors.

E HEADQUARTERS cated on the campus of er church seminary in ddle of the West Side ghetto. In addition to gical reform, the in- is involved in an ex- ntal program in ghetto itation.

tenets of the institute's y are enough to shake most fundamentalists to the hem of their choir robes. EI does not hold with an afterlife. And the virgin birth it explains as "a gimmick of the time of the Caesars, a Good Housekeeping seal of approval on the conception of anyone important."

The lesson which EI hopes to inject into its weekend students is acceptance -- of death, but especially of life. The word that the church has to say about life, they say, is that all life is good, and that all associated with it is good because that is a part of life.

Therefore hurricanes are good; riots are good; cancer, warts, worn washrags and gnats are good.

Not enjoyable, and avoidable if possible, but good, just as the smell of sweat is not fun but part of participation in sports.

BUT IF LIFE IS GOOD, EI adds, living isn't easy. Living is toil and fear, frustration and annoyance. Recognition of this and acceptance of all, therefore become prime virtues.

Once unencumbered by false illusions of what he is and what life is, EI feels, modern man is free to live a life of commitment, to live intentionally, helping to shape and lead history, in the way that best benefits mankind.

"History," said one EI staff member, "is like a bunch of kids playing crack the whip. We want the church and the individuals in it at the front of the line giving the direction, instead of being flipped around at the rear."

A sort of spiritual fatalism emerges, a dedication to an ethical living of the moment, with no promises of reward. The theology of Ecumenical Institute would have modern man setting sail over the sewers of life aboard a raft of integrity.

CURIOUSLY, THE MAIN objection many churchmen have to the institute's teaching concerns not the message but the method.

The beginning course in EI theology offered on weedkends is a masterpiece of timing and presentation, right down to voice inflection and repetition of key words and phrases (you're going to die, going to die, going to die").

Those who come to one of the institute's centers for the course stay on the premises. It's no Sunday School picnic. It's a boot camp of the mind.

A battery of instructors trades off with one skillful, practiced presentation after another. Quickie lectures on the modern theologies of Niebuhr, Bultmann, Bonhoeffer and Tillich are interspersed with the poetry of D. H. Lawrence ("How Beastly the Bourgeoise Is"), discussion of an antiwar Picasso painting ("Guernica"), and the showing and almost scene-by-scene character analysis of the movie "Requiem for a Heavyweight."

ONE RESULT HAS BEEN cries of indoctrination and unreasonable dogmatism.

"They have taken a particular position developed in America in the '50s, related to existentialism, and brought with it a high personal commitment and related it to a sociological analysis of the city," says the Rev. John G. McEllhenney, Methodist minister of Philadelphia, Pa.

"This has some value, of course, because there is a meaninglessness about our society today. But, on the other hand, I find it objectionable to limit it to this approach, to say that now the questions of theology have been answered completely, and to attempt to push this down into the local parish."

"You get this feeling," said a staff member of the National Council of Churches in New York, "that they are convinced that they and they alone have the plan that will solve the problems of the church and the world."

A VISIT BY an EI contingent to Japan brought angry cries from a seminar participant there. Masao Takenaka, writing in the religious publication "Christian Century," stated:

"What took place showed little evidence of dialogue. Rather, we were given a one-sided teaching experience . . . a brainwashing exercise in indoctrination."

Institute staff members defend their technique from the standpoint of efficiency.

"WE ONLY HAVE 44 hours in which to get our message across," said one, "and we have to do it in the best way we can. If we had two weeks in which to say what we want to say, we'd be glad to do it that way, with open discussion and questioning."

r Albert W. Weidlich greets small members of his congregation who will be attending Lutheran Vacation Church School Aug. 12 through 23 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. The h is located at Euclid and Wolf Rds., Prospect Heights. Registration is open for children through 6th grade, at $2 per child. Pastor Weidlich is currently serving as Camp during Senior Youth Week, Aug. 4-10, at Camp Augustana on Lake Geneva.

Break Ground for New Units

king ground last Sunday for the new Arlington Heights lical Free Church building are, from left, Lincoln Hurst, chairman; the Rev. Eugene Ongna, pastor; Evert Hollen- trustee chairman and Earl Genn, building committee man.

Ground breaking ceremonies for the new sanctuary and educational units of the Arlington Heights Evangelical Free Church were held last Sunday, Aug. 4 at 3 p.m. The Rev. Eugene Ongna conducted the service which was attended by 168 members and friends at the new site on Belmont Av., between Thomas and Olive Sts. Village manager Rudy Hansen and the architect, Walter Kroeher, also took part in the ceremonies.

The church's new facilities are expected to be completed by Dec., 1969. At that time their present building at 404 N. Dunton will be turned over to the village.

Summer Session

The Summer Session of the Church School of The Lutheran Church of the Cross, 2025 S. Goebbert Rd., Arlington Hts., will be held August 12-23 from 9 a.m. to noon. The theme of this year's program is "God and His World," which will be carried out from the 3-year level through 6th grade.

Art classes will be instructed by Mrs. Donald Teuchert and Mrs. Richard Hale. Music will be under the supervision of Phillip May. Those assisting with pre-kindergarten classes are Mrs. John Vardico, Mrs. Robert Steinke, Mrs. Leroy Rodig and Mrs. John Schabow; and kindergarten, Mrs. Levi Holmes, Mrs. Richard Krautsack, Mrs. Donald Nettles, and Mrs. Kent Williams.

First and 2nd graders will study "Gifts of God" with Mrs. James Wallgren, Mrs. Charles Storin, Mrs. John Cornwell, Mrs. Bruce Haupt and Mrs. Carl Dahlquist teaching. Mrs. Thomas Wuerffel, Mrs. Robert Blohm and Mrs. Gene Peterson will instruct 3rd and 4th grades and Mrs. Arthur Havlic and the Rev. Larry D. Cartford will emphasize "God and the Universe" for grades 5 and 6.

All children of the community are invited to attend this Summer Session. Enrollment will be taken Monday morning before opening exercises.

'The Bible' Study Theme

Plans are in full swing for Vacation Church School at the First Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights. It will run from Aug. 12-23, daily from 9-11:30 a.m.

Ruth Dobbins will direct the school this year assisted by Cathy Dillon. "The Bible" will be the study theme, a continuance of a program used throughout this year. Activities of special interest including arts, crafts, and music directed by Lynn Jessen will be offered along with coordinated field trips.

Registration will be held on August 11 in the Narthex of the Church and in the gym the first day. Tuition will be $1 per child or $2 a family.

Rummage Sale

A Rummage Sale, sponsored by the St. Peter Lutheran Dorcas Aid, will be held on Friday, Aug. 23 in the school gymnasium at 111 W. Olive, Arlington Heights. Sale hours are from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m.

Arlington Swimmers Place 4th in Conferen

BY LINDA GAMMILL
Sports Editor

The best finish of the four area teams entered in the Northern Illinois Swim Conference meet Tuesday and Wednesday was that of Doug Rice's Arlington crew which racked up 148 points to come in fourth.

The top three teams, Northbrook, which won the season-ending meet with 311½ points, Park Ridge aith 244½, and Glenview with 184½, all received trophies for their efforts at the Glenbrook South High School pool.

THE CONFERENCE meet was composed of swimmers from 16 teams ranging from as far away as Lombard and Elmhurst. There were 1,600 swimmers vying for the chance to compete in the conference meet which was the finale of the three division meets held last Wednesday, July 31.

Marsha Kaipus kept the Arlington club in the running with three individual first-place ribbons. Marsha won the 13-14 girls 50-yd backstroke event, and then stepped out of her own age group to win both the 15 and over girls 100-yd freestyle and 100-yd individual medley.

Winning also for Arlington was Kathy Dalton in the 13-14 girls 50-yd breaststroke and the 100-yd individual medley; Ed Laue who tied for first in the 13-14 boys 50-yd backstroke; Fred Schmidt in the 15 and over boys 200-yd individual medley; Sandy Gabler in the 11-12 girls 50-yd butterfly; and Patti Wollerman who won the 15 and over girls 100-yd backstroke "by a wide margin" according to Rice.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS placed sixth behind Barrington by only six points. Barrington had an even 100, and Jay Magnuson's tankers compiled 94 markers. Winning first places for Prospect Heights were Nancy Morava in the 14 and under girls diving and Don Cashmore in the 15 and over mixed diving.

Magnuson's 11-12 girls relay team of Janice Takata, Cathy Rodgers, Jan Lesniak and Carol Geisler also placed first.

SEVENTH-PLACE Mount Prospect with 92 points had only one first place ribbon winner in Jemma Allen who won the 9-10 girls 25-yd backstroke.

Charlie Mondi's Rolling Meadows representatives followed right behind Mount Prospect in eighth place, but they had more first place ribbons than any area team except Arlington. They started off with a win in the 15 and over boys medley relay as Bill Geiser, Jim Spears, Bill McCaffrey and Gene O'Hara swam for the ribbon.

Young Tom Stahnke bested the field in the 8 and under 25-yd butterfly and freestyle races and his sister Sue, competing in the 11-12 girls 50-yd breaststroke, also took a first place for Mondi.

, Marsha Kalpus of the Arlington Heights swim mandeered three wins in the Northern Illinois Swim meet this week. She won the 13-14 girls 50-yd and then stepped out of her own age group to and over girls 100-yrd freestyle and 100-yd individ McCaffrey took first in the 15 and over 100-yd backstroke, while relay teammate Spears was busy tying for first in the 15 and over 100-yd breaststroke. Mate won the 13-14 boys yd freestyle to com Meadows squad's victories.

IHSA Grid Practice Date Se

Football practice for member schools of the Illinois High School Association officially gets under way on Wednesday, Aug. 21.

Some schools will issue equipment and arrange to have players take their required physical examinations at an earlier date but under the rules of the association, no school may organize or practice its team before the second Wednesday preceding Labor Day.

Players must have engaged in a minimum of 90 minutes of actual field prac each of 14 days preceding first interschool scrimmage and no school play its opening than Friday, Sept. 13 year.

These rules were by the members of the association for the of the players and to equality in compsliti among the schools.

This fall approxim high schools belonging IHSA will participate in ball.

LEGAL NOTICES

Community Consolidated School District 59 will accept sealed bids on towel service for four Junior High schools. Specifications and further information may be obtained Friday, August 9, 1968 at the School Service Center, 2525 South Clearbrook Drive, Arlington Heights, Illinois.

Papas Clubbed the Mamas Last Night

e the fact that she eventually struck out, Becky Zinda all into trying to hit the ball in one of the few women's hardball games in the nation. Becky, a substitute the Papas, was at a disadvantage as she was playing with league housewives several years her senior.

Mama pitcher and manager Levada Madsen sizes up a Papa batter in last night's women's regulation hardball game in Buffalo Grove. Levada, who organized the league, was unable to subdue the Papas as the Mamas lost the bout, 4-1. The players all housewives from the north unincorporated area of Arlington Heights played their first game last night. (Photos by Curt Wilson)

Above--Vivian Clitzska, who turned in a fine mound performance for the Papas last night in a unique exhibition of women's hardball gets set to hurl another strike against the Mamas. Vivian was credited with the win after four innings of play when mosquitoes and darkness necessitated the immediate curtailment of the action.

Lead-off man Mike Abinanti drilled a grounder past Fabrizio's outstretched glove to get the two-run outburst off the ground, and was moved to second moments later when John Wendell worked Gober for a walk.

Kenny stepped to the plate and took a hefty cut at a fastball, only to see the handle of the bat travel to the edge of the infield dirt while the ball bounded slowly on the grass. Kenny managed to beat the throw to first, loading the bags with Lions.

MIKE O'DONNELL then connected for a ground single that scored Abinanti from third while keeping the bases packed. A neat squeeze bunt off the bat of Dan Miksta produced the final run of the night for the Lions, as Gober got the next two batters to escape further harm.

The roof finally caved in on Kenny in the sixth inning with Lane connecting for three triples and a pair of singles to score four runs and put the game out of the reach of Logan Square.

Nomellini's club resumes action Saturday afternoon with a 3 o'clock contest at the St. Viator diamond and then winds up the season on Sunday with a doubleheader at Kankakee.

PITCHER PROTECTION

Would you believe the Baltimore Orioles are being babied? When a reporter visited the Florida training camp, he found the trainer busy ordering gallons of baby oil. His question brought the response, "to protect the pitchers against wind or raw weather."

There'll be a Roughhouse® in our store today.

Come in and try to destroy new Roughhouse kitchen carpet.

New Roughhouse is grape juice-proof, bicycle-proof and muddy paw-proof.

You can squash peas on it, Indian wrestle on it, and drop forks on it.

You can even walk on it.

Roughhouse takes it all, with just the help of a vacuum cleaner and a damp sponge. No scrubbing, no waxing.

Besides taking it, Roughhouse dishes out softness, warmth and luxury, in a variety of patterns and colors to fit every kitchen style.

Great, too, for Family Rooms, Halls, Entrances, Stairs ... ANYWHERE!

Roughhouse.

FOR SATURDAY

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) - Keep to customary Saturday routine if you would have this a day that comes off well. Added caution advised even for routine chores.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) - Where real estate is concerned, postpone a decision if possible. This is a day when you could land in financial trouble.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) - The wise Libra will put business or professional matters from his mind. A good day for pleasure with the family.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) - You can socialize with ease if you make up your mind to it. A bit of effort in this direction now can mean much to you later.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) - The quick decision will only lead to the rash action. Take care how you use harsh words; they may return to haunt you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) - Don't be disappointed if you lose out in a matter of personal conflict between you and a loved one. Generally a good day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) - The more able you are to avoid discord with associates, the more likely you are to reap rewards tomorrow.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) - The indecisiveness of others must not be allowed to interfere with your own progress, especially on the home front.

ARIES (March 22-April 20) - You should be able to heal the hurt feelings of friends and family by the application of tact. Soft soap will cleanse wounds.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) - Take care that you are not premature in announcing your decision regarding change. Be certain of your own position.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) - A restful weekend is made or ruined by what you do with the morning hours. Make every effort to avoid conflict with others.

CANCER (June 23-July 23) - Major interests would be better off put aside for the time being. Hobbies more or less unimportant to you should be pursued.

How Much Rain? Now We'll Know

RICHARD CRABB

ners in the Arlington area no longer must reports of rainfall
d at Midway Airport, where the Weather Bureau makes its official reading for the Chicago area.

Especially in the summer, it is possible to have a major rain in the northwest suburbs without any rain falling at Midway; but the village now has its own electronic rain recording instrument located at the north side fire station on Arlington Heights Rd.

THE GADGET installed there by the Metropolitan Sanitary District is so sophisticated that it records by the day and hour when there is no rain and reports any rainfall literally "by the minute," day or night.

The receiving receptacle is bolted down on the roof of the fire station.

Electronic reports are constantly recorded on a paper disc, down on the first floor of the station.

With the reports, it is possible to compute not only the amount of rainfall for any month but the exact number of minutes that rain fell during the month.

In the month of July just past, rainfall in Arlington Heights amounted to 3.19 inches.

Rain fell on only five days during the month.

The heaviest rain fell on July 24, when the total amounted to 1.56 inches. There was a rainfall of .91 of an inch on July 18 and .65 of an inch on July 22.

They was .02 of an inch on July 5 and .05 on July 30.

NOW FOR the closer look.

The big rain on July 24 began falling at 8:50 p.m. July 23 and continued with interruptions until 8:05 a.m. on the next day.

Most of the rainfall occurred in three short periods:

Almost .40 of an inch of rain fell in 20 minutes after 8:50 p.m. The second heavy rain began at 12:37 a.m. on July 24, with .45 of an inch falling in half an hour.

Another shower began a few minutes after 2 a.m., with .55 of an inch of rain coming down in about 40 minutes.

Rainfall in June totalled 4.13 inches. Rains came on 11 days, but nearly half the rain occurred the night of June 24-25.

In May, Arlington Heights rain totalled 3.02 inches. Rain fell on 10 different days, but one shower on May-6 brought 1.05 inches of rain.

There has been no day like June 10, 1967, since the rain recording equipment has been operating in northwest Cook County.

A deep black cloud moved in from the west on the afternoon of Saturday, June 10.

Rain began shortly after 4 p.m.

In 60 minutes, just under five inches of rain fell on the roof of the fire station.

Rapp is reading the electronic rain gauge at the northside fire station in Arlington Heights. trument records by the day and minute when there is no rain, as well as the day and minute in is falling. During the month of July, 3.19 inches fell during five different days. On June 67, almost five inches of rain fell in 60 minutes between 3:45 and 4:45 in the afternoon. The picture shows Jack Nieniec checking on the weather teletype. Reports come in every hour, and sely during emergencies.

DeSoto Chemical to Open Offices

DeSoto Chemical, Inc., has leased a 5,000 square foot building on a 12,950 square foot site at 8[illegible] Nicholas Blvd. in Centex North, Elk Grove Village.

Jerry Sigman of Gladstone Realty, Des Plaines, was sole broker in the transaction. Sam Gottlieb represented J. R. Gottlieb & Co., the developer.

Other transactions for industrial property were announced this week.

An undisclosed purchaser bought 92,341 square feet of land at Golf Rd., west of Arlington Heights Rd. in Arlington Heights. The listed price of the property was $80,000. Sigman represented the seller in the deal and Jack Whisler of Nelson Realty represented the purchaser.

Also announced was the sale of 23,150 square feet of land in Devon-O'Hare Industrial Park to M.E.A., Inc. The company now is located on Wabash in Chicago. The land was purchased as a site for an office building and warehouse. Sigman represented the purchaser and Dan Foster represented William C. McLennan Co., the developer.

The A. J. Maggio Construction Co. has purchased 80,000 square feet of land in Elmhurst-Algonquin Industrial Park, Unit 2. The company plans to build general offices and shops on the site. The sale price of the land was about $60,000.

SIGMAN represented the purchaser and Ralph Gerstenfeld represented the developer, Kenroy, Inc.

Another site, consisting of 51,680 square feet, was bought by the William A. Duguid Co. in the Elmhurst-Algonquin Industrial Park. The company is to locate office, shop and warehouse facilities on the land.

The sale price of the tract was about $35,000. Sigman represented the purchaser and Gerstenfeld represented the developer, Kenroy, Inc.

Summer Is Season To Consider Heating

Now's the time to think of swimming, lemonade, air conditioning and vacation. Right?

Wrong. You should also be thinking about your indoor heating system, says the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council.

The council -- the area's education-information center for the hydronic (hot water) industry -- said that summer is the ideal time to service a home heating plant.

You and your family never have to do without heat on a cold wintry day next year, if you have the heating contractor adjust the controls and clean the boiler during the summer instead of in the winter.

You also receive quicker service from the contractor during the summer months. In the winter, when you need him the most, he may be too busy answering emergency calls.

Not only is performance and reliability improved with annual heating plant service, but there are economic gains as well. Fuel bills can be much lower with properly maintained, adjusted and cleaned equipment.

Such precautions should produce a maintenance-free, worry-free winter.

New Booklet Offers Hints To Homemakers

Helpful hints for home handymen are featured in a free booklet offered by Masonite Corporation.

It tells what to do and what not to do in using hardboard panels for remodeling or constructing built-ins. In addition, there are easy-to-understand drawings showing construction of shelves, interior partitions, sliding doors and cabinets.

Also there is a selection of free plans from a long, illustrated list.

For a free copy of Form 6544-3A, send a postcard to Masonite, Box B, Chicago, Ill. 60690.

City to Get $44,739 Refund

Des Plaines has been allotted $44,739 as its share of the Motor Fuel Tax paid into the state treasury during June, according to the Department of Public Works and Buildings.

The state's total for the month was $7,985,002.

William Vao Wazer of 1320 W. Sigwalt and J. B. Williams of 1103 Belmont in Arlington Heights, hold a tray and a knife sharpener, prizes which they won at the recent golf outing of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland at St. Andrews golf course. Most the 100 prizes were won by some of the 400 builders, suppliers to the building industry and their guests.

Lots on Man-Made Lake Selling Out

There soon won't be any lots available on Wisconsin's biggest man-made recreation lake, according to the developers.

Elmer Swanson, Jr., sales manager of the Branigar Organization, Inc. said:

"By this fall, we expect to sell the last of the 1,600 homesites around Lake Redstone."

The lake is located in La Valle, not far from the dells. Lake Redstone's claim to fame is its size and natural beauty.

The lake is 4½ miles long and its landscape is similar to that of the nearby Wisconsio dells area.

Nearly 1,400 of the lots already have been sold, and more than 100 homes are up or under construetion. Lake Redstone was opened in 1965. Prices of the lots range from about $1,600 to $8,500, depending on the size and location.

Some are along sandy beaches, while others are located amid scenic, rocky bluffs. Lot sizes vary from one-half acre to nearly three acres.

According to Swanson, there are also several parcels of commercial property available along the lake.

These include a marina site, a supper club site, and a ski hill site which contains 195 acres along the lake.

Lake Redstone, a 2,350 acre development, was created by damming one end of a spring-fed valley, and filling the 42-foot deep lake to a predetermined seeolc shoreline level.

This created 17½ miles of shore consisting of hundreds of bays and coves.

Branigar makes the land available for sale in sections consisting of a selection of various types of homesites. This assures that a wide choice of lots are available in each section.

The last six sections have just been opened.

The property office at Lake Redstone is open daily.

generally are not to be. They're y things you as a kid. The modern ones are available in hundreds of types and most of them have a sleek, new look.

Not only is there the familiar wheel, there also is the ball caster, literally a full ball that revolves in a socket for a smooth ride.

You can find casters made of rubber, crystal-clear plastic and metal. There's even a slant wheel caster that looks crazy but makes sense as it rolls along quite smoothly.

If you want rigidity and mobility; there are locking casters. Use these for a power tool stand which you want absolutely rigid when you are working.

Casters can be mounted in a variety of ways. Some mount in sockets. Others have flat plates. Some can go on pipe or tubing.

THE STEM caster is quite familiar. Use this type on anything with slender legs. Drill a hole long enough for the stem, insert a metal sockat and then slip the stem in. Always use a metal socket. It is more durable and the caster can be pulled out and another put in its place quickly.

You can get special sockets consisting of a socket with a metal plate. Use this type on the inside of the wood facing around the bottom of a chest. Some plates are flat, others can be had that fit in a corner.

There are threaded casters, too. Some come with a lag screw stem. Others have a bolt head that will take a nut. The lag screw stem can be run into a leg too thin to take a socket. The nut and bolt can be used on thin, flat stock.

Aside from permanent casters and that set of caster dollies, take advantage of other wheels in moving heavy objects.

The ordinary two-wheel hand truck, used in garages, warehouses and stoves, is a handy thing to have around the house. There are light weight jobs available for home use. Slide the platform under the object, lean back slightly and you are on your way.

Variety of 'City' Trees Available

The number of good shade trees suited for city landscapes may seem to be limited.

Each tree considered has some kind of drawback. The elm has Dutch elm disease; sycamore trees, anthracnose; and pin oaks have chlorosis or yellow leaf.

Fortunately, each of these problems has a remedy. Dutch elm disease and sycamore anthacnose for example are controlled by spraying in spring with suitable materials. So affective are these control measures that the elm tree is still being planted in selected locations in Chicago.

LESS WELL understood by the layman is the control of yellow leaf in pin oak. The condition is recognized as a yellow-green or chartreuse leaf color.

It starts at the branch tips and continues through the entire tree.

In early stages, leaf veins may be dark green against a light green background. If the condition persists over a period of years, death of branches and finally death of the entire tree occurs.

This condition is corrected by treating the tree with iron. Although other plants in the area may be growing well, pin oaks show this problem because they need an unusual amount of iron. Grandfather had an approach to this iron problem but he never went far enough. Rusty nails, regardless of the number, will not supply the needed iron.

THE MODERN approach to treating larger trees is to apply chelated iron, iron sulfate, or iron phosphate. These materials are injected into quarter inch holes which are placed in rings a foot apart up and down the trunk. The number of holes depends on the size of the tree and the amount of material to be injected.

Each tree will need one-sixth ounce of material per inch of trunk diameter. After application, plug each hole with a wood sliver or dowel and apply tree paint. Treatment may be made at any time. However, last summer applications will not correct the condition until the following year.

This application should be effective for up to eight years, if the condition is not too advanced.

Smaller trees may be sprayed with a solution made with one tablespoonful of chelated iron per gallon of water. This same solution may also be injected into the soil where it may be absorbed by the tree roots. Treatments with the solution are fast acting and effective for a year.

Warns Buyers and Lenders About Fraudulent Appraisals

Real estate investors and mortgage lenders were warned Monday to beware of paying fees or making loans based on forged or fraudulent real estate appraisals.

The warning against this kind of larceny spawned by tight money conditions was issued by Laurence Sando of Los Angeles, president of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers (AIREA).

It followed by only a few weeks a warning from the United States Securities and Exchange Commission against an associated type of real estate fraud that also has started to flourish as a result of tight mortgage money conditions.

THE SEC warning, on July 5, was directed against deceptive advertisement and various schemes purporting to obtain mortgage loan commitments for property owners and developers for which prospective borrowers are charged substantial advance fees but then fail to obtain satisfactory loans.

AIREA is a professional affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Sando's warning was prompted by an increasing number of instances in which unauthorized persons have been trying to use fraudulently the Institute's professional M.A.I. (Member of the Appraisal Institute) designation to deceive both prospective borrowers and mortgage lenders.

In one recent case he cited, a religious and educational institution in Virginia applied for a substantial mortgage loan on its church and school properties, based on an appraisal and a covering letter, in which an M.A.I. in Florida supposedly wrote that he had "reviewed" the appraisal and confirmed that the value of the property was in excess of $2 million.

When a lending organization in Nashville, Tenn., wrote to the M.A.I. for confirmation of his supposed "review," it turned out that he had never seen either the property or the appraisal, that he had never known the appraiser, and that the entire "review" letter and the M.A.I.'s purported signature on it were a forgery.

The prospective lender immediately cancelled its original plans to make the loan, but in this case then engaged another M.A.I. in the area to make a new appraisal on which it may base a subsequent loan.

Meanwhile, the church is trying to recover some $9,000 in fees which it had paid to the persons responsible for giving it the first appraisal and its fraudulent M.A.I. endorsement letter.

IN MICHIGAN and elsewhere, Sando reported, other appraisers have made false representations to clients that they were "candidates" in the extended process of meeting all of the many requirements before admission to the Appraisal Institute, and many have referred to having attended technical courses conducted by the Institute without mentioning the more revealing fact that they had failed to pass the examinations given at the conclusion of these courses.

Attendance at Institute courses is only one of many steps towards becoming an M.A.I.

In California early this year, Sando added, a large property was advertised for sale at a price described as "far below an appraisal by an M.A.I.," but when the name of the M.A.I. who supposedly made the appraisal was obtained it was not the name of any member of the institute.

The institute disapproves all advertising referring to values based on "M.A.I. appraisals," because without dates and more specific details such loose references are more apt to be misleading than informative.

Other non-members sometimes unjustifiably imply an association with the Institute that they do not have by including gratuitous statements in their appraisal reports to the effect that these have been made "in accordance with the standards required by the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers" -- a unilateral assertion that could be false or misleading unless the appraisal could be checked by representatives of the institute to verify that it did in fact conform to those standards.

Sando recommends that any property owner or prospective borrower or lender who has not dealt personally or directly with an M.A.I. should verify most thoroughly any appraisal or "review" or endorsement.

SANDO pointed out that such verification should cover not only the fact that the M.A.I. had made an appraisal of the particular property involved, and had signed a written report giving his estimate of its value, but also the date of that appraisal and the amount of his estimate of value that was given in that report.

Without such verification, the lender might make a large loan based on a doctored report, and only after a foreclosure, if then, discover that the appraisal in his file on which he had based his disastrous loan had been forged or fraudulently altered.

Playing Blocks Useful Not Only for Children

Playing with blocks isn't a child's game any more.

Architects, designers, builders have all used them for a long time to help their clients visualize proposed interior layouts.

If you find it difficult to understand blueprints or if the job you plan is too small to warrant having blueprints drawn up, then playing with blocks may easily solve your layout problem.

The next time you're strolling through the toy department of some store, keep your eye peeled for an old-fashioned assortment of wooden or even plastic cubes or oblongs.

Incidentally, if the youngsters are old enough to take an interest in your proposed remodeling or new installation in the room under consideration, you can add to the family fun by inviting their proposals by "playing with the blocks."

Final footnote is the best of all: moving the tiny squares around, beforehand, saves many a weary dragging of furniture from point to point, later.

David McCay & Associates, Inc. Realtors, has announced the appointment of Edward M. Joyce as sales consultant with their Des Plaines branch located at 600 W. Algonquin Rd. Vine-Covered Cottage Yields to Apartments

For many persons, the "vine-covered cottage by the side of the road" is being replaced in popularity by apartment colonies with swimming pools, social clubs, sauna baths, air conditioning, premium building products and floor plans that rival single-family homes, the Ponderosa Pine Woodwork Asso. convention was told recently.

Because of social, economic and population changes, 45 per cent of the projected 1.4 million housing starts in the U. S. this year should be apartments, according to Wes Wise, editor and associate publisher of Apartment Construction News, New York, speaking at the meeting of U. S. lumber and woodwork manufacturers.

He forecast construction of 750,000 units in multi-family buildings next year and as many as 950,000 units annually by 1970, which would double 1967 production.

"These goals are realistic because of strong demand and because the tax rise and federal budget cuts are making more mortgage money available to builders," the national trade magazine editor said.

THE WOODWORK producers were told that the apartment building trend stems from the following:

--A surge in the number of young people, members of the "Psychedelic Pepsi-Generation," who are natural apartment dwellers. "By 1985, there will be a need for 30 million housing units for the age group 20 to 34, which represents 60 per cent of the nation's total housing inventory as of today."

--The birth control pill, which allows childless young marrieds to enjoy the freedom of apartment living for a longer span of years than previous generations. The national birth rate is now at an all-time low.

--An increase in the percentage of single-person households, in all age groups.

--Older folks whose children have left their single-family homes and who desire the leisure of no-maintenance living in luxury apartments and townhouses.

--Continuous growth of urbanized areas, forcing higher housing density to achieve economic land use. "By 1985, more than 60 per cent of a vastly expanded population will live in cities or suburbs, compared to 50 per cent now."

--Rising costs of construction labor, forcing single-family homes out of reach for many families.

--New government programs of subsidizing housing finance for inner-city, low-income families.

--Marked improvement in design and quality, including apartment communities with nursery schools, tot yards, teen clubs and other facilities for children.

The market is so favorable that numerous single-family home builders are switching to apartment development, Wise said.

About 70 per cent of new apartments are in garden-type structures, with the balance in high-rise, the convention in Montreal was told.

'Escrow' Need Not Frighten Buyer

Whether you're buying or selling a house, there comes a time when a third party looms as the most important factor in the deal.

That's the escrow holder and it need not be an individual. It can be a bank, title insurance firm, or other agencies entitled by law. Attorneys frequently perform the function.

Don't let the strange sound of the word "escrow" disturb you, with nightmares of legal complications.

"Escrow" derives from an old French word, meaning a scroll, or roll of writings. Most legal documents were originally written on parchment and rolled up for filing. In time they came to get specific names. The term "escrow" came to indicate that, when conditions are spelled out in an escrow agreement between seller and buyer, the party agreed upon by both seller and buyer to be holder of the escrow would then have the duty to see that all provisions were fulfilled to complete the transaction.

Both buyer and seller benefit against possible complications. And the mechanical work and time of closing the deal is borne by the escrow holder.

A lifelong resident in this area, Ed has a life time of experience in business. Ed works hard for his many clients and for his fine family consisting of Ruth, his wife, sons Allen, who's in the Air Force, and Eddie Jr. and daughters Janis and Susan.

He is an Elder at St. Peter Lutheran Church in Schaumburg and active in many other civic projects.

Ed Busse was one of the founders of MAP Multiple Listing Service and was its first President. He is a past director of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

A third generation resident of the Arlington and Mt. Prospect area, Bill attended St. James Elementary School and Arlington High School before receiving his degree from Knox College in 1941. After service with the Armed Forces during World War II, Bill returned and with his partner founded Annen & Busse Realtors in 1949. Since 1949, Bill has been a member of the National and local Realtors Board. Questioned as to the reason for the tremendous growth of Annen & Busse Realtors, Bill answered, "it's rather simple, just choose a partner who thrives on work and build a sales staff of the very best people"!

The Annens - Bill, wife Pat and daughters Madonna and Debora reside at 801 S. Elm in Mt. Prospect and are members of St. Raymond's Church.

IT'S GREAT TO HAVE A PROFESSIONALLY QUALIFIED FRIEND IN THE PICTURE...

On page 1196 of the most popular modern unabridged dictionaries you can find a definition of the word "Realtor." It could be said that this is a case of a "best seller" within a "best seller." Through the years, the dictionary remains a best seller among books, and when it comes to real estate, the members of the Northwest Board of Realtors are the "best sellers" in the business. Operating under a long established code of business ethics, backed by years of experience and equipped to offer valuable assistance in any real estate transaction, your Realtor is the man to see for fast, efficient and satisfying help in any real estate matter.

RETAIL
OSCO DRUG

In less than 6 years we have grown to over 65 stores in the Chicago metropolitan market ... new stores now being built with emphasis in Northwest areas.

One significant reason for this continued growth has been our fortune in attracting capable young men who have the drive and ability to assume substantial responsibility in an extremely short span of time.

Some of the characteristics of our successful management candidates are:
... wants a situation that provides an entrepreneurial environment.
... has or is completing his college education.
... is under 30.
... has progressed in his overall business career, but his present assignment is static.
... enjoys the demands of people - development.
... earns a salary around $7,800 per year.
